TRF Jump Rope for Heart is scheduled for Saturday

Students in Thief River Falls will be participating in Jump Rope for Heart, an event that emphasizes the benefits of aerobic exercise in fund raising fashion, in the Franklin Middle School gym Saturday beginning at 11 a.m.

Jump Rope for Heart promotes cardiovascular fitness and reinforces the need for a quality exercise program, while raising funds for the American Heart Association-Minnesota Affiliate in its battle against heart disease.

Serving as the program's honorary chairman is the Minnesota Vikings' Henry Thomas. Scott Brekke, Myron Peterson and Howard Thorson are the local coordinators for the program.

Jump Rope for Heart events across Minnesota raised $615,000 for the Minnesota Affiliate in 1991-92. Funds raised at the Jump Rope for Heart in Thief River Falls will help support the Minnesota Affiliate's programs in research, community service and education.

Thief River Falls elementary school children will take part in the local event. Washington and Northrop students will jump from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (registration at 10:30 a.m.), while Knox and St. Bernard's student jump from 1 to 2:30 p.m. (registration at 12:30 p.m.).

As a result of the efforts of the American Heart Association-Minnesota Affiliate, the age-adjusted death rate from coronary heart disease decreased by 30 percent during 1979-89. Unfortunately, 43 percent of all deaths in Minnesota are still caused by diseases of the heart and blood vessels. The mission of the American Heart Association to reduce disability and death from cardiovascular disease and strokes continues in Minnesota.

Northland pitchers Parrish Tatum and Mitch Bernstein combined on a four-hit pitching effort, shutting out the Bemidji State University junior varsity for five innings. But the two righthanders and their Northland teammates had to settle for a second-game tie when darkness brought an end to a 2-2 draw at the end of the eighth inning.

A first inning Troy Storeby RBI single and a fourth inning solo home run by Mitch Bernstein, provided Northland with a 2-0 edge.

But a two-run home run by the Beavers' Mitch Meier tied it in the top of the sixth.

Tatum pitched the first five innings, walking three and striking out three. Bernstein walked one and struck out three over the final three innings.

Bernstein was 2-for-4 at the plate and matched his first-game effort with two more stolen bases.

Outdoor News

Roseau River Drive

Seven-mile wilderness drive for vehicular access to the Roseau River Wildlife Management Area, 20 miles north of Roseau, will be open to the public April 17-25.

The drive completely encircles the Pool One-East Wildlife Sanctuary.

Spring migration has started, and many species of migrant waterfowl can be seen along the route. A variety of other wildlife may also be observed.

A portion of the drive is one-way traffic only. The recommended entry point is the main dike road, one and three-quarters miles south of the headquarters building on Roseau County Round 3. Motorists are urged to use caution because of narrow roads, soft shoulders, and deep ditches. The speed limit on all wildlife management roads is 20 miles per hour.

Inclement weather may require closing the drive if roadways deteriorate. All other dike roads will remain closed to vehicles.

For more information contact the Roseau River Wildlife Management Area office at 463-1557.

State Parks

The public is invited to join the Old Mill State Park manager for an early-morning census of pileated woodpeckers Sunday, April 18, at 7 a.m.

A recording of pileated territorial calls will be played at several locations in the park, and the number of woodpeckers responding to the calls will be noted.

These large woodpeckers usually respond to the tape by calling back or flying in to see who is in their territory. Observers will be able to see the 'remodeling' pileated have done to the elms in the park. You should bring binoculars if you have them to enjoy, close-up, the spring birds that have returned.

Participants will meet at the park office and the census will take approximately 1 1/2 hours. Vehicle permits are required on all vehicles entering the park.

In case of rain or high winds (over 15 miles per hour), the census will be rescheduled.

For more information, contact the park office at 437-8174. Everyone, including supervised children, is welcome to take part in the search for woody.

Handgun match schedules listed for area shooters

Pennington County Sportsmen's Club will serve as host to five International Handgun Metallic Silhouette Association matches this year - on May 16, June 20, July 11, August 15, and September 12.

The one-day matches will run from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. All matches will include competition in centerfire, small bore (.22) and field pistol. In small bore, single shot and autoloaders will be combined in the production category. All 1993 IHMSA rules will prevail.

Match fees will be $5 per gun. Although the matches will be IHMSA and MSA-sanctioned, the sanction fees will be waived for any non-IHMSA or MSA shooters who would like to try to course. They must, however, fire the complete 40-round course and abide by IHMSA rules.

There will be no awards presented, but participants will receive a match report showing your standing relative to other shooters.

Ear and eye protection is mandatory for all shooters, spotters and officials on the firing line. Shooters are expected to help with target setting, etc.

Participants should plan to bring their own lunch since a concession stand will not be in operation. Officials will try to have drinking water on hand.

For additional information contact Irving Swanson at 681-1049.

The Second Section

Washington elementary school students in Thief River Falls raised money for a program called "Pennies for Mt. Rushmore". The nation-wide program invites students to collect pennies for repairs of the national monument. Every school that participates will receive a certificate and will be permanently listed on a computer roll when the new interpretive center/museum will be completed. Additionally, on a grand donor wall there will be a listing of the total amount raised by America's students. Students also held a contest to guess the amount of money collected in the large jar. The student in each class with the guess closest to the total collected, will receive a prize. An award will also be presented to the adult with the best guess. In addition, an overall grand prize will be awarded. Although kindergarten students were not present when the photo was taken, all students in grades kindergarten through grade 5 participated in the contest.

What's the Chamber going to do for me?

It is the farmer, the merchant, the professional, the industrialist who make Thief River Falls their city by living and doing business here.

It's the person on the street who says, "Aren't these new streets fine?"

It's the little boy who says, "Gee, I had fund at the new swimming pool."

It's the lady who says, "I like to shop at So and So's shop."

It's the man in the service department who says, "Sure, I've got a good job and a nice home."

It's all of us who choose Thief River Falls!

What is it?

Basically, it is the business community at work.

It is the enthusiastic business, farmer, industrial and professional people of Thief River Falls banding together to promote the expansion and civic welfare of the area in which you have chosen to live and make your living.

Why Join the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce?

It is the only organization to which you CAN belong that is solely dedicated to the betterment of our city and your business or your profession.

The Chamber will be holding its Membership Drive the week of April 12 at which time a representative of the Chamber will be contacting you.

BIBLE STUDY

What is the Lord's work?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

The expression "the Lord's work" is often used in religious circles. For example, people say, "We must get behind the Lord's work." Jesus said, "My food [or My purpose] is to do the Will of Him who sent Me, and to accomplish His work" (John 4:34). By this we can see that doing the Will of God is the Lord's work.

In John 6:28, the people wanted to know how to work the works of God. Jesus said, "This is the work of God, that you obey Me," which is what believe means (John 3:36). You must keep Jesus' words to be His disciples (John 8:31, 51). Anyone who teaches differently is a false teacher (1 Tim. 6:3-4).

Jesus said that He didn't seek His own will (interest) but the Father's Will only (John 5:30). Jesus said that if we didn't observe Him doing the Father's work or Will, we shouldn't believe Him (John 10:37). "Check My fruits," He said (Matt 7:15-16, 20). If He did His works to please the Father daily, healing the sick, feeding the hungry and constantly helping those in need (Matt. 8:15, 11:5, 15:30-38), we should believe Him just because we see the works. His fruits or works prove the Father's Spirit was in Him (John 10:38).

We too, then, must keep Christ's sayings by keeping Christ's works (John 12:47, Matt. 3:10). Jesus said we would do greater works than He did (John 14:12). Keeping Christ's works is how we overcome the flesh and live to the Spirit (Rom. 8:13, Rev. 2:26). When we are servants of others, we are doing the Lord's work.

We glorify God daily by doing our good works in the name of His Son, Jesus Christ (Matt. 5:16, Col. 3:17). These works perfect the faith of Jesus Christ in our bodies (James 2:22). Jesus lives in us when we live our lives to please Him.

"By their fruits [works] you will know them" (Matt. 7:16, 20-21, Col. 1:10). It's as simple as that. The whole truth concerning the Lord's work is simply not known by many today. The Lord's work is the good works we do for God.

U.S. Still Moving Toward Metric System...Millimeter By Millimeter

One of the last hold outs in the world against full implementation of the metric system of weights and measures, the United States is moving in the direction of conversion inch by inch, gram by gram. According to a recent article by Tom Nordby in the "MEA Advocate," the United States and Myanmar (formerly Burma) are the only countries not using the metric system.

Nordby points out that "the country is on a timeline for conversion to the metric measurement system. In case you missed it, all states and organizations receiving federal funds were required to have a plan and timeline for implementation in place by last year, with full implementation to the metric system by 1996."

The Metric Conversion Act of 1975, amended in the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988, calls for designating the metric system of measurement the preferred system in the U.S. The Minnesota Legislature supported this by calling for the "gradual but deliberate implementation of the metric measurement system."

Many businesses are already using metric because they would be at a competitive disadvantage internationally if they didn't, Nordby adds. The law says that through their education systems the states should provide leadership and motivation for conversion.

"I'm not sure what we can do for adults, it will just have to happen," states Sharon Strenglein of the Minnesota Department of Education. "As educators, we can do a lot to help this transition be as smooth as possible."

Changing to the metric system will indeed take some adjustment in thinking—something like trying to learn to speak a new language. The tendency will be to think the familiar and attempt to convert that thought to the new system. Carpenters do it all the time when they know a 2x4 is only 1 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches and other dimensional lumber is similarly smaller than its nominal size.

Youngsters can make the adjustment with little problem if they use the metric system on a regular basis in their learning process. For us old fogies, however, it will be difficult to envision grain yields in metric tons per hectare instead of bushels per acre, to have a new grandchild weigh in at 3.95 kilograms, to give directions to a destination in kilometers (or to find a destination with those directions) and to find a lifetime's collection of nuts and bolts and wrenches won't quite fit the threads or heads of new metric counterparts.

Maybe there are some metric epithets or expletives that would be appropriate for the latter situation. It wouldn't make the transition any easier but it could be a little more satisfying.

U.S. Chamber Is Right.... On The Money

When it comes to the matter of money, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has a pretty good handle on how it is made and where it is spent. And when it insists that federal deficit reduction won't happen unless there is first a substantial reduction in spending, it isn't just peddling propaganda; it is dealing in facts.

"Our members and the general public will not stand for another round of taxes in exchange for promises of future spending reductions," U.S. Chamber President Richard L. Lesher recently told the U.S. Congress.

"As you well know, increased taxes have too often been used, not for deficit reduction, but for more government spending. Sadly, the implicit bond of trust between taxpayers and their elected representatives has been badly eroded. A budget that honestly confronts the national fiscal dilemma by emphasizing spending restraint above all else will help restore that trust."

Using figures from the January, 1993 Economic Report of the President, the following reprint form "Nation's Business" magazine shows how government spending has outpaced revenue at an accelerating rate in the past 30 years. Lesher told Congress that members of his organization will be watching to make certain that spending cuts are real, that they precede any tax increases, and that the cuts are larger than any tax increases.

Why Spending Cuts Must Come First

Since 1960, federal spending in real terms (after factoring out inflation) has gone up 225 percent while revenues have increased 152 percent. Because of that gap, the total federal debt of $290 billion in 1960 has grown to $4.4 trillion.

The chart on this page shows how, in current dollars, the revenue/spending lines have pulled away from each other and continue to diverge. Note the consistency of revenue growth. It has been helped by major tax increases and a long economic boom. But the forces pushing the spending line up were even stronger.

If federal spending had been increased since 1960 only to reflect inflation and population growth, the 1993 budget would be $639.5 billion, less than half the actual $1.48 trillion this fiscal year.

Those numbers point up why business is keeping spending cuts on the table during the current debate over deficit reduction.

The board of directors of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, for example, has urged President Clinton to expand the spending cuts in his plan to reduce the deficit. To help in that process, the business federation has been calling for further reductions in expenditures.

Bringing taxes up to the level of spending is not the answer. Gearing expenditures to available resources is. Tax increases are not the only way to deal with deficits.

As the chart shows, spending will continue to run ahead of taxes no matter how fast taxes increase—unless far greater spending cuts are enacted. That is why the present effort to restrain the deficit must focus on reducing expenditures.

Ice Goes Out Of River Pool

"With the ice going out of the river pool above the dam late last Friday, the pool was open Saturday, this being the average date for the spring break-up. Temperatures well below the freezing mark have prevailed this week, delaying the expected start on spring field work. The temperature last Thursday reached a high mark of 65 above."

—The annual break-up of ice in the river pool was one thing that wasn't affected by the war. It happened right on time last week.

—Only the fellow with a crying jag will shed any tears over the news that whiskey is now being rationed in many states.

—There is, they tell us, no stigma attached to the hoarding of war bonds.

—Those youngsters now drawing inflated salaries in war industries are due for an awful comedown when it's all over.

—Billy Noonan of Baudette has a wonderful memory. He can recall when hired girls were paid a dollar and a half a week.

—A lot of folks are getting pricked by the points in their ration books.

—Sign of the times: Private garages here are being converted into chick nurseries.

—Another casualty of the war is the chocolate Easter egg.

—A colleague wants to know why they put the holes in Swiss cheese when it's limburger that needs the ventilation.

—Fairy tale: Once upon a time there was a war correspondent who returned from the battlefront and didn't write a book about his experiences.

—It's a funny thing that when a man gets the best of an opponent, he worsts him.

—Governor Stassen proclaimed April 1 to 7 as "More Pork Week." We trust Congress didn't take the suggestion too seriously.

REVISED ORDINANCE NO. 1
Pennington County Shoreland Ordinance

The following is a summary of the revised Shoreland Ordinance for Pennington County. A complete copy of the revised ordinance is available for review at the Pennington County Auditors Office Monday thru Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

SUMMARY

The Shoreland Management Act was enacted by the 1969 Legislature to guide development for unincorporated areas. Subsequently, the 1973 Legislature amended the Shoreland Management Act to include municipalities. The Shoreland Management Act is codified at Minnesota Statutes, Section 105.485.

The Department of Natural Resources in cooperation with a shoreland committee, completed promulgation of revisions to the state's shoreland rules in June 1989. Major elements of the revised rules include:

a) Upgrading nonconforming/failing on-site sewage systems

Lot suitability requirements upgraded

b) Enhancing the performance criteria for subdivision review, bluff and near shore activities

Provisions added to protect near shore areas, bluff areas and steep slopes from development actions that may cause soil erosion or destroy scenic views

c) Establishing performance standards for agricultural activities "Best Management Practices" proposed for agricultural uses, forestry uses, grading and filling, vegetative alterations, fertilizer/pesticide application, wetland alterations and stormwater management

d) Development of a unique rivers classification system and performance standards

Six new river classes established to reflect river shoreland use characteristics and development capabilities

Management focuses on Minnesota's outstanding recreational rivers

e) Guidance for uniform land use designations around lakes and along rivers

Current land use plans acknowledged in shoreland areas

Guidance provided for land use district designation to reflect individual shoreland area attributes and capacities to assimilate development

f) Subdivision review

Improved standards for land suitability review and platting requirements for 5 or more lots

g) Non-riparian private access provisions

Standards established to guide development of private access lots for backlots of subdivisions which recognize the lake's ability to absorb additional watercraft use densities

h) Structure placement

Rules will reduce the likelihood of lake flooding

Development review must acknowledge land locked lakes or those with extreme water level fluctuations

Natural Environment setback reduced to 150 feet

New provisions will allow placement of one small, water oriented structure near shorelines, such as boat houses, gazebos, small decks, etc., and reduce the clutter occurring on many state shorelines

i) Flexibility

Rules provide flexibility to acknowledge unique shoreland issues or management problems that may exist in specific regions of the state or for local government units

CORRECTION

Several corrections have been noted in the Franklin middle school honor roll published in Wednesday's edition of the Thief River Falls Times.

The name of Kyla Skiple in the eighth grade 4.0 honor roll was reported as Kyle Skiple. In the seventh grade 4.0 honor roll Jami Kalsnes should have been Jamie Kalsnes and Jamie Philipp should have been Jami Philipp.

The Times and Northern Watch apologize for the errors and accept a lowered grade from 4.0 to A for our original story.

"Quilters", the Northland Community College spring musical, will be presented Wednesday through Saturday, April 28 through May 1 at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, May 2, at 2 p.m. in the college theatre. "Quilters" is a story of a pioneer woman and her six daughters. Music, drama and dance are used to tell the tales which are alternately funny and sad. ## Health talks to be Health Fair feature Health talks by medical professionals will be held throughout the day during the 1993 Family Health Fair to be presented Saturday, April 24, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls.

Featured speakers at the Health Fair, their presentation schedule and topics include the following:

9:15 a.m.—Dr. Jim Langland, "An Aspirin a Day Keeps the Doctor Away;"

10:45 a.m.—Tim Panek, R.N., "Testicular Cancer;"

11:30 a.m.—Video tape shown on "Breast Cancer;"

12:15 p.m.—Dr. Juho Krepp, "Menopause and Estrogen Therapy."

In addition to health talks, the Family Health Fair will feature more than 25 learning centers to increase awareness of health and family issues.

Free health screenings to be provided include measuring of height and weight and checking of blood pressure. Cholesterol and glucose screening will be offered for a fee.

Goal of the Family Health Fair screenings is to alert individuals to possible health problems and the overall Family Health Fair is intended to increase health education for the entire family. Screenings are not designed to take the place of a physical examination by a medical doctor.

Organizations which will have learning centers at the health fair include the American Dairy Association, American Lung Association of Minnesota, Discovery Place Child Care Center, Inter-County Nursing Service, Minnesota Extension Service, Northwest Medical Center and Pennington County ADA;

Also Planned Parenthood, Quin County Community Health Services, Thief River Falls Chiropractic, Thief River Falls Nursery School, Trade Winds Massage, Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Northland Community Hospice, School District 564 and Services for Children with Handicaps.

Late additions to the health fair with learning centers will be Anderson Hearing Clinic with hearing screening; Options, with Danica Robson showing independent living for people with handicaps; and Violence Intervention Project with information on its program.

Boy Scout Exposition parades scouting Sun.

"America the Beautiful" is the theme for the annual Voyageur Trails Boy Scout Exposition to be presented Sunday, April 25, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls. Nearly 25 Cub Scout and Boy Scout booths will be in action and the event is open to the public free of charge.

Once again three scout groups from the Winnipeg, Man., Canada area will participate in the event. The scout exposition is designed to give Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts an opportunity to demonstrate to the public some of the many scout skills that they have learned.

"An excellent variety of action booths will be at this year's exposition," states Art Heinze, general chairman of the 1993 show, "which will guarantee lots of fun, action, learning and excitement."

Voyageur Trails district is part of the Northern Lights Council of the Boy Scouts of America. It is made up of communities using the scouting program in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Mahnomen counties. This year's exposition is financed through candy sales by the participating units.

A list of participating units, their leaders' names and the booth themes includes the following:

Betty Peterson builds her own furniture

A love for the smell and feel of wood grew from the influence of her carpenter father, Abraham Hetland

by Marvin Lundla
Times Editor

When Betty Peterson wants a new piece of furniture for her house south of Thief River Falls she doesn't go downtown, she goes to the basement. There she uses the tools she inherited from her carpenter father and a few newer ones to build the item she wants.

"I just love the feel and smell of wood....I just love it!" she said. "I was the youngest in our family of nine children and my dad used to give me pieces of wood and say, 'Here, see what you can make out of this.' I made an awful lot of bird houses."

Betty's dad was Abraham Hetland, a Norwegian immigrant who worked as a carpenter for Central Lumber Company in Thief River Falls and built many houses still in use in this city and the community. He would work on a house from start to finish, from footings and foundation to trim and cabinetry.

In 1928 Abraham bought the farm Betty now owns about two and a half miles south of Thief River Falls on the airport road. He walked to and from his 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. job morning and evening, often being much later during the busy summer building season. And when he could find time he plied his trade at home, building the house for his family and some of the furniture as well.

A focal point in the Peterson home is a dining room table which Abraham crafted many years ago of walnut veneer and intricately inlaid with angled strips of contrasting wood. In more recent years Betty created a new base and cut the top down in size.

From the time he retired until his death at age 78 about 35 years ago, Abraham worked in a shop on the farm. Much of his equipment remained there unused over the years until Betty and her husband Roy embarked on a joint woodworking project. Betty and Roy were married in 1947. He worked for Wilson Brothers in Thief River Falls for more than 30 years and died last spring after a number of years in retirement.

"We have a cabin at Wannaska and a big birch tree blew down in a wind storm," Betty explains. "We hauled the trunk over to Gene Rondorf and he cut it up for us on his sawmill. We made a spinning wheel out of it. Roy made all the metal parts and I made the wood ones. It works real good, too!"

Betty said she had plans to work from in building the spinning wheel and that she has spun quite a bit of wool into yarn, from which she has knit a number of socks and mittens. Knitting is another of her favored hobbies.

Many of the other pieces of furniture in the home are made from ash, mostly from trees salvaged from a five-acre site in the Twin Cities where they had been taken down for a housing project. Betty's son Roger lives in that area with his wife Linda. Roger is an electronics technician with the Hazelden Foundation.

The first large log was from a tree that had been pushed down and stuck up from the ground at an angle. They backed their pickup underneath the tree, cut a section of the trunk into the box and hauled it to the Rondorf mill. Many other loads were hauled later.

"I can't stand to let anything like that go to waste," Betty said.

Betty Peterson loves the outdoors, and to be there more often she built her own log cabin and hunts deer with bow and arrow as well as this percussion rifle built for her by her son Roger. She has built much of the furniture in her home. A fan of Roy Rogers since her youth, she spent half a day visiting with the 81-year-old cowboy last winter at his museum in Victorville, CA, while on a trip to visit her sister, Lillian Schneeweis in Los Angeles. She has a brother, Lue Hetland, and a sister, Esther Rollinger, living in Thief River Falls. She has hunted antelope in Montana and hopes to go there this fall to hunt pheasants with another female friend.

Week of the Young Child is April 18-24

Young children touch eveyone's life in one way or another. For many parents, nothing is more important than their children's welfare. They want to insure that their children experience the best possible environment both at home and in child care settings.

Caregivers are professionals entrusted with the important job of overseeing the development of children. This requires special skills and training as well as special kinds of people. Good caregivers are a key element to quality child care programs in which children thrive. If we value our children, we must also value those who care for and educate them.

The Week of the Young Child is a good time to show your appreciation for early childhood caregivers. They are responsible for our most valuable asset: our children.

The Week of the Young Child is an annual celebration sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children. This year, April 18-24 is designated with the theme: "Young Children: Their Future in Our Hands." Watch for posters, table tents, grocery bag ads, newsletters, stickers and local events to celebrate this special week and let your caregiver know how important that job is.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . Put the Blame Where It Belongs

Monday the standoff in Waco, Texas, between the FBI and the Branch Davidian cult came to a fiery end when the compound burst into flames and burned to the ground while under attack by tanks and tear gas. It is presumed that over 80 people, including 17 children, died in the blaze.

How did it happen? Who is at fault?

Blame the Federal Bureau of Investigation. They took over from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. They were in charge of Monday's attack. They thought up the plan to punch holes in the walls of the building and use tear gas. The tear gas probably caused the fire. Sure, it is all the fault of the FBI.

Blame the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. They started the whole thing almost two months ago, sending in armed men to serve a search warrant for illegal weapons. They got four of their own men killed and 15 wounded, and killed who knows how many of the cult members. Sure, it is all the fault of the ATF.

Blame the Waco Fire Department. They weren't on the scene when the fire broke out. They didn't get to the fire fast enough. Blame the fire chief. He didn't have the fire trucks there right away. Sure, it is the Waco Fire Department's fault.

Blame it on the media. They were all over the place, interviewing everyone they could get near with their microphones and cameras. They probably even tipped off the cult members to the search warrant raid. Sure, it is the media's fault.

Blame the Attorney General. She's the one who gave the word to go ahead with Monday's attack. Sure, it is all the Attorney General's fault.

Blame the President. He knew what was going on and said it was fine with him. Sure, it is all the President's fault.

Whatever you do, however, don't blame it on the cult leader, David Koresh, also known as the ninth grade dropout country singer and guitar player Vernon Howell, also known as Jesus Christ, also known as Savior, also known as Messiah, also known as God's right hand man.

Heaven forbid that the fault should be placed on him. After all, what did he do wrong? He just put a little twist on the Bible so it would say what he wanted it to say. He just took some Bible verses out of context and made them say he was the son of God, after all.

He just got the people who believed what he said to think that God wanted them to stockpile weapons and get ready for the battle with the American army which would be the end of the world. So they would all go to heaven with him afterward, anyway.

He just preached that those who followed his teaching should be celibate, all except for him and his wives of varying ages, of course. He just believed that sparing the rod was spoiling the child, and made sure none of the children in the compound was spoiled at all.

He just manipulated and controlled and lied and twisted and distorted everything the Christian religion stands for.

He just talked hundreds of vulnerable people into believing what he wanted them to believe and doing what he wanted them to do.

Monday he wanted them to die with him and they did.

But surely we shouldn't blame him.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Week of the Young Child

This is a special week for everyone to celebrate young children. To make this a special time for your special child, plan to do something that will take your time, but very little money.

It is a good idea to discuss this challenge with your child and try to plan an event together. You may be pleasantly surprised at what your special child will think is special and what he/she wants to do just with you!

Some of the things that you choose to do are go for a walk, have an old-fashioned tea party, set up roads on the floor and play with cars, read a special book, color a picture and put it on the refrigerator or play Hide & Seek.

Have fun and enjoy the Week of the Young Child together.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through these and other Beatrix Potter selections as it celebrates National Library Week with the 100th anniversary of Peter Rabbit:

Potter, Beatrix. The Tale of Two Bad Mice. When Lucinda and Jane leave their doll house, two mischievous mice named Tom Thumb and Hunca Munca turn the house upside down looking for food.

Potter, Beatrix. The Tale of Squirrel Nutkin. Follow the adventure of Nutkin, Twinkleberry and other squirrel friends as they seek permission from Old Brown Owl to gather nuts from his island.

VIDEO VARIETY

The Tale of Peter Rabbit. This wonderful animated musical, narrated by Carol Burnett, brings to life the story of Peter's "hare-raising" adventure in Mr. McGregor's garden.

 Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m.

PARENTING TIPS

More on Playing Together

Last week we discussed onlooker play and parallel play. This week we will look at two more forms of play.

Associate Play: In this from of play, children as young as three share materials, while each one pursues his or her own goal. They are more interested in exchanging materials than in a coordinated purpose or other direct social interoction. For example, two or more children may organize an activity around a common theme such as "playing store." But each concentrates on his own "agenda" while they lend and borrow toys.

Cooperative Play: This type of play usually emerges at around four years of age and continued throughout the school years. Cooperative play involves organized group play with a coordinated purpose. It can be as simple as building a house with blocks or as complex as playing football, with specific rules for all to obey. Cooperative play helps children to develop better social skills and enlarge their circle of friends.

More on friends next week.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As children enter associative and cooperative play stages their need for verbal skills will increase. Provide your child with examples of how to ask for toys and other necessary verbal skills for social interaction.

Dear Readers,
People have asked how I feel about prearrangement. One advantage for me as a funeral director, is knowing I will be able to serve each family exactly as they wish to be served. Many individuals have definite ideas about how they want their funeral arrangements to be handled. It gives me peace of mind, knowing their own personal wishes are being fulfilled.

Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS!

KNOWING HOW TO SURVIVE A TORNADO

The tornado is one of nature's most violent and devastating windstorms. By knowing what to do if a tornado occurs, you can reduce the danger of death and serious injury.

TORNADO WATCH– means the atmospheric conditions are such that a tornado could develop. The peak tornado season is generally recognized as April, May and June; but they can strike anytime.

TORNADO WARNING– means an actual funnel has been sighted in your area. Many communities also have special warning systems such as air raid sirens.

WHEN A TORNADO WARNING IS ISSUED–
Immediately take cover! Wherever you take shelter, stay away from outside walls, windows, doors and other glass items. Protect your head.
–In homes and small buildings–immediately go to the center of the basement. If there is no basement, take cover in a closet, bathroom, or interior hall in the center of the house. Get under something sturdy.
–In office buildings or shopping centers–look for a designated shelter. If there isn't one, a middle hallway on the lower floor is the next best place.
–In schools–follow the teacher's directions. Avoid places like auditoriums or gymnasiums that have large roofs that could fall in.
–In mobile homes or cars - Get Out! Take shelter in a building, or lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine or culvert and cover your head with your hands.

Impressions . . .

Beth Johnson

April is the month during which we think of children and particularly of how to prevent the abuse of children. Much was said during the recent Presidential campaign about family values. Whatever we feel the status of the family is these days and whether or not we feel family values have changed or remained basically the same as years gone by, we all will admit that in families there is abuse. Whether or not we feel that a change in family values' has caused abuse, we still can see that abuse is prevalent in our families.

Using as a given that our families will remain as changing entities, we must start from the present day and present situations to prevent abuse of our children in our families. Our families today are stressed. Many more families have one parent trying valiantly to do the job of two people. Many families are stressed because of the changeable economy. Many families are stressed by the modern world's standard of success—more money, a better job, an elegant home and perfectly behaved children.

Many of our children are stressed by the changes in their families. They are stressed by the need to choose between parents and living situations. They are stressed by the modern need to succeed in all that they do—from learning how to tie their shoelaces to mastering calculus. They are stressed by the demands of family and friends to do well in sports and music and school. They are stressed by the jobs they hold down after going to school all day.

Our families are stressed as units and as individuals. How with all the stress that all members of a family may feel can abuse be prevented?

Parents are the key to preventing abuse of their children. Parents must remember that they are the parent to the child or children in the family. Parents must remember that it is they who are responsible for the wellbeing of the family. Parents must remember that it is they who are the examples for their children. Parents must prevent child abuse.

It is easy to say and to write that parents must prevent child abuse. But, how really can overstressed, overworked, overneeded parents prevent child abuse? Parents must make a conscious effort daily to see that the best needs of their children are met. Needs are not just the needs for food, clothing and shelter. Meeting the needs of the children in our families means meeting their need for love and security. Abusive parents cannot fulfill this basic need for their children. For, instead of a feeling of security, the abused child feels fearful and insecure.

How, then, do parents prevent child abuse? Parents must see to it that they themselves are in control of their feelings and emotions and actions. Parents must strive to not be the big bully in the family. Children meet up with enough bullies on the playground, they do not need to have parents who are bullies. Parents must constantly strive to better their behaviour and see that their behaviour is responsible behaviour.

Changing the little things one does is sometimes the way to changing one's behaviour. When your stressed out child reaches your limit of decency and you feel like striking out at him verbally or physically, decide instead to stop for a moment or two. Count to 10 or 100 or 1,000—any number will do as long as the end result is no abusive behaviour toward your child.

Instead of constantly pushing your child to do better and better yet, take that child out for an ice cream cone, or a walk in a park. Take time out from pushing for constant success in your life and in the life of your child so that both of you can take a bit of a breather and realize that you are loved and cared for by each other.

Time is perhaps the biggest gift we can give our children. We have given them the gift of life as we created them. This gift of life comes complete with much time to be utilized. Giving of ourselves to our children—taking the time to listen to them and to encourage them is time spent not being abusive. Taking the time to do things together—be it reading a book, or tinkering with a car, or playing a game of catch, or going fishing, or baking cookies—is time spent not being abusive.

Our families are precious. They are the most important aspects of our lives. We adults must see to it that our children are truly cherished and not abused. Cherish the children in your family. See to it that you behave toward them in a responsible loving way. If you find you abuse your children, don't be afraid to get help. The lives of your children depend on your responsible actions. Be responsible by seeking help if you need help in learning how not to abuse your children. Learn to cherish your children—even when they push the limits of being cherishable beings. Look for the little ways in which you can change the way you behave toward your children. They will love you the most for loving them unconditionally—even when they misbehave. Treat your children well. Life is too short to be abusive.

Russell Tilbury

Russell Tilbury displays artwork at Northland

"Going to prison was the best thing that ever happened to me," said Russell Tilbury, whose artwork is presently being displayed at Northland Community College's Art Gallery. That may seem like a strange comment to make. However, during the 29 months he was incarcerated in Stillwater State Prison, Tilbury said he had never accomplished as much in his whole life. He received his high school G.E.D., which he said probably would never have been pursued had he not been imprisoned.

Tilbury chose as his first drawing a picture of a 10-point buck taken from Outdoor Life magazine. He began the 20 by 24-inch drawing on graph or "rookie" paper. After struggling with the grid, he eventually erased all the squares and drew the buck free hand. Tilbury feels this is the best drawing he has done so far. He presented this drawing to his father on his 83rd birthday.

Tilbury attended art classes at Stillwater where his interest in painting and drawing grew considerably. He completed over 100 paintings while an inmate in Stillwater. Of all those completed, he only disposed of two of them which he did not feel were up to par. His specialty is in the areas of water color landscapes and wildlife paintings.

Some of Tilbury's work has traveled far away. While in Stillwater, he designed greeting cards. These cards were sent by another inmate to some of his relatives living in Russia and others living in Cuba.

Tilbury graduated from the Art department in Stillwater in June 1991. The art instructor thought Tilbury showed such promise that he allowed him to be his assistant and remain in the art department until his release in November 1992.

Tilbury was in the U.S. Army for two years. He served in Vietnam for a year, was wounded, and decorated with a bronze star. He is currently a member of Bemidji Veterans of Foreign Wars and Vietnam Veterans of America.

An 8th grade education was the highest level of formal education Tilbury achieved. Now, however, after his experience in prison, he wants to further his education in the field of art. His plans for the future include teaching art as well as continuing his painting.

On Friday, May 7, William Murray, art coordinator at Stillwater State Prison, will be speaking to one of the law enforcement classes at Northland Community College, as well as some of the art students.

Tilbury's exhibit will be on display in the Northland Community College Art Gallery through May 14. The public is invited to view the display at the college between the hours of 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

It was the first nice day of May, 1927, and Jake Nelson of Roseau was getting his garden going. Nelson was an old-timer in Roseau—he had settled there in 1877 at the age of twenty. Thinking of the fine potatoes his family would enjoy that winter, he thrust his spading fork deep into the loam and brought up a small rock.

He could tell right away that the stone was not shaped by nature. It was elliptical, like a slender egg, and Jake set it at the edge of the garden. He wanted to take a closer look at this stone because it seemed smoothed by human hand, not unlike some of the hewn stones he had found in his garden. Everyone knew that place had been a camping ground on the trail to Lake of the Woods, and Nelson had already unearthed many arrowheads, scraping knives and other objects of stone. His garden was a half mile from the Roseau River within city limits.

After Nelson soaked the stone in a pail of water and brushed the dirt out of the crevices, he was excited to see inscriptions running along the crown of the stone. He could make out several figures that were similar to the English alphabet—"A," "I," and "O." Other figures looked like a backward "K" and "S" and sort of a backward "E", "Y" and "J." The rest were strange stick figures, some like backward "7's" and one similar to the symbol for a natural in music. The runes were divided into groups of 6, 7, 10 and 4 letters. Altogether there were 27 runes running in a ribbon lengthwise around the stone.

Nelson showed the stone to others in Roseau, and everyone agreed that Mike Holm down in St. Paul would know what to do next. Mike Holm was Roseau's favorite son who had been elected Minnesota Secretary of State in 1921.

As expected, Mike Holm was intrigued. He entrusted the Roseau stone to John Jager of Minneapolis, an architect who was also a student of paleography and ancient literature. Jager studied it for two years. He took numerous photographs, and finally spliced negatives together to create a new photograph that linked the letters together into an inscription ribbon. In his painstaking scrutiny under different angles of approach he used the archaeologist's motto,

> "How easy to see a part:
> How hard to see the whole."

Jager decided that the inscription must be read from right to left; as an ancient alphabet of Eurafroasian origin. He thought the inscriber must have been someone who had an understanding of form and material. He wrote that the inscription was much like runic calendars found in Europe. "There is no doubt that the script is archaic. There are two lines of text, the upper one distinct and pronounced, the lower, fragmentary or interfunctioning with the upper."

"The stone seems to be a miniature human head with an inscriptional ribbon contouring the face as a head gear," Hager said.

Further study and evaluation seemed warranted, so he brought the stone to Dr. C. R. Stauffer, geologist, and Dr. A. E. Jenks, anthropologist, at the University of Minnesota.

In 1930 they concluded that nature had modeled the lines in the stone. Professor Jenks told Jager, "Stauffer ascertained beyond any doubt that the stone does not show any work by human hand. There is no ribbon of writing on it, the kind you believe."

The physical testing had been rigorous. In running tests the professors immersed the stone in acid and brushed it, destroying some of its finer delineations.

Holm and Jager were upset and unsatisfied with the conclusion. They sent the Roseau Stone to the Smithsonian Institute, but it is not known what was found.

When the stone was returned, Holm loaned it to historian Theodore Blegen, the author of the definitive history of the state, "Minnesota: the History of the State." Blegen was highly interested in the stone and for years kept it on his desk at the University of Minnesota. In 1969 Dr. Blegen was in the midst of a major revision of his book when death halted him. The stone vanished from his desk.

Did the Roseau Stone have significance? John Jager never lost faith in its authenticity: "The time will come when more of such characteristic artifacts shall appear. The soil of Minnesota may yield them, providing that there was an undisputed connection of our Northwest with Europe of long ago. Such "strangers" as the little stone of Roseau should be saved from subversion.

"There is still more work ahead...and authorities better be careful because the judgment by posterity is still ahead, upon the Ribbon of Time," Hager warned.

"Annie Get Your Gun" Is Newfolden musical

Annie Oakley is the best shot around and she manages to support her little brother and sisters by selling the game she hunts. When her legendary shooting prowess is discovered by Col. Buffalo Bill, he persuades her to join his Wild West show.

The story of Annie and her venture into show business is told in "Annie Get Your Gun," this year's Marshall County Central high school musical. Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, in the MCC gymnasium. Tickets are $3 each and are available at the door.

The musical is directed by Sheila Nelson and Linda Bradseth with Pat Dunning as technical director.

As the story of the musical evolves, Annie falls head over heels for the dashing shooting ace and show headliner, Frank Butler. She soon eclipses Butler as the main attraction of the show—which is good for business but bad for romance.

Butler takes his bruised male ego and leaves to join a rival show, but eventually is pitted against Annie in a final accuracy shoot out.

Sara Lokstad is cast as Annie in the MCC production with Tal Elseth as Frank. Mandi Halvorson has the role of Dolly, Shane Borg is Charley and Chris Stephenson is Buffalo Bill. Other cast members include the following.

Andrew McCauley as Mac, Chad Hanson as Wilson, Ivan Hirst and Chief Sitting Bull, Tim Olson as Pawnee Bill, Missy Lund as Minnie, Jackie Magner as Jessie, Morea Steinhauer as Nellie, Ben Vanderport as Little Jake, Jerad Liedberg as Conductor, Scott Zak as Porter, Steve Nelson as Messenger and Jake Rantanen as Foreman.

Also Natasha Hirst as Mrs. Potter-Porter, Jeremy Nelson as Iron Tail, Jeremy Tallum as Yellow Foot, Scott Zak as Mr. Adams, Sandi Gustafson as Mrs. Adams, Terry Olson as Mr. Jones, Tara Underdahl as Mrs. Jones, Shawn Leach as Mr. Clay, Mary Rokke as Mrs. Clay, Phil Flickinger as Mr. Henderson, Tami Berggren as Mrs. Henderson, Jerad Liedberg as Mr. Smith, Beth Burrell as Mrs. Smith, Steve Nelson as Dr. Ferguson, Shawn Magner as Mrs. Ferguson, Kyle Halvorson as Mr. Keeler and Melanie Wawrzyniak as Mrs. Keeler.

Also Ryan Black and Trevor Magner, Waiters; Justan Magner, Running Bear; Rhandi Halvorson, Running Brook; Jami Johnston, Holly Augustine, Amanda Myhrer, Kelly Liedberg, Jessie Vanderport, Jacki Klemmetson, Phil Flickinger, Eric Jorgenson and Kevin Engelsrud, Children.

Also Jenny Taggart, Chiri Mercil, Nicol Rockstad and Jamie Kuznia, Cowgirls. Kyle Halvorson, Trevor Magner, Terry Olson, Scott Zak, Steve Nelson, Shawn Leach, Jerod Liedberg, Jake Rantanen, Tricia Pederson, Sandi Gustafson, Tara Underdahl, Beth Burrell, Jenny Taggart, Mary Rokke, Shawn Magner and Melanie Wawrzyniak, Indians.

Also Dawn Sustad, Ericka Halvorson, Sarah Larson, Rachel Larson, Darlene Nelson, Shari Timm and Shari Skadsem, Townspeople.

Wendy Inman and Shawn Johnson are in charge of lighting with Kristi Olson handling sound. Kristi Harstad, Jenny Larson and Tracy Olson will handle the spotlights. Stage crew includes Jeremy Nelson, Jeremy Tallum, Craig Bakke, Ryan Black, Matt Maurstad and Steve Nelson.

Charlie Davenport (Shane Borg), Buffalo Bill (Chris Stephenson), and Frank Butler (Tal Elseth) try to convince Annie (Sara Lokstad) that there really is "No Business Like Show Business" in this scene from the Marshall County Central high school musical "Annie Get Your Gun." Curtain goes up on the musical at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, in the MCC high school gymnasium in Newfolden.

"Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better" is an argument that cools the romance after Annie Oakley (Sara Lokstad) falls hard for Frank Butler (Tal Elseth). The song is one of many rousing numbers in the Marshall County Central high school musical "Annie Get Your Gun" to be presented Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the MCC gymnasium in Newfolden.

Brother and sister Charlie Davenport (Shane Borg) and Dolly Tape (Mandi Halvorson) work for Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Charlie is Buffalo Bill's manager and Dolly is the assistant for sharp-shooting show star Frank Butler. They have strong roles in the Marshall County Central high school musical "Annie Get Your Gun" to be staged Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the MCC high school gymnasium.

You don't need to read or write if you can get by "Doin' What Comes Naturally." That opinion is expressed musically to Wilson (Chad Hanson), the hotel proprietor, by Jessie (Jackie Magner), Annie (Sara Lokstad), Minnie (Missy Lund), Nellie (Morea Steinhauer) and Little Jake (Ben Vanderport). The scene is from the Marshall County Central high school musical "Annie Get Your Gun" to be staged Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the MCC gymnasium. # LHS concert choir sings in Carnegie Hall

Easter Sunday New York City concert presented in hall where: "If you haven't played it, you haven't made it!"

[illegible] Hard Rock [illegible] in line for an [illegible] souvenirs in the [illegible] the Trump Tower, [illegible] Center, the Metropolitan [illegible] House, the New York Stock Exchange, Central Park and [illegible] places. We also had the opportunity to see the homes of [illegible] celebrities, such as Lauren Ba[illegible], Al Pacino, Mia Farrow, Woody Allen, Marla Maples, Cher and Madonna. We also saw the Dakota, the building that John Lennon was assassinated at and where Yoko Ono still resides.

Another great thrill for us was seeing Connie Chung, or rather the back of Connie Chung, getting out of a taxi to her apartment. Our bus driver pointed her out to us and we were all glued to the windows attempting to get a glimpse of her. After the tour we headed back to the hotel and tried to get some sleep.

Friday morning we were up early for a three and one half hour rehearsal with John Rutter on the eighteenth floor of our hotel. The Vivaldi choir, the choir we took part in, had members from Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Puerto Rico and other places. After rehearsal we began our tour of New York on foot, which ended up to be about fifteen miles. We made our way to Chinatown, Little Italy, and Greenwich Village and picked up a lot of bargains on the way.

We discovered some of our choir members have quite a knack for bartering with vendors and the majority of us ended up with some real "steals" by the end of the day. Seeing New York City on foot was a real eye opener for us. After seeing the homeless and widespread poverty on the streets, we quickly realized how very fortunate we are. We lead a very sheltered life in Northern Minnesota and in New York many of us experienced culture shock. We aren't used to being approached by people begging for food and money on a regular basis and it was an opportunity for us to see how lucky we are.

That night we went to the Empire State Building. We waited for an hour to take the elevator up to the observation deck, during which we provided entertainment for the people waiting in line. Once we got to the top, the choir stood huddled together and sang "The National [illegible]

[illegible] what we had [illegible] The Lincoln High School Concert Choir was [illegible] Carnegie Hall [illegible] rehearsal in [illegible] with the professional [illegible] and the other [illegible] that was performing. [illegible] Hall was incredible and [illegible] We sat [illegible] our turn to [illegible]

[illegible] the choir went to the BBQ Ranch for Easter dinner. As a group we then went to St. Patrick's Cathedral for mass. St. Patrick's is the eleventh largest cathedral in the world. It was enormous and it was beautiful. We went back to our hotel after mass and got ready for Carnegie Hall. When the buses were loaded, we were on our way. This was it and we were going to make it the best experience of our life.

We were nervous, but it was different than awaiting a performance at Lincoln. With sweaty palms and shaking knees, we took the stage. For thirty minutes we sang our hearts out. When we were finished, we filed out and took our assigned places in the balcony. It was there that we were to have our final experience at Carnegie Hall. We listened to the other choir perform and then it was time for the finale. We all rose as John Rutter conducted us, singing Te Deum, one of his greatest works. It was wonderful and it was the most memorable Easter Sunday the majority of us will ever have.

That was not the end, however. Each participating choir loaded the buses again for a New York Harbor cruise. We ate a midnight buffet and danced to a live band, while taking in the sights of the Manhattan skyline.

Monday morning we left early for our tour of the Statue of Liberty. We took a ferry and headed over to the island. On our way back, we saw the garage of the World Trade Center where the bomb had gone off. It was very strange to actually see something that is in the news so often. We spent the rest of the afternoon shopping at the world's largest department store, Macy's, and at other stores near by.

That night we took in a performance of "Cats" on Broadway. The scenery, acting, and music was unbelievable and we enjoyed the production very much. After a long day, we headed back to the hotel for some much needed sleep. It was our last night in New York City and it was unforgettable, especially the cockroaches and rodents we found lurking in our hotel rooms at two o'clock in the morning. We were all instructed to go through our luggage thoroughly and sleep with cotton in our ears. It was exciting to say the least and few of us got much sleep that night.

Tuesday morning some of us were up early for some last minute shopping and others took advantage of the chance to sleep in. We left our hotel at noon for the airport in Newark, New Jersey. After a three-hour wait, we were on our way to Minnesota. On this flight we again provided entertainment for our fellow passengers and, if possible, used the flight to rest. We had made it to Minnesota—land of ten thousand lakes, fresh air and friendly people. It was a fun week, but we were so happy to be home. I'll take mosquitoes to cockroaches any day.

On our way back from Grand Forks, we were greeted by a large group of cars and horns and had a police escort into town. Thief River Falls has given our choir overwhelming support and we are so grateful for it. Thank you for supporting our fundraisers, listening to our telethons, and attending our concerts.

We would also like to thank our chaperones: Don Balmer, Pat Duncan, Linda Goulet, Norma Hagen, Ann Haugen, Cindy Krankkala and Jeff Mumm. Thank you for your patience and sense of humor. We would also like to take this opportunity to thank Darcy Reese. She has given the choir program so much of her time, patience and energy. We are very fortunate to have her as our director. She has inspired and encouraged each one of her students and has taken us to places we never thought we could go. Example? Carnegie Hall, because, as they say, "If you haven't played it, you haven't made it."

New York journey chaperone lauds director, students

To The Editor:

The community of Thief River Falls should be very thankful that our school district has Darcy Reese as a choir teacher. The yoong people who go through her choir program are being taught by a person who gives her heart and soul to bring out the best in each and every one of her students. If they are willing to put in the time and effort to be a great singer she will mold them into a quality group of performers that this community can be very proud of. We take for granted how hard this lady and her students work to put on great performances for our community. She does an unbelievable job and so do her students!

As a chaperone for the trip to New York City I had the opportunity to see all of the hard work and long hours that she and her students put in to make this trip a very memorable one. It was hard to imagine all the hard work that was done prior to this trip to fill up every hour of each day so her kids wouldn't miss anything in New York. Darcy spent countless hours preparing a trip to provide memories that would last a lifetime for these kids and she succeeded with flying colors.

The concert choir students represented our community, school district and most importantly their parents with a lot of class. What a great group of kids to chaperone! They were given a lot of rules to follow and we made sure they followed them and no one stepped out of line. Anybody who saw how these kids dressed, acted and behaved saw a quality group of kids. Actions speak louder than words and their actions were loud and clear.

In closing, we have a lot of quality kids in our high school programs and the concert choir proved just that by giving a wonderful performance at Carnegie hall. Great job to a great group of kids and a first class teacher. We're lucky to have all of you.

Thank you for letting me be part of this special trip.

Sincerely,
Jeff Mumm

Organ, tissue donation is topic of week

April 18-24 has been declared as National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week to create an awareness and inform the public of the desperate shortage of organs and tissue for transplantation.

About 29,000 Americans—including about 850 in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota—are currently waiting for organ transplants. About five to six people die each day because of the lack of a suitable organ for transplant. Thousands of others wait for life-enhancing tissue transplants of bone, skin, heart valves and corneas.

In the Upper Midwest, three organizations are involved in organ and tissue donation. LifeSource manages all organ donations, the American Red Cross Tissue Services in St. Paul coordinates tissue donations and the Minnesota and South Dakota Lions Eye Banks manage eye donations for corneal transplants.

Organ donation is an option locally as well. Northwest Medical Center works closely with LifeSource and the Lions Eye Bank to help provide organ and tissue donation as an option for families. Eyes have been donated which have provided corneal transplants to improve vision for a number of individuals. Other tissues have also been donated and have been available to improve the quality of countless other lives.

Local funeral homes also participate in the eye enucleation program with the approval of families. Eyes are removed, packed in ice, brought to the law enforcement center and transported to the Lions Eye Bank in Minneapolis for use in transplant or research.

"Some families do not donate simply because they aren't presented with the option," states Susan Gunderson, executive director of LifeSource. "Other families refuse consent because they have misconceptions about organ and tissue donation.

"One goal the three procurement organizations share is to inform the public about organ and tissue donation and replace unfound fears with facts," she added. "Individuals should talk openly about organ donation and tell their families their decision so their loved ones can honor their request."

For more information about organ and tissue donation, call (612) 623-4757 or 1-800-247-4273.

The top of this coffee table made by Betty Peterson of rural Thief River Falls is inlaid with ceramic tile. The legs were turned from solid pieces of wood. "When we would have a log sawed, we would have it cut in many different thicknesses," Betty said. She designed the table as well as jointing the top, building assembling and finishing it.

Two pieces of furniture built by Betty Peterson of rural Thief River Falls are this end table and sofa. On the table is a box built by Betty's father, Abraham Hetland, who enjoyed inlay work such as that shown at the base of the box. The popsicle stick bird house is a gift from a grandchild and therefore has a place of honor in the home.

Betty Peterson builds her own furnishings

Using her father's eight-inch tabletop saw and jointer which were both purchased from Les Kulseth of Thief River Falls, along with a newer band saw and a lathe purchased by her husband, Betty has turned out such items as a dry sink, cupboards, coffee table, sofa, dough box, various end tables, foot stool, kitchen table and a corner entertainment center.

Most of the designs are of her own creation, and while she disclaims any artistic ability, her completed items display excellent lines and proportions.

"I cut a lot of cardboard," she said. "I can shape that and fit it and see how something looks before I start cutting the wood. I have a pretty good idea of how I want it to look before I start making it. Seeing how it will turn out is part of the fun of it."

Another Peterson product is a creche used for small indoor nativity scenes. Source of material for these is a redwood silo which Roy and Betty purchased a number of years ago, disassembled and hauled home. The silo was made of redwood 2x6 lumber up to 22 feet in length.

While many of the items in the Peterson kitchen, dining room and living room were made in the basement workshop, not all of the furniture is home crafted. Take the dining room chairs, for instance.

"No, I trapped fox for those," Betty said. "Fox pelts were worth $25 each that winter and a pelt would buy a chair. It was another challenge. I kind of enjoy a challenge."

An aversion to seeing useful material going to waste and an affinity for challenge probably combined to inspire her for another project a few years ago—building a log cabin.

"My brother, Lue Hetland, worked for the telephone company and when they buried the telephone lines north of Thief River Falls there were all of those poles left," she explained. A number of the poles were hauled to the Peterson farm and Betty built her cabin.

"I couldn't make it any bigger than the length of the poles," she said. "Instead of watching TV in the evening I would come out and lay a round of logs. Oh, it was fun! I had a really good time working on it."

A concrete floor was added and a stone fireplace was built in one end. It serves as a heat source and Betty even used it for boiling down boxelder sap to make pancake syrup. Like maple sap, boxelder sap yields about a gallon of syrup from 40 gallons of sap. The cabin is used as a guest house as well as for family events and even an occasional overnight stay.

Enjoyment of the cabin on the farm and the cabin at Wannaska indicate how Betty loves the outdoors. She took her first deer with bow and arrow in 1980 and has taken one almost every year since. Last year her son made and gave her a .50 caliber percussion rifle and she took her first deer with that last fall.

When gravel was mined from the Peterson farm for highway construction in the area, it was scooped out to form a pond near the house. A nesting island in the center has been occupied for the past five years by the same pair of Canada geese.

"They always nest but the eggs never hatch," Betty said. "I feel sorry for them." So a couple of years ago she bought a gosling from an area farmer and released it in the pond. The wild geese adopted it immediately and it developed into the barnyard variety white goose that it was. But it left with the Canadas in the fall and returned with them in the spring, staying until it was driven away by the adult geese during the nesting season. The adult pair is back to claim the island again this year.

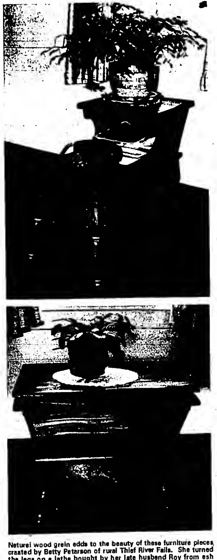
From her kitchen window, while drinking coffee at her hand crafted pine table, Betty can keep an eye on the pair's activities. The heavy table was built for the cabin at Wannaska but her family never let her take it there.

Not all of Betty's woodworking projects stay at home. Her two grandchildren—16-year-old Libby and 13-year-old Kris—are the recipients of previous efforts and will be the recipients of her current project as well.

In her father's shop were 18 panels of walnut and mahogany veneer, made for drawer fronts. She used 10 of these to build five-drawer chests for each of the grandchildren. Her current project is to use two more of the panels on the front of each of two matching cedar chests.

"I don't know what I'll do with the other four panels," she says.

Somehow we can't help but believe she will find a good use for them. All she needs is another challenge.



Natural wood grain adds to the beauty of these furniture pieces created by Betty Peterson of rural Thief River Falls. She turned the legs on a lathe bought by her late husband Roy from ash trees they salvaged and had sawn by Gene Rondorf at his farm sawmill. The designs are Betty's own ideas.

A birch tree which blew down near their Wannaska area cabin provided the wood for this spinning wheel made by Roy and Betty Peterson of rural Thief River Falls.

Betty Peterson of rural Thief River Falls needed an entertainment center for her home and had a spare corner available. She designed and built this cabinet, including the raised panel doors in the base.

TRF boys open golf season on Saturday

Thief River Falls boys high school golf team will begin its 1993 season Saturday with an appearance at the 8:30 a.m. Perham Invitational.

Six lettermen are on hand for coach Dick Tyler, including seniors Jason Lambert and Barry Rhineberger, junior Mark Tangquist; sophomores Tim Barry and Brad Daniels; along with freshman Chris Bjerken.

Rhineberger and Tanqquist should be the Prowlers' top golfers. They have the potential be be among the area leaders, according to Tyler. "Barry Rhineberger, Mark Tangquist and Jason Lambert will give us some leadership, but we're really young," said Tyler.

Daniels, Bjerken and Barry head the younger group.

"They have some potential," offered Tyler. "It's a matter of how hard they want to work at it. They have to put into play what we've been trying to teach them in practice – making corrections in their swings. If they can do that, and keep the ball in play, they could do all right."

Annual Thief River Falls Invitational will be held Friday, May 7, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Alexandria, Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls defeated Thief River Falls Saturday in the North Sub-Section 8AA Invitational high school softball tournament at Detroit Lakes.

In each setback, a single inning cost the Prowlers big time.

■ Alexandria scored six times in the sixth inning to double the spread in a 12-2 first round decision.

■ Detroit Lakes had a 10-run top of the first inning and coasted a 15-3 win.

■ Fergus Falls broke open a 3-3 game with a five-run third that led to a 10-7 final.

The three losses dropped Thief River Falls to 0-6 for the year.

NCC baseball team has key home stretch

A make-or-break week awaits the Northland Community College baseball team as the Pioneers try to establish themselves as a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division title treat during successive home doubleheaders against Itasca today (Wednesday), Vermilion Saturday and Hibbing Sunday.

Northland is 0-5-1 for the year and 0-2 in the MCCC after being swept at Fergus Falls Saturday 8-1, 11-5. The Pioneers can make up for lost ground with a successful homestand, or they could drop out of sight if the losses continue to mount.

"This is a big week for us," acknowledged Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "We'll find out where we sit when this week is done – whether we're contenders or pretenders."

Northland did not come up with great offensive numbers at Fergus Falls, and the pitching/defense could not make up the difference.

"I think we've found out that we're just not going to be scoring a lot of runs this year," noted Wiseth, "so our pitching and defense will have to come through. Against Fergus, we just didn't get it done. I think we can be competitive, but we can't be giving teams four outs an inning. We can't be giving them extra hitters each time they come up. If we can go out and get the 27 outs, we'll be okay."

The Itasca and Vermilion games start at 1 p.m. The Hibbing match-up begins at 12-noon. All games will be played at the Northland diamond, located behind the school, across from the tennis courts.

Northland mustered just four hits in an 8-1 Fergus Falls Game I win.

Two of those hits came from Mitch Bernstein, who drove in the lone Northland run with a first inning double.

Northland pitchers Parrish Tatum and Ryan Bothum give up nine hits, walked four and struck out four. Tatum was the starter and losing, giving way to Bothum during a four-run Fergus Falls fifth inning.

Fergus Falls survived an early-game shoot-out and went on to complete the sweep with an 11-5 victory in the nightcap.

It was a 5-5 tie through just 2 1/2 innings, but the Pioneers' offense dried up at that point, while the Spartans' continued to push runners across the plate.

The eight Northland hits included the second 2-for-3 game of the day for Mitch Bernstein, along with a solo third inning home run by Mike Swanson.

John Pearson, Todd Martin and Bernstein shared the Northland pitching load, surrendering 12 hits. Pearson walked three and struck out one in two innings; Martin walked two and struck out one in three innings; Bernstein struck out two while working the sixth.

Prowlers shut out Gators 7-0

Last Thursday it was Eric Bjorgaard and Jason Olson combining on a three-hit shutout as Thief River Falls opened its 1993 high school baseball season with a 6-0 home field win over Tri-County/Marshall County Central.

Monday it was Jason Olson and Eric Bjorgaard teamming up on a four-hit shutout as the Prowlers returned to Irv Wilson Field with a 7-0 victory over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The only difference this time around was the order of appearance. Bjorgaard went the first four innings for the first-game decision. Olson was starter in Monday's chilly windswept affair, striking out five and walking one in five innings of work. Bjorgaard struck out three and did not walk a batter in his two relief innings. They both gave up two hits and both hit a batter.

Two of the four Badger/Greenbush-Middle River base hits were promptly erased when the runners were caught trying to turn singles into doubles. Lone scoring threat from the Gators came in the second when a walk, error and hit-batsman loaded the bases with nobody out. Olson got out of the jam with two force-outs and a strike-out.

"Jason and Eric both did a good job both times out," said Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. "We're very satisfied with the way they're throwing the ball."

And just like in the opening-day win over Tri-County/Marshall County Central, the Thief River Falls run production came with a minimum of hits – two to be exact, both by sophomore Steve Burslie in his first start behind the plate.

"We didn't exactly rip the cover off the ball," acknowledged Wensloff, whose team took advantage of nine walks and three Badger/Greenbush-Middle River errors to light up the scoreboard. Once the Prowlers reached base, their speed took over. "That speed allows you to do a lot of different things on the bases," noted Wensloff.

It was a quick-moving, well-played baseball game for 5 1/2 innings. Only runs during that stretch came in the bottom of the second when back-to-back inning-opening walks issued to Marc Haugen and Rick Ostby were followed by a one-out, two-run single to right by Burslie.

But it got away from Badger/Greenbush-Middle River in the sixth when the Gators gave the Prowlers five runs without the benefit of a base hit. Five walks, three wild pitches, a balk and three errors did the damage.

It became 4-0 when Haugen and Ostby once again drew lead-off walks, then advanced on wild pitches. The second one scored Haugen, with Ostby also crossing the plate as the Gators tacked an error on to the play.

A one-out walk given to Burslie and an error on a potential inning-ending double play ball kept it going. Third error of the inning made it 5-0; Trevor Haugen scored all the way from second base when catcher Billy Holum couldn't locate a wild pitch; and a balk brought in the final run.

David Blazek, a member of the 1992 Thief River Falls Ninth District championship American Legion baseball team, was the starting and losing Badger/Greenbush-Middle River pitcher. He gave up two hits, walked six and struck out three in five innings. Ross Waage came on in relief in the sixth, giving up three runs while walking three and striking out two.

Thief River Falls, 3-1, will be in Bemidji Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. North Sub-Section 8AA game before returning home to host Roseau Monday and Moorhead Tuesday.

TRF boys, girls compete in Park Rapids Invitational...

Track teams open outdoor season

Team trophies stayed at home Monday as the host Panthers won both the boys and girls titles at the Park Rapids Invitational high school track meet.

The Park Rapids boys out-pointed second place Thief River Falls 183-76, while the Park Rapids girls had a 183-95 winning margin over runner-up Frazee. Thief River Falls girls were fifth in an eight-team field.

It was the first outdoor meet of the 1993 season for the Prowlers. Thief River Falls boys ran three indoor meets; the Thief River Falls girls entered two.

"I was very happy with the results," said Tim Olson, coach of the Thief River Falls boys. "We've got a great group of hard-working kids. It nice to see them pick up some points for their efforts.

Senior Shane Skeim led the Prowlers with a sweep in the weight events – a 48-2 toss in the shot and a 158-2 effort in the discus, putting him within striking distance of the school record in his first attempt of the season. "Those were excellent throws by Shane," pointed out Olson. "It a good way to start the outdoor season."

The Prowlers also received first place performances from senior Devon Grandbois in the 300-meter hurdles, junior Jon Hendrickson in the 800 and from a 4x100 relay team featuring juniors Jason Grandstrand, Eric Dahl, and Rob Bakken, along with sophomore John Davis.

First place finishes for the Thief River Falls girls came from freshman Lisa Swanson in the 800 and from senior Sanna Torgerson, sophomores Kelly Skeim and Jessica Bugge, plus freshman Kamie Twomey in the 4x200 relay.

With a bulk of the Prowlers' points normally coming from the distance events, Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo was pleasantly surprised with scoring in the shorter races. "It was a good meet," he said. "We got that first place in the short relay, and we got some points in the 100 and 200 – things we haven't had for a while."

The two Thief River Falls teams will compete in the Moorhead Athletic Assocation Invitational Friday at 11 a.m.

Prowlers split doubleheader

Thief River Falls outlasted Detroit Lakes 12-8 in a high scoring opener, but then came up empty-handed on offense in a second game 6-0 loss to Fergus Falls Saturday in a split doubleheader high school baseball outing at Detroit Lakes.

"We played well enough to split, but not well enough to sweep," offered Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. "The first game was fine. We just were not mentally sharp in the second game."

A three run sixth inning home run by Rick Ostby snapped a 7-7 tie as Thief River Falls out scored Detroit Lakes 12-8.

Ostby pitched the first three innings. Rick Looker went the final four to get the win.

Star of the North Summer Games entries available

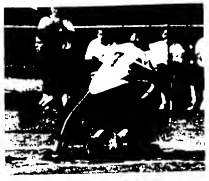
Summer Games [illegible] communities include Anoka, Blaine, Centerville, Circle Pines, Coon Rapids, Fridley, Lexington, Lino Lakes, Mounds View, New Brighton, and Spring Lake Park school districts.

Among the competitions spotlighted in the 1993 Summer Games are archery, badminton, ballroom dance, baseball, basketball, canoeing, cycling, disc golf, diving, golf, gymnastics, horseshoes, in-line skating, judo, karate, powerlifting, racquetball, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, synchronized swimming, taekwondo, tennis, track and field, volleyball, weightlifting and wrestling. A family fitness walk will be held prior to the opening ceremony Saturday, June 26.

A 48-page registration handbook containing competition divisions, schedules, housing information and entry forms for the 1993 Summer Games is available by calling 1-800-756-STAR. The materials are also available at local park and recreation department offices across the state.

Base entry fee to compete in Star of the North Games is $16 per participant before June 1, and $20 per participant after that date. Medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in each event, a t-shirt will be given to each entrant and free admission to other events will be offered to participants.

Star of the North Games organizers have developed a solid relationship with the Minnesota State High School League and all national college associations. The Games operate within the guidelines established by these groups, although it is the responsibility of sport organizers and athletes to know these rules as well.



Northland pitcher Lisa Varbout wound up covering the plate when a wild pitch, followed by a throwing error, scored two Fergus Falls runners during Friday's community college softball doubleheader in Thief River Falls. The Spartans scored early and often in the 29-3, 11-1 twinbill sweep.

State Park Reservations

Camping reservations for all Minnesota state parks from May 10 through the summer can be made now by calling 1-800-765-CAMP. Of note to anglers is that camping reservations are now being taken for the fishing opener May 15.

Camping is available year around in Minnesota state parks. However, most camp site reservations are made for the peak season from mid-May to September, when visitors want to be assured a reserved site upon arrival at the park. Up to 70 percent on a park's total number of campsites can be reserved; the rest are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Minnesota state parks serve nearly 1 million overnight campaign guests each year at sites in the 60 parks that have camping facilities, according to the Department of Natural Resources. In total, Minnesota's state parks host nearly 8 million visitors annually.

Camping reservation fee is $5.50 for each reservation. Fees can be paid by MasterCard, Visa or a check. For information regarding conditions at a specific park, call the park directly, or call toll fee 1-800-766-6000.

DNR Position s Filled

New roles are being undertaken by Department of Natural Resources regional administrators, and two new appointees are joining four current regional administrators in filling those roles.

DNR Commissioner Rod Sando recently announced the appointment of Paul Swenson as DNR Region 1 administrator for northwestern Minnesota, Joseph Day as Region 2 administrator for northwestern Minnesota, and the return of Kathleen Wallace as Region 6 administrator in the Twin Cities metro region.

They will serve in the newly defined positions that will have more emphasis on leadership and interdisciplinary approaches to resource issues, Sando said. "We expect them to take an active role in building regional teams, and to empower the DNR regional staff."

The new administrators join Region 3 Administrator Bob Hance, central Minnesota, Region 4 Administrator Jim Schneider, southwestern Minnesota, and Region 5 Administrator Bill Johnson, southeastern Minnesota.

Sando said DNR regional administrators have always performed traditional administrative roles in the six DNR regions. "However," Sando said, "under their redefined position descriptions, they will play a greater role in ensuring that resource management is carried out with an interdisciplinary approach in the regions, supporting efforts to make key resource decisions with common goals in mind. They will also forge closer links with local communities."

Swenson, who has been with the DNR since 1976, was most recently an administrative hydrologist with the DNR Waters Devision.

NORTHERN STATE BANK BEGINS
BUILDING PROJECT
OPTICAL IMAGES MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

NORTHERN STATE BANK

Northern State Bank is about to begin a major remodeling project that will improve customer privacy and convenience and make our facilities more accessible for those with disabilities. With these improvements will come a reorganization of the interior and a new design for the exterior of both our downtown locations. There will also be several temporary staff relocations which are listed below.

Those of you who remember the Northern State Bank Buildings appearance in the 30's, 40's, 50's, and 60's may find it interesting to watch as portions of the old exterior become visible this May during the first phase of construction.

We are pleased to announce that RAM Builders will be the general contractor for this project. Our community is fortunate to have a capable general contractor who employs local craftsmen.

We would also like to thank Optical Images for their cooperation and urge you to check out their new retail space located in the Northern State Bank Walk-In Teller Branch (the former First Federal Building).

Thank you in advance for your cooperation and please excuse any minor inconvenience. We hope that this project will create a fresh, modern look for our downtown and provide more convenient, private banking service to you, our customer.

Inter-County Nursing completes preschool immunization survey

Inter-County Nursing Service recently completed a survey of preschool immunization records for kindergarten children in this area — and the agency has prepared a new action plan to help ensure that all children in the community are being immunized on schedule.

The survey found that most children are starting their immunizations on time as infants, but they often fall behind schedule later on. By four months of age, 86.5 per cent of Pennington County children have received at least one dose of the standard combination for diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTP). However, only 39.3 per cent of area children have been receiving their third dose of DTP within two months of the recommended age. The first three doses of DTP are critically important in protecting a child against pertussis or whooping cough, during the first year of life.

In order to ensure that children in the community are immunized on time, Pennington county health officials have enlisted the help of a broad coalition of health care providers and other groups in the community. These community groups, representing both the public and private sectors, have been working to develop strategies for their immunization action plan.

Inter-County Nursing Service announced the survey results as state and national officials prepared to observe Preschool immunization week. Governor Arne H. Carlson has issued a proclamation making the event, which is scheduled for April 24-30. "Children have always been a top priority of this administration," Governor Carlson said, "and immunization is one of the most important things we can do for our children."

Area parents are being urged to check their records, and make sure their children have had all of their scheduled immunizations.

"The whole community needs to become involved if we are to meet our goals, and make sure all of our children are fully immunized," said Susan Olson, Nursing service director. "But the process has to start with the parents. They need to take responsibility for their own children."

To keep track of their child's immunizations, parents can get a convenient wallet-sized record card from Inter-County Nursing Service or the Minnesota Department of Health. For more information about childhood immunizations — or to ask for one of the record cards — Pennington county residents can call Inter-County Nursing Service at 681-5950.

Doug Coffin to display artwork at Northland C.C.

Doug Coffin, famous painter and sculptor, has produced a body of work as powerful and varied as the subjects he chooses for his work. Northland Community College is currently exhibiting some of his paintings on loan from the Rourke Art Gallery.

Through his unique talent he is able to dramatically blend the spiritual meaning of his subjects with vigorous design and form. This gives the viewer insight into not only the subject itself, but into the lore of the culture and the souls of the people it represents.

From his childhood fascination with animals and his study of Native American artifact books, Coffin's artistic palate of materials developed. Certain elements stood out to him, including medicinal and war shields often described in Native American visions.

Much of his work is on display across the United States and in Africa. At the museum committee's request, Coffin has submitted a design for eight 60-foot totems to stand at the entrance of the New National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, D.C.

Born in Lawrence, KA, of Potawtomie and Creek heritage, his father, Tony Coffin, a Potawatomie from Kansas, was Haskell's football, basketball and track coach. His mother, Lolita, was a Creek from Oklahoma and the homemaker for the family. Coffin now resides in Alcade, NM, near Santa Fe. He earned a bachelor of fine arts degree with a double major in silversmithing and sculpture at Kansas University. His master's degree in

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

What does complete mean?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible

What does the Apostle Paul mean when He tells us to be "complete" (2 Cor. 10:6, 13:9, 11)? A person who is complete has perfect love coming from a pure heart and a good conscience (1 Tim. 1:5, 19). He is constantly showing God's love to others by his actions (1 John 4:20-21; 3:10, 17-18; Col. 3:17).

An incomplete person lives in fear of doing wrong. He is constantly at odds with his nature (Rom. 7:15-16). He wants to do one thing, but God's word says to do something else. A person who is not yet complete is in the process of realizing, like Paul, that nothing good dwells in him and that he must be set free from his evil nature (Rom. 7:18-19).

As long as you are fighting the good fight, overcoming evil by doing good, and practicing righteousness in your daily life to please God, you are abiding in Jesus Christ (John 15:4, 8; Rom. 8:1; 1 John 4:15-16). You are not walking according to the flesh, but according to the Spirit (Rom. 8:4). Your body is alive to righteousness because you are daily putting to death the deeds of the body and living to the Spirit by practicing righteousness (Rom. 8:10, 13). Yes, there will be some suffering involved in this process, but it's only a little (Rom. 8:17-18; 1 Peter 5:10).

When you are complete, you will walk in perfect love with no fear inside (1 John 4:18). God will have perfected your faith as a result of your works (James 2:22). Your life will radiate peace (1 Peter 3:11). Your mind will be at peace (Is. 26:3).

Others will see the new nature—Christ's nature—that has been formed in you, and you will be ready to tell others how it happened (2 Tim. 2:15; 1 Peter 3:15). Your lips will reveal what is in your heart (Luke 6:45, Psalm 49:3). Because you now have this new nature, you will not hinder others. Instead, you will use this life-saving key of knowledge you have to help others to enter the kingdom of heaven (Luke 11:52).

You understand how to force your way into the kingdom that is within you (Luke 16:16; 17:21). You are disciplining yourself for the purpose of godliness (1 Tim. 4:7). You know this is the narrow Way that few find because it requires daily discipline on the part of those who are trying to enter it (Matt. 7:14; Luke 13:24; 1 Tim. 4:7). This Way is not hard, but easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30). Anyone can live this Way (1 Cor. 1:26-28).

Now that you know what it means to be made complete, isn't it time to obey the Lord so that He can make you complete (Luke 6:46; 2 Cor. 13:9, 11)? Wholeheartedly strive to please the Lord and make all your ways pleasing to Him. Persevere in keeping God's word by serving others to please Him. Remember always that only those who have an honest and good heart are being considered for eternal life (Luke 8:15; John 8:51; 10:26; Rev. 3:10).

Volunteers Give Huge Gift To Fellow Americans

Most volunteers don't give a second thought to the value of their contributions. Volunteering is just something that comes natural to them and makes them feel good.

Well over half of all Americans provide volunteer service. According to the 1992 Gallup Organization national survey entitled "Giving and Volunteering in the United States," 51 per cent of Americans volunteer an average of 4.2 hours per week. Extended to include the entire population, that would mean 94.2 million adults volunteered a total of 20.5 billion hours in 1991 with an estimated dollar value of $176 billion.

Here are some other interesting bits of information from the survey.

- The majority of volunteers are working people. Sixty-one per cent of persons who are employed part-time volunteer and 58 per cent of persons who work full-time volunteer. Persons who are not employed volunteer as well, but to a lesser extent (43 per cent).
- Single persons are among the groups showing a significant increase in percentage of volunteers. Forty-eight per cent of single people volunteered in 1991, up from 44 per cent in 1989.
- Volunteers give more money to charity than nonvolunteers. In 1991 the average yearly contribution of volunteers was $1,010 or more than twice as much as the average contribution of $477 from nonvolunteers.
- One-fourth of all volunteers (25.2 million adults) volunteer five or more hours per week. These "fivers" held steady in their volunteering from the previous survey in 1989.
- Those who identify themselves as religious and who attend religious services regularly are by far the most generous with their volunteer time.
- The fastest and most significant way to increase giving of time and money is to ask more people to help. Among the 44 per cent of respondents who were asked to volunteer in the past year, 86 per cent actually did. Among the 75 per cent who were asked to contribute, 85 per cent actually did.
- Minority groups are asked to volunteer less often, but when asked, volunteer at a higher rate than the average population.

Minnesota is on a par with the rest of the nation when it comes to volunteer service. Sixty per cent of Minnesotans volunteer, with the 1.9 million volunteers averaging 3.8 hours per week and their annual volunteer service valued at $4.7 billion.

Sixty-one per cent of Minnesota teenagers (ages 12-17) are also volunteers, averaging 3.2 hours per week. Sixty per cent of senior citizens (age 60 and older) in Minnesota are volunteers and provide 70 million hours of volunteer service annually.

Why do people volunteer? What gets them started as volunteers? According to the survey, 67 per cent want to make a significant change in society; 66 per cent had belonged to a youth group; 67 per cent saw someone they admired helping another; 61 per cent saw someone in their family helping others; and 60 per cent were helped by others in the past.

Whatever your motivation, if you are not already a volunteer, get turned on to helping others. If you are a volunteer, the thanks of a grateful community, state and nation go out to you. Your service is not only needed, it is appreciated as well. Keep up the good work.

Thank Your Child Care Provider This Week

This is the Week of the Young Child and an ideal time to take a minute or two to thank the person or people who provide child care for you—whether it is your spouse or someone outside the family who cares for your child or children during at least part of the week.

An ideal child care provider—like a good parent—is more than an overseer and guardian. A suggestion is made that a dictionary definition of child care provider would include the following:

Chef, baker, janitor, sock and shoe finder, coat buttoner, boot fitter, bottle washer, grocery shopper, diaper changer, babysitter, dish washer, nose wiper, vegetable pusher, floor sweeper, waiter, story teller, playground attendant, PE teacher, activity director, driver, zoo keeper, inspector, aerobics instructor, tutor, derby instructor, manager, composer, self-esteem builder, bookkeeper, performer, entertainer, teacher, helper, well wisher, nurse, traffic controller, noise controller, life saver, thinker, problem solver, engineer, designer, counselor, safety instructor, arbitrator, creator, inventor, companion, musician, historian, technician, dietician, athlete, beautician, fire marshall, accountant, artist, dentist, scientist, biologist, technologist, analyst, manicurist, receptionist, therapist, builder, informer, composer, supervisor, author, janitor, navigator, peacemaker, friend....

Strandquist News

Spring has really come to Northern Minnesota, bringing robins and meadowlarks back from the South and also the "Snowbirds" who pack up each fall and leave us to enjoy the cold weather and snow shoveling. It is strange how soon we can forget about the severe weather we have had when we think that we have had the privilege and pleasure of neighbors and relatives we have known most of our lives, who generally pour a cup of coffee and say, 'Pull up a chair and visit awhile.' You can't find that in a strange area anymore. People hardly dare go out after dark.

It won't be long now before the Strandquist senior citizens will be meeting again. They have decided to wait until May. The Junior Citizens had Monday off from school, so no news from them until next week.

The community was saddened last week by the death of Earling Sihlberg, one of our older citizens. His obituary is in another part of this paper. His wife, Ebba Sihlberg, has often had news for me which I have enjoyed writing. When I visited her today I was glad to hear she would be here until fall when her son Boyd has already located an apartment in the Cities for her to spend the winter. On Saturday those from a distance who attended the funeral were their son Boyd and his wife Virginia from St. Paul, Earl's sister Gladys Nelson and her son Daryl from Minneapolis, Tom and Karen Klaron and daughter Megan from South St. Paul, Bob and Brenda Shanley and Nikki and Ryan from Inver Grove, and Tracy and Kim Tunheim and Cory and Jared from St. Paul. Ebba's brother Alvin Erickson and his son Donny and wife Sherrill from Hoyt Lakes attended the funeral and returned home on Sunday.

Many of Earl's hunting buddies were there on Saturday paying their respects. Among them was Lloyd Hohrman of Long Lake and his son Ron.

Frank and Judy Kleinvachtor had birthday cake with Katie at the Wayne Larson home on Sunday.

Wednesday evening Jennifer Anderson arrived by bus in Grand Forks for Easter break. Shirley and Jennifer Anderson visited with Chana Chaffee before returning home Wednesday night. Jenny returned to Hamline University Sunday afternoon with Wendy Hairo.

Easter dinner guests at the Philip Boen home were Grace Boen, Michelle of Grand Forks, ND and Cory from Moorhead.

Gayherd and Irene Nelson enjoyed supper at the Dean Nelson home in Lancaster on Easter Sunday.

Morris and Marcolyn Lindstrom drove to Akley and spent the weekend with their son Jeff, Peggy and Jarad. Ted and Lori Johnson, Jamie, Andy and Alissa of Hallock joined them for services at United Methodist church of Akley on Sunday morning. All were guests for Easter dinner at Jeff and Peggy's home.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson, accompanied by Nelson LaDoux of Thief River Falls, drove to Sebeka on Tuesday to help Ann Hendrickson celebrate her birthday. Others at John and Ann's home were their daughters, Annette and Linda, grandson Mike, granddaughter Debbie, as well as two neighbor ladies.

Judy Kleinvachtor went to Argyle Thursday to bring Antoinette Kasprowicz birthday wishes but she had left for the Cities so Judy visited Bud and Marie Steffen instead.

Sunday Easter dinner guests at the Keith Britton home were Margo and Tom Britton, Ron and Mary Wolfe, Ben and Brenda of Minneapolis, Morris and Hazel Anderson, Jim, Cindy and Christy Wetterlund of East Grand Forks and Channa Chaffee of Grand Forks. Chana Chaffee was an overnight guest at Morris Anderson's home.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson attended the fellowship meeting at Thief River Falls Assembly of God church.

Lillian Germundson and Walter Thompson had lunch with Elsie Lefrooth on Wednesday. In the evening Isaac and Betsy Thompson and granddaughter Lisa and Pearl Thompson visited Elsie.

Strandquist . . . .

Sunday dinner guests at the Isaac Thompson home were Richard, Carol, Nicole and Karl Thompson of Red Lake Falls, Andrew and Lisa Thompson, and Nelson LaDoux. Robert and Cathy Thompson and Larry Fossell of Kennedy stopped over later.

LETTERS

To the editor:

On April 11, members of the Lincoln high school Concert Choir were led by conductor John Rutter in a performance featuring Vivaldi's Gloria and Rutter's Te Deum at Carnegie Hall. I am writing to inform your readership of the wonderful success that the ensemble enjoyed in this performance.

The aim of MidAmerica Productions is to highlight the appearance of distinguished ensembles from throughout the United States in Carnegie Hall. Indeed, since 1984 we have represented more than 450 ensembles in 110 concerts in our annual Carnegie Hall series. We are pleased that the Lincoln high school Concert Choir was a part of this series.

We congratulate the members of the chorus on their appearance and wish to make special mention of their director, Darcy Reese, for assisting them in preparing for this special concert.

Indeed, your community is fortunate to have the Lincoln high school Concert Choir in its midst. We sincerely hope that you will continue to support its activities.

We look forward to having the chorus return to our program in the future.

Sincerely,
Peter Tiboris
General Director, MidAmerica Productions

To The Editor:

I'm surprised that there aren't a lot of accidents because of the turning lane out on highway 59 south. Some drivers use it as a passing lane, some don't signal to switch lanes, some signal and get into it too early, and some don't use it at all; they make their turn from the lane they are driving in.

Last night as I was driving south I signaled left just as I passed the Pamida driveway, got into the turning lane and was waiting for oncoming traffic so I could turn onto Greenwood East. Suddenly I saw a car coming from the south in the turning lane with its left signal light on. I though it was going to turn into The Lantern driveway but instead it kept coming toward me.

At the last minute it swung back into its own right hand lane into the path of a pickup truck. The driver of the pickup had to swerve to the right to avoid hitting the car. I had visions of a three-car pile up, but thanks to the quick reactions of the pickup driver an accident was avoided.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Wicklund

"Ten Nights in a Bar Room"

"A large audience greeted Prof. Gambell's Dramatic club at the Norwegian Lutheran church last Thursday evening when they present 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room.' The piece was rendered much better than could have been expected from a company who have had little or no experience. They all have their lines well learned and clearly show that they haved all worked hard and given the piece close study. Considering everything they have had to contend with they did exceptionally well and give an entertainment which is very interesting. The proceeds which were over $27 will be expended for books for the school library."

Weather Report

"Our good weather is at an end again and today brings us another snow storm. The all-important question is 'Will we have spring early enough to get in any crop?' At present it looks decidedly as if the worst could happen."

"The river has been rising rapidly the past week and fears are entertained that when the ice goes out it will take away the county bridge. The ice is now within five feet of the bridge and if an ice jam forms it will certainly be in danger."

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve presents a certificate of commendation from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) to Arlo Ruda and Mitch Hams. Ruda is the superintendant of the utilities department. Hams is of the wastewater department. The certificate commended the staff for complying with the MPCA program. NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District, 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 17, 1993 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawler mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following, price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workmans compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 14th day of April, 1993.

REVISED ORDINANCE NO. 1
Pennington County Shoreland Ordinance

The following is a summary of the revised Shoreland Ordinance for Pennington County. A complete copy of the revised ordinance is available for review at the Pennington County Auditors Office Monday thru Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

SUMMARY

The Shoreland Management Act was enacted by the 1989 Legislature to guide development in unincorporated areas. Subsequently, the 1973 Legislature amended the Shoreland Management Act to include municipalities. The Shoreland Management Act is codified at Minnesota Statutes, Section 105.485.

The Department of Natural Resources in cooperation with a shoreland committee completed promulgation of revisions to the state's shoreland rules in June 1989. Major elements of the revised rules include:

a) Upgrading nonconforming siting on site sewage systems.

Lot suitability requirements upgraded.

b) Enhancing the performance criteria for subdivision review, bluff and near shore activities.

Provisions added to protect near shore areas, bluff areas and steep slopes from development actions that may cause soil erosion or destroy scenic views.

c) Establishing performance standards for agricultural activities "Best Management Practices" proposed for agricultural uses, forestry uses, grading and filling, vegetative alterations, fertilizer pesticide application, wetland alterations and stormwater management.

d) Development of a unique rivers classification system and performance standards.

Six new river classes established to reflect river shoreland use characteristics and development capabilities.

Management focuses on Minnesota's outstanding recreational rivers.

e) Guidance for uniform land use designations around lakes and along rivers.

Current land use plans acknowledged in shoreland areas.

Guidance provided for land use district designation to reflect individual shoreland area attributes and capacities to assimilate development.

f) Subdivision review.

Improved standards for land suitability review and platting requirements for 5 or more lots.

g) Non-riparian private access provisions.

Standards established to guide development of private access lots for backlots of subdivisions which recognize the lake's ability to absorb additional watercraft use densities.

h) Structure placement.

Rules will reduce the likelihood of lake flooding.

Development review must acknowledge land locked lakes or those with extreme water level fluctuations.

Natural Environment setback reduced to 150 feet.

New provisions will allow placement of small, water oriented structures near shorelines, such as boat houses, gazebos, small decks, etc., and reduce the clutter occurring on many state shorelines.

i) Flexibility.

Rules provide flexibility to acknowledge unique shoreland issues or management problems that may exist in specific regions of the state or for local government units.

...Spring Dirt

In one way or another, people are very attentive to dirt in the spring time.

Some people love the dirt in the spring. They have spent the entire winter planning and plotting vegetable gardens and/or flower gardens and can hardly wait to get outdoors and into the dirt in the spring to implement their plans.

These people draw little diagrams of their yards and garden plots, and spend hours making drawings of cute little rows of flowers and vegetables and squiggly patches representing plants and shrubs that will be perfectly placed to show to best advantage and make the most of the summer sun and shade.

These people love digging in the soil, planting, sowing, hoeing. They even love the smell of fresh spring dirt. It doesn't bother them in the least that they have dirt under their fingernails and mud on their knees. They know that, sooner or later, something good and worthwhile will come from all that grubbing in the dirt.

Then there are the other people. These are the people who think dirt is the enemy and will expend considerable time and effort to eradicate it. These are the people who are doing spring housecleaning.

Spring housecleaning means scrubbing, scouring and shining. People buy gallons of household cleaners and sprays and new mops and brooms to battle the dirt left from the long winter. They spend hours washing walls and windows and scrubbing floors, cleaning out cupboards and closets, and shining silver and dishes that are only used once or twice a year.

Once the scrubbing and scouring is finished, some people get carried away and decide that they must do more. They decide that things must be repainted and repaired—all the better to battle the dirt.

These people are the ones you see in the stores buying scrapers, brushes, rollers, gallons of paint and paint remover. They debate on what type of scraper will best take the old paint and wallpaper off, what type of brush or roller will best put the new paint on, what type of paint will best stop the accumulation of new dirt and grime, and what type of paint remover will best remove the paint from wherever it went that it shouldn't have gone.

People who are painting are easily identified. Most of them have paint under their fingernails, and some even have hair permanently peppered with paint. I have been known to go around with little specks of paint on my glasses for several weeks after my painting is finished, but that is another story.

Other people begin to do home repairs at the same time as spring housecleaning. These repairs often run well into the summer months, because there is never an end to what can be repaired in a home.

People who are doing repairs to their homes are usually identifiable by their bandaged fingers and bruised shins. Repairing things can be hazardous.

People who are doing repairs are often found in lumber and hardware stores, wandering aimlessly, seeking something they are not sure of but will know as soon as they see it. Lumber and hardware store employees know better than to ask if they can help these home repair people, because those who are doing the repairing usually don't know the name of what they need anyway. They will know it when they see it.

So now you know what type of people you are running into around town these days. Those with dirt under their fingernails and muddy knees are gardeners. Of the other type of people who have a rather different opinion of dirt, these with paint under their fingernails and sprinkled in various places over the rest of them are painting their houses. Those with bandaged fingers and bruises are repairing things around their homes. And, of course, those with the smug expressions are the ones who have finished their housecleaning early this year and banished the dirt for another year.

Dear Readers,
Many people prefer to pre-finance their funeral so there will be no monetary obligations to family members at time of death. They may wish to leave the final arrangements to the discretion of their survivors, realizing that personal involvement is helpful and therapeutic. Most psychologists agree that it is important for loved ones to participate in some decision-making.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Bill is introduced to link all public higher education campuses

by Sen. Roger Moe

With a small investment in technology, the best of Minnesota higher education instruction will become available throughout the state. In the past, people in remote locations of the state were isolated from the wide array of offerings available at our largest universities.

It isn't practical to expect students from Northwestern Minnesota to drive to St. Cloud or the Twin Cities in order to attend a specialty class that isn't offered nearby. At a time when no new college campuses are being built, rural residents are examining new ways to gain access to higher education opportunities.

Fortunately, a new kind of highway is now available to encourage accessibility. I am the author of legislation which will link all public higher education campuses through an Instructional Telecommunications Network.

After hearing so much about the harmful effects of television on young people, I hope we'll soon be hearing about the unlimited learning possibilities of interactive TV. You might be aware that this isn't an entirely new concept. Several schools, both in the K-12 and higher education systems, have been involved with interactive television over the past several years.

For the most part, these small highways of ideas brought together two or three remote locations, sharing classes. With a little more investment and coordination, whole regions can be linked, and a statewide inter-regional network can tie it all together.

The possibilities are nearly boundless. Not only will students in remote areas of Minnesota have the same opportunities as their urban counterparts, they are likely to notice the colleges in their own backyards becoming more specialized.

We are already beginning to see this in our own neck of the woods. For instance, the University of Minnesota at Crookston is adapting specialty offerings with the potential for greater regional linkages in mind.

Instead of endless duplication of programs at numerous campuses across the state, the interactive Minnesota Educational Network will encourage the kind of focused study necessary to prepare our students to compete on a global scale.

In addition to the physical improvements necessary to create the interactive television network, use of the system will have to be coordinated at the state and regional levels. One criticism of interactive television is that the instructors aren't always dynamic enough to come across well on the other end of the link-up. The proposal under consideration in the Minnesota Senate sets aside funding to provide additional training for faculty.

Funds are particularly tight this year, so legislators have to do a good job of setting their spending priorities. The investment in the Minnesota Educational Network is worthwhile when you realize that interactive television education will enhance educational offerings while improving efficiency and access for students across the state.

The Minnesota Educational Network has gained approval of the Senate Education Committee as part of the Omnibus Higher Education Bill passed last week. If the proposal is approved by both the House and Senate, Minnesotans soon will be reaping the rewards delivered on a new highway network of ideas.

TRF students graduate from DARE program

Hope for a drug free generation in Thief River Falls lies with 364 fifth and sixth grade students who will be honored in a special ceremony on Wednesday, May 5. On that day these 364 students will have completed the nationally recognized DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. Minnesota State Attorney General Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III will address the assembly in the Lincoln high school gymnasium beginning at 7 p.m.

This is the second graduating class of students in Thief River Falls who will make the pledge to say "No" to drugs. The program is jointly sponsored by the Thief River Falls school district, the Pennington County Sheriff's office, and the Thief River Falls police department.

The DARE program is designed to arm fifth and sixth grade students with the skills needed to resist drugs. Students participate in a 17-week series of lessons focusing on drug awareness, building self-esteem, and recognizing positive alternatives to drug use.

Started in 1983 as a joint effort of the Los Angeles Police Department and the Los Angeles Unified School District, OARE has expanded nationally. It is currently being taught in more than 55,000 classrooms in all 50 states. Pennington County implemented the program in January of 1992.

Installation for Rev. Pederson at Redeemer

Installation of Rev. Dr. Donald R. Pederson as senior pastor of Redeemer Lutheran church of Thief River Falls and Black River Lutheran church of St. Hilaire will take place Sunday, May 2, at a 4 p.m. worship service at Redeemer Lutheran.

Rev. Trueman Daniels, assistant to the Bishop of the Northwest Minnesota Synad, will be guest preacher and preside at the installation. Area clergy and associates in ministry will also participate in the worship service, featuring a combined choir of the two congregations.

Rev. Pederson has served as an active duty chaplain in the U.S. Air Force, as chaplain of United Recovery Center in Grand Forks, ND, and in parishes in Oregon, Minnesota and, most recently, Florida.

He is a native of Westbrook, attended college at Mankato State University and seminary at Luther Seminary in St. Paul and was ordained in 1966. He has had special training in the field of chemical dependency and crisis counseling and completed his Doctor of Ministry program in Oubuque, IA, in 1980.

Rev. Pederson and his wife Ann have three children: Kristi, living in Seattle, WA; Mark, living in New York City; and Nadine, who will graduate from the University of Minnesota in June.

Terese Gieuque received a superior rating for her Germany geography poster at the Moorhead State Language Fair competition.

Songs for Spring

Spring is all over and you just want to sing! Well, here are a couple of cute little songs you can sing with your favorite child about Spring. They are set to the tunes of familiar children's songs so they are very easy and fun to learn.

Season Song
(sung to the tune of "Frere Jacques")

It is spring time!
It is spring time!
Winter's gone.
Winter's gone.
Summer time is coming.
Summertime is coming.
It won't be long.
It won't be long.

It is Raining
(same tune as above)

It is raining.
It is raining.
On my head
On my head.
Pitter patter raindrops
Pitter patter raindrops
I'm all wet.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through their new selection of children's books including the following about "daddies":

Wood, Jakki. Dads Are Such Fun. Young readers will soon realize that the playful and loving dads of animals aren't much different from their own.

Greenspun, Adele Aron. Daddies. A child's first steps, the first day of school, playful afternoons in the park: this book captures the joy of the special relationship between fathers and their children.

VIDEO VARIETY

What Every Baby Knows: On Being a Father. This video explores the demanding responsibility of raising a child from a father's perspective. Changing roles and relationships of a modern day father are reflected upon.

 Don't forget to attend Storytime every Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m.

PARENTING TIPS

More on Playing Together

Many preschool children enjoy combining cooperative play (as discussed last week) with pretend play to form what is called social fantasy play. In this type of play, each child is assigned a specific fantasy role (fire fighter, nurse, super hero, mom) in a game with a specific fantasy theme (such as a trip to the moon).

Through social fantasy, children assume leadership roles, learn to better manage their own feelings and to be more understanding of others.

As children progress through the various stages of play, it is apparent that play is very important in their development. It is how they learn about the world around them. Parents and care givers need to be aware of all the things that are going on when a child plays and provide for it. Play is important work for children.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Encourage your child's pretend play. Your child will enjoy it if you join in the fantasy with him/her.

Allows readers to speak out on a variety of issues

by Rep. Jim Tunheim

The Minnesota House Tuesday passed a tax bill I believe will control property taxes and raise the level of state support for schools in District 1A and throughout Minnesota.

I voted in favor of this historic legislation, and I'd like to take the time to tell you a little about it.

The House Tax bill controls property taxes by significantly increasing the state share of K-12 school funding—allowing schools in our area to actually reduce levies.

Under this bill, the owner of a $36,100 home in Northwestern Minnesota would see a property tax increase of about $22 from 1993 to 1994. In contrast, the Governor's plan would mean an increase of twice that much.

The House bill also targets farmers with $27 million in tax relief—and much of the $317 million windfall resulting from the new tax rates would go toward helping agricultural property owners.

Agricultural properties, in fact, will see a decrease in property taxes of at least 10 percent.

The Governor's plan entails property tax hikes of six to 12 percent across the board—and a few drips of one-time relief to farmers. I honestly feel the House plan will do more good for more people.

First of all, the bill creates a new 10 percent income tax rate on taxable income over $100,000 for couples and over $56,500 for singles. Because it applies to income after exemptions and deductions, a couple would have a gross income of $125,000 or more, and a single $70,000 or more, before paying any extra tax.

The current tax rate is 8.5 percent, so the increase for the 69,000 affected taxpayers is only 1.5 cents on the dollar.

Furthermore, the new rate applies only to income above $100,000 or $56,500. So if a couple's taxable income is $99,999.99, they will not pay one dime more.

This new tax rate raises $317 million, and all of it returns to taxpayers via their property tax bills or the expanded Working Family Tax Credit—a dollar of new tax equals a dollar of tax relief.

Many of you recall great anti-property tax unrest in the early 1970s. The answer then was the "Minnesota Miracle," a commitment of state income tax dollars to schools and local governments.

But after 20 years, the property tax is again our chief tax. The new plan, like the Minnesota Miracle, aims to control property taxes by increasing the share of state support for local schools—so they no longer have to rely so heavily on property taxes. That's why we call it the "Return the Miracle" tax plan.

Most of the ideas in the bill are not radical. The Minnesota Poll found 85 percent support for raising taxes on the rich. Gov. Carlson's Minnesota Milestones sets a goal of "a strengthened middle class and...improving the economic condition of the poor relative to the rich." The Minnesota Business Partnership has called on the state to finance "the entirety of educational instruction costs."

The House bill puts it all together. We reduce property taxes and restore fairness to our tax system. But most of all, we guarantee the quality of a child's education won't depend on property values.

As always, I appreciate your comments on this or any other state issue. You can reach me at 335 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN, 55155; or telephone (612) 296-9635.

Minnesota farmland values increased seven per cent between July of 1991 and July of 1992 with the average value per acre reaching $912—the highest level since 1984. Northwest Minnesota had the second highest percentage increase in value at 11 per cent to $563. Buyers of Minnesota farmland tend to be farmers seeking to expand their land base. They accounted for 79 per cent of reported sales in 1992. Retirement was the most frequent reason cited for sale of farmland. Financial difficulty as a reason for sale was low compared with levels prior to 1989. Source of information is "Minnesota Rural Real Estate Market in 1992" by J. Brekko and P. Reup, Minnesota Extension Service, University of Minnesota.

Better accounting demanded

As chairman of the House Government Operations subcommittee on Employment, Housing and Aviation, Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes said he wants more accounting responsibility from government agencies.

Peterson's subcommittee has oversight responsibility for the departments of Labor, Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Federal Aviation Administration.

"If we're going to go in and make those departments work better, we need accounting systems to measure them," Peterson said.

According to the Congressman, who is also a Certified Public Accountant, federal agencies have no accounting systems to measure the real cost of government programs, despite the 1989 Chief Financial Officer Act, which requires that all department have a qualified chief financial officer prepare financial statements.

"Many agencies put administrative staff members in place to get around the legislation," he said, "and those people do not perform audits nor prepare financial statements. We need to get serious about cutting waste, and there's no way to do that without determining the cost of government. I'm going to try to make it happen in Labor and HUD."

Wayne Stubbe named Aviation Advisor of Year

Wayne Stubbe of Northwest Airlines, Inc., was selected as the Aviation Advisor of the Year at the annual Aviation Maintenance Technicians conference that was held at the Thunderbird Hotel in Bloomington on March 25.

Stubbe received his award at the opening of the conference. ## Impressions . . .

by
Beth [illegible]

[illegible] weekend [illegible] friend [illegible] years [illegible]

This friend was a farmer. He farmed in Illinois just west of Chicago. My family met him and his family when my father was the pastor of the little country church his family attended. That was over [illegible] years ago.

This farmer's family consisted of two daughters and a wife. His wife died several years ago. His daughters have been faithfully taking care of their father, an invalid for many years. The family still lives on the old farmplace. It is that place that evokes many memories for me.

One of those memories is the smell. A barnyard to the person who does not like it can smell atrocious. I am one of those strange persons who happens to love the smells of a farm. One of the wonderful memories of my childhood is the smells of the farm in Illinois. The raw, sweet, musty, dirty, wet, clean smell of a farm stirs feelings of wistfulness for me. I supposes the smell makes me wish for that time when I was a child and life was carefree.

I remember many things about that farm. I remember the cows. Most of the cattle were raised as beef. A couple of cows were for the family's milk supply. I remember the farmer trying to teach me how to milk his cow. I did not succeed. But I remember the coolness and wetness of the milk house where the milk was stored until the family needed it. I remember, too, the kittens always around when the cow was being milked, hoping for a handout of milk.

The barn was a source of many mysteries to me, a city girl. The lower level had the cattle and the milking cow. The upper level, which we got to via a ramp on the outside of the barn, was a place of delight. It contained a special little room where the homing pigeons lived. It also had a spot where we kids were allowed to throw some hay down to the cattle below. I was thrilled to be able to discover the corners of the barn. We were probably in the way, we city kids, but nevertheless, we explored the barn. In the upper level of the barn was also the spot where my sister was shown how to shoot a bow and arrow into the bales of hay. I was a bit envious—but I would never dream of asking to learn myself!!!

Outside the barn was the farmyard and its assortment of animals. In the farmyard [illegible] the [illegible] we [illegible] we [illegible] the pet [illegible]

In a separate building were the pigs. I remember being [illegible] the baby pigs and then [illegible] to get my sister to show her the pigs [illegible] the German Shepherd [illegible] us running in his barnyard and gave us a good chase. I've been leery of German Shepherds ever since that day in the farmyard.

The smell of the farm and the animals of the farm take a second place, though, to the people of that farm. The people who lived there always seemed to have the time to give to us, no matter how busy they were. We children were perhaps a good excuse to take a few hours off from the work of the farm. The food on the farm was extraordinary. We always had to stay for dinner—which, even if it was supposedly a light supper, was a feast. Part of the feast, thought, was the delight all of us seemed to have for each other—telling bits and pieces of our lives as we sat crowded around the dining room table.

I remember a birthday I spent on the farm. I remember particularly the cake that had been baked into the shape of a piano. I was easy to impress!

I remember the times when I was no longer a child, but a college student away from home for the first time. Even then this farm family reached out to me. The daughters drove into the city of Chicago and brought me "home" to the farm for a weekend. I remember feeling very special that someone cared for me even though I was not family.

I am no longer a child or a college student. I am married with a family of my own. It was important to me to see that my children also received the privilege of knowing the people on this farm. I have had the privilege of watching my sons explore the barn—now in various stages of disuse. I have had the privilege of watching my sons try to gather eggs and actually succeed in petting a chicken!!! I have had the privilege of introducing my children to the people who took the time for them as they once did for me.

A friend has died, but friendship breeds memories. The memories of that farm will linger with me for a lifetime, and, with those memories of a place will be memories of people and laughter and good times and good food and, yes, even good smells!

Strandquist

Last week I had the pleasure of visiting Mrs. Eddie Nelson and getting some Easter news from her. I didn't have my book along to put it into, so imagine how I felt on Friday when I put on my jacket again and found the article in my pocket. Will you please excuse me, Marcy? I was so interested in the picture your son, Kevin had painted. Kevin Nelson, who lives in Richfield is a quadriplegic, due to a diving accident near Strandquist 15 years ago when he was only 14. He paints with the brush in his teeth, and does a tremendous job. He is also a singer. He called the Nelsons to wish them a Happy Easter. Guests at Eddie Nelson's for Easter dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Nelson, Chad and Arlon from Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Woinarowicz, Nicholas, Lance and Tron, and Nicole and Jenny Carlson from Middle River, and Norma Carlson of Kennedy.

As I was walking home from uptown this noon, a strong east wind reminded me of a few years back when it had been very dry for a long time, and the church congregations had been asked to pray for rain. One old gentleman, full of faith, stood up and said, "It's no use unless the wind is from the east." If you think it's too dry now, today would be a good time to ask for rain.

We had a card from George Rasmussen this week. He has been staying with his daughter and her husband in California for awhile, but is expecting to be here this summer. We are all looking forward to seeing him around here again.

Justin Ranum from Moorhead spent the weekend with his grandmother, Ellen Stromberg, and returned home on Sunday.

Kathy Englund the music teacher at Tri-County schools, said she is having a spring concert on May 3rd, at 7:30 p.m. at the Strandquist gym. It is featuring the K-3 children and is called "It's A Jungle Out There." It is good the pupils are finding that out before they have to live in it.

Pearl Thompson, Elsie Lefrooth and Walter Thompson enjoyed fellowship supper at the Heritage School on Friday evening.

Frank and Judy Kleinvachter enjoyed Easter dinner with Bud and Marie Steffen at Argyle on Sunday. In the evening Ellen Stromberg and Frank Grochowski visited Frank and Judy.

Many folks from around here attended the beautiful wedding of Danny and Gloria Renstrom's granddaughter, Carla Deshene to David Melkort, at the Lutheran church in Argyle on Saturday. A grand time was had by all, and we wish them many happy years together.

Lionel and Boots Johnson and Peter and Pearl Thompson had dinner at Danny and Becky Johnson's on Sunday.

Arnold and Vernice Larson from Newfolden, and Leonard Torkolson visited at LaVoi Thun's on Saturday evening.

Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls and Donnie and Marlys Lefrooth had pre-Easter dinner at the Elsie Lefrooth home on Saturday. Elaine brought her mother a beautiful Easter corsage.

Joan Gehrls of Inkster, ND visited Tuesday evening at the Frank and Judy Kleinvachter home.

Walter Thompson and Elsie Lefrooth were Easter dinner guests at the Donnie Lefrooth home. Melanie Lefrooth of Wilmer spent the holiday there with her folks and returned home on Monday.

Betty and Mike Johnson of Warroad, accompanied by Elphie Adlis motored to Minot on Saturday to visit and celebrate Kevin Kraft's fourth birthday at the home of Tracy and Kim Kraft. Others at the birthday party were his other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Kraft, and their sons, Tom and Ken, and two other cousins. Elphie, Betty and Mike had Easter dinner with Tracy and Kim, and the next day Mike and Betty took a trip through Medora, Deadwood and Yellowstone, returning on Wednesday to Minot. Elphie came home with them Wednesday evening at which time the roads were bare. They drove down there in eight inches of snow.

I got a real let-down today in the mail, in fact I didn't let Roy see it. Some outfit that has never even seen me, wanted to help me out with a special skin care cream. They said I had nothing to lose but dried out, old looking, unattractive skin. I can't figure out that they know about it. Some people know how to throw their weight around and I wish them nothing good for today!

Monday evening Frank and Judy Kleinvachter brought birthday wishes to Frank Grochowski. June Kasprowicz stopped at Frank's Wednesday and Thursday noon for lunch. Julius Kleinvachter was to Frank Kleinvachter's Tuesday noon.

Ellen Stromberg drove to Moorhead on Friday to visit Bill Ranum's, and returned on Sunday.

Polaris has record sales and earnings

Record sales of $107,115,000 and net income of $6,138,000 for the first quarter of 1993 were announced Thursday by Polaris Industries Partners L.P.

Company officials said demand for all-terrain vehicles and personal watercraft pushed the sales up 53 per cent over a year ago and that net earnings were nearly triple the amount earned in the first quarter of 1992.

"Historically, our first quarter has been dedicated to ATV production," explained Victor K. Atkins Jr., Polaris General Partner. "The addition of personal watercraft sales and earnings has resulted in a significant increase in operating results for the quarter."

On March 31, 1993, the company had cash and cash equivalents of $14.2 million versus $4.9 million on March 31, 1992. Cash flow from operating activities in the first quarter was $10.3 million, compared to a negative $2.4 million in the first quarter of 1992.

Atkins said the company expects to declare its next quarterly distribution of $1.25 per unit in June, payable on or about August 16 to unit holders of record on June 15.

He also said unit holders will vote soon on the partnership's planned two-for-one split. Documents have been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and consent statements will be mailed to unit holders on April 30.

The record date for unit holders entitled to vote on the consent was April 15. The consent voting period ends July 15, and if approved, the split will occur shortly thereafter.

Suggestions given during Horticultural Awareness Month

by Beattie Mickelson
Publicity Chairman 13th District
Horticultural Society

April is Horticultural Awareness Month and 1993 is the Year of the Pumpkin. It may be hard for some of us to think about pumpkins in April, but if we are going to have them in September or October, we must think about them in April.

In the same way, if we are to enjoy daffodils, crocuses, tulips now we must think about them in September or October when they need to be planted.

Pumpkins originated in the tropics and are a frost-sensitive plant, a warm-season vegetable, that does most of its growing in warm weather. That is why we do not plant them until all danger of frost is past.

Pumpkins are usually planted five to six seeds per hill and the hills six to eight feet apart. Pumpkin seeds take seven to 14 days to germinate. If you want to get a head start on them, plant the seeds in peat pots around May 1. At transplanting time, plant the whole pot, well below the surface of the soil, as the root system does not like to be disturbed at transplanting time.

If any of the peat pot is above the soil, it will work like a wick to dry out the plant. This advice applies to another vine crops as well.

If the weather turns wet and cold at transplanting time, it is better to hold off transplanting the young plants until conditions improve.

Some growers also recommend using plastic mulch to grow vine crops. It traps warmth in the soil, smothers weeds, conserves moisture and protects developing fruit from damaging ground contact, soil bacteria or soil insects. Mulches of glass clippings, straw, compost or wood chips can also be used.

During a dry summer growing season, water the plants thoroughly to a depth of six inches about every 10 days. Pumpkins have both male and female flowers with the female flowers producing the fruit. They also depend on bees for pollination.

If you want to grow a huge pumpkin, pinch off all the developing fruit except one or two on each vine.

Pumpkins can be decorated while they are still growing. Using a knife or nail, scratch a face, a name or some other design into the skin of the young pumpkin in late August or early September, making the cuts about one-fourth inch deep. As the pumpkin grows to maturity, scar tissue will form over the cuts, producing raised areas in the shell.

Pumpkins should be harvested when the rinds are hard and have a deep solid orange color; but be sure to harvest them before they are injured by heavy frost.

For best results, leave three or four inches of stem attached to the fruit; then cure for one to two weeks at 75 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit to harden the rind. After curing, store them in a well-ventilated, dry area at temperatures of 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Pumpkin flesh is very high in Vitamin A and delicious purees are used in pie, bread, cakes, cookies and muffins. The puree can be canned or frozen and stored for use throughout the year. Pumpkin seeds are also edible and very nutritious.

Pumpkins are affected by insects like aphids, cucumber beetles, squash bugs and vine borers and the diseases of bacterial wilt, anthracnose and mosaic virus.

Pumpkins can be fertilized with a general purpose fertilizer of 5-10-5, but more importantly, avoid using a high nitrogen fertilizer late in the growing season. High nitrogen at that time will give you lots of vine and no fruits.

Pumpkins have numerous roots near the surface and the vines will set down roots in various places as they vine along the ground, so it is wise to practice shallow cultivation around the plants.

Pumpkin Varieties

Pumpkins come in a wide variety of sizes and variations of the basic round shape. The munchkin and Jack-Be-Little varieties have become very popular in the last decade with their three to four inch fruits, bright orange color and pronounced grooves. They can used for decorations and are also edible.

If you want to grow a very large pumpkin pick varieties like Atlantic Giant, Connecticut Field, Big Moon or Big Tom and remember to only let two fruits develop per vine. There are also some pumpkins that are considered the pie pumpkin including Small Sugar, Jackpot (rated one of the best) and Bushskin.

Some pumpkins are considered the Jack O' Lantern pumpkin because of their round smooth shape such as Spookie, Jackpot, Autumn Gold and Baby Bear.

Something new that has appeared in garden seed catalogues this year is the variety Lumina. The description given is a white skin, bright orange flesh, eight to ten inches in diameter and ten to twelve pounds with outstanding flavor.

Low-maintenance Flowers

Last spring while shopping at a local greenhouse, I heard someone ask for plants that would be minimum maintenance with lots of bloom in their flower garden.

As I thought about that question later, two flowers come to mind; impatiens and fibrous begonias. Both of these plants do well in shade, are very susceptible to frost, like cool soil with plenty of moisture and will continue to bloom without the dead blossoms having to be removed (deadheading).

Both come in various shades of red, white, pink, salmon and purple. Both plants have bush type growth habits, growing six to eighteen inches tall and the same distance wide. Both are often used in containers and are grown indoors.

Impatiens plants originated in India and Africa, are shade-loving plants and a very popular container plant. They come in solid colors of white, pin, salmon, red, purple and bi-colors with white stars at their centers. They come in single and double blooms.

Impatiens seeds need to be started ten weeks before planting out of doors. When grown indoor, impatiens like light but outdoors it likes shade.

Impatiens seedlings are very susceptible to fungus diseases, so sterile containers and planting medium should be used. Impatiens are also troubles by aphids.

Some of the popular series of impatiens are Elfins, Futura, Blitz and Grande. A special strain of impatiens developed from wild species collected in New Guinea have exotic, variegated leaves and extra large flowers.

New Guinea impatiens are generally more difficult to grow than regular impatiens. Some varieties require full sun rather than shade. Impatiens can also repropagate by stem cuttings that are rooted in water.

Begonias can tolerate a little more sun than impatiens. Besides the continuous blooms of begonias, the various leaf colors add a lot of interest to the garden.

These plants are one of the most difficult annuals to start from seed. The seeds are like specks of dust, they germinate slowly and take twelve weeks to produce transplants. They can also be propagated by stem cutting rooted in water. Begonias are usually insect-free but can be bothered by bacterial leaf spot or botrytis blight.

They are shallow rooted so they do not need to be watered often and do like frequent feeding of a diluted liquid fertilizer. They are also called wax begonias because of the texture of the leaves: fleshy, smooth and shiny.

They are sold by size: dwarf (six to eight inches high), intermediate (eight to ten inches) and tall (ten to twelve inches) and as green-leaved, bronze leaved and variegated leaved.

Flowers are single, double and picotee. The most important requirement for a stunning floral display is a good rich loam soil with lots of organic matter that helps keep the soil cool and retains moisture without creating a water-logged condition.

If you are looking for something that is low maintenance, will give you lots of color in the shade and also will look good in pots or containers, try some of the many varieties of impatiens or fibrous begonias.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS!

AFTER A TORNADO HITS

Closely inspect your property, including automobiles for damage. Check immediately for electrical problems and gas leaks. If [illegible] is likely to occur, contact the [illegible] or fire department as soon as possible.

If you have suffered extensive damage, contact your insurance agent. Meanwhile, protect your property from further damage or theft. Heavy rains often follow a tornado, so try to provide shelter for property that would be damaged by water.

Take an inventory of the damage to help speed your insurance settlement. Your homeowners policy provides coverage for additional living expenses if you are unable to stay in your home. There is also a policy provision for paying the expense of debris removal.

If you have not suffered damage, be a good neighbor and assist those who need help. But do not telephone directly into or visit a disaster area. Reports will be broadcast, so let the rescue work proceed unhampered by spectators and curiosity seekers.

If you have questions about your homeowners or business insurance, NORTHERN STATE AGENCY will be glad to discuss your coverage with you. If you haven't had your policies reviewed recently, this may be a good time to have us look them over. NORTHERN STATE AGENCY is located in the Northern State Bank building. Office hours are 8:30-4:30 Mon.-Fri.; 8:30-6:00 Thurs.

Girls high school golf tournament...

Rams, Dahle take titles in TRF meet

Amy Dahle beat the high winds and the rest of the field Monday to win medalist honors at the annual Thief River Falls Invitational girls high school golf meet.

Dahle, a Class A state runner-up as a sophomore last spring, shot an 84 in the gusty winds, finishing well ahead of Crookston's Jenny Bruun, the runner-up at 99. Thief River Falls' Amy Enge was third with a 102.

Team-wise, Roseau took the title with a 424, followed by Thief River Falls at 433, Crookston 449, Red Lake Falls 457, Warren 482, East Grand Forks 496, Warroad 521, and the Thief River Falls junior varsity 521.

"When all the teams show up, we'll be somewhere in the middle of the pack," said Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "We don't have any state champions. Our goal is to shoot in the low 400's. I think that's a reasonable expectation. If we can do that in an 18-hole tournament, we'll be happy."

Six letter winners on this year's Thief River Falls squad include seniors Kara LeMoine, Angie Dahlen and Enge; junior Sara Tyler; along with sophomores Kelly Liden and Keri Schommer.

TRF Invitational

■ Team totals - Roseau 424, Thief River Falls 433, Crookston 449, Red Lake Falls 457, Warren 482, East Grand Forks 496, Warroad 521, Thief River Falls junior varsity 521.

Northland, Vermilion split doubleheader

Kelly Gray homered, Roger Bienusa went 2-for-2, while Nolan Desjarlait and Mike Swanson were both 2-for-3 as Northland opened a Saturday Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader against Vermilion with an 8-5 win.

Vermilion was a 14-4 winner in Game 2.

First-game winning pitcher Todd Martin was supplied with a 6-0 third inning lead. He gave way to Mitch Bernstein when the visiting Ironmen cut the lead in half in the top of the sixth, 6-3. They finished with three strike-outs and just one walk.

Gray had a pinch-hit home run in the sixth as the Pioneers rebuilt their lead to 8-3.

"We got up early, then hung on to win it," offered Northland coach Terry Wiseth.

Northland ....................4

Vermilion jumped out to a 9-2 third inning lead in Game 2 and finished with a 10-run victory.

Starting and losing pitcher Ryan Bothum failed to survive the third inning. John Pearson and Mike Swanson worked in relief. They gave up just one walk and struck out four, but they surrendered 19 hits and were victimized by four Northland errors.

"They got a bunch of hits, and combined with the errors, got a chance to score some runs," explained Northland coach Terry Wiseth.

Offensively, Swanson was 2-for-3 with two home runs, while Troy Storeby went 2-for-4 with two doubles. But the Pioneers left too many men on bases, netting just two runs out of bases loaded situations in the second, third, sixth and seventh innings.

"We had too many strike-outs (11)," mentioned Wiseth. "We couldn't get the timely hits."

"The competition was very tough," emphasized Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "But we did improve. We had some good efforts. I was satisfied. It (seventh place) wasn't for lack of effort. We're a couple of meets behind some of these teams, and we don't have the facilities they have, either."

Track girls run into strong competition

Thief River Falls girls turned in solid performances, but found points hard to come by against a strong field at the Moorhead Athletic Association Invitational high school track meet Friday.

West Fargo took team honors with 100 points, followed by Moorhead with 93, Grand Forks Red River 89, Alexandria 79, Fargo South 76, Fargo North 64, Bemidji 16, and Thief River Falls 9.

"We saw high-quality athletes," reported Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chlodo. "We faced some outstanding individuals, and teams with very good depth. But our kids had some really good efforts. A lot of our kids who didn't place still had their personal-bests of the year."

Roseau outlasts Tri-County/MCC in 19-13 contest

Tri-County/Marshall County Central lost a 19-13 high school baseball shoot-out against Roseau Saturday at Karlstad.

The Rams combined 14 hits with eight Tri-County/Marshall County Central errors for the win.

Jeremy Tallum and Donnie Carlson both had three hits for Tri-County/Marshall County Central, while Matt Kasprowicz and Chris Stevenson had two each and Shane Borg scored five times while officially going 1-for-1 at the plate.

Borg was the starting pitcher. Tollef Olson came on in the third and took the loss, while Cory Schouten worked the final two frames.

DNR News

Rough Fish Spearing

Minnesota's rough fish spearing season begins May 1 and lasts through February 20, next year. Minnesota residents with a valid angling license, and resident youngsters under age 16, may take most species of rough fish by spearing/harpooning, archery or hand-held dip nets, between the hours of sunrise and sunset, on all inland waters—except designated trout lakes and streams, or areas where fishing is otherwise prohibited.

Some restrictions apply, according to Capt. Byron Dyrland, Northwest Regional Enforcement Supervisor for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. "Nonresidents may not participate in rough fish spearing, netting or archery," said Dyrland, "but they can take rough fish by regular angling methods if they have a nonresident fishing license and observe all the regular fishing laws."

"Snagging fish by means of hooks or wires attached to poles, lines or regular fishing tackle is illegal," warned Dyrland. "Deliberate snagging or indiscriminate casting and retrieving of hooks or lures in an attempt to snag fish is illegal because game fish could be snagged and injured in the process. Rough fish caught by hook and line must be hooked in the mouth to be legal."

"Taking game fish out of season by any means is, of course, illegal," continued Dyrland. "You should be sure of your target fish when spearing or archery fishing, to avoid killing or injuring game fish."

Three species of rough fish have possession limits, according to Minnesota fishing regulations. No more than 100 bullheads, 50 suckers and 50 redhorse may be taken by any one resident angler. And white fish are not considered rough fish. All species of rough fish may be bought or sold except cisco (tullibee).

Northland weekend baseball doubleheaders...

Pioneers wind up with split

A big offensive effort from Mike Swanson, Mitch Bernstein and Kelly Gray made things easy for Northland pitcher Parrish Tatum as the Pioneers opened a Sunday doubleheader against Hibbing with a 16-6 five-inning Minnesota Community College Conference baseball win in Thief River Falls.

Swanson and Bernstein were both 3-for-3 and Gray was 2-for-3 with a home run and five RBI – a figure matched by Swanson. Tatum also got into the act offensively with a 2-for-2 game at the plate.

"We did a nice job," noted Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "We hit the ball, played some defense, and Parrish kept the ball low."

A two-run home run by Gray helped supply Northland with a 4-0 first inning lead.

The Cardinals rebounded with a 10-7 second-game win.

Coupled with a Saturday split against Vermilion, the Sunday results left Northland 4-7-1 overall, 4-4 in the MCCC Northern Division.

"We were hoping to win three our of four," said Northland coach Terry Wiseth, who looked for a successful homestand to put the Pioneers among the Northern Division leaders heading into the stretch run of the 1993 MCCC schedule. "Now we're going to have to go out and sweep somebody on the road. If we can do that, we can get right back in it," he said.

Most of the Hibbing damage was done in the second and third innings when the Cardinals scored seven times en route to a 10-7 win in Game 2.

Errors played a part in both early-game scoring outbursts. The Pioneers had three of them in the second inning, and watched the Cardinals score twice after a potential inning-ending ground ball was booted in the third, extending the Hibbing at-bat.

Mitch Bernstein tried to keep the Pioneers in it offensively with a 3-for-4 game at the plate that included a two-run sixth inning home run.

Bernstein was the starting and losing pitcher. John Pearson came on in relief in the fifth and Ryan Bothum worked the seventh. They combined on four strike-outs and four walks.

"I was real happy with our run production for the weekend," said Northland coach Terry Wiseth. "If anybody would have told me we would score 35 runs in four games I would have said they were crazy. But we really hit the ball well, and our pitchers weren't throwing that bad. But we can't commit errors like that and expect to win."

Prowlers out-score Rams in 15-7 game

Carter Rogalla and Jason Svir both hit two-run home runs Monday as Thief River Falls out-scored Roseau 15-7 in a high school baseball game played at Irv Wilson Field.

Jeremy Olson was the winning pitcher as the Prowlers improved their record to 4-2 heading into a Tuesday home field match-up against North Sub-Section 8AA rival Moorhead.

Thief River Falls is 1-2 against Class AA competition, beating Detroit Lakes 12-8 while losing to Fergus Falls 6-0 and Bemidji 11-10.

Following the Moorhead contest the Prowlers will be on the road for games against Minot (in Detroit Lakes Saturday), Crookston, Warroad, and Moorhead, along with an appearance at the Alexandria Invitational. Next Thief River Falls home game will be May 11 vs. Red Lake Falls.

Supplying the Prowlers with their lone win in Monday's duel meet high school tennis match with Crookston were juniors Kyle Jordet (left) and Derek Dahlstrom, who claimed a 7-5, 4-6, 7-5 decision at No. 1 doubles. The Pirates spoiled Thief River Falls' home opener 6-1.

B/G-MR girls looking to the future

Moments after the 1992-93 high school basketball season came to a close, Badger/Greenbush Middle River girls coach Tom Neibauer was looking ahead to 1993-94. With good reason. The Gators went 19-6 this winter with just one senior in the line up.

"If we work at it, we have a chance to win district (sub section) next year," said Neibauer. "That should be our goal. But we can't sit on our hands and expect to win without working at it. We still have flaws in our game, both individually and team-wise, that have to be corrected."

Headlining the list of underclassmen is Krissi Super, who became a 1,000-point career scorer as a freshman in 1992-93 when she averaged 21.1 points per game.

Sophomores Jessica Borgen, Heather Anderson and Ali Hietala, along with juniors Sara Melby, Robyn Iverson and Sheree Nelson, also played regularly this winter. The lone senior playing for the first-year cooperative/pairing combination was Raquel Kilen.

"No one is ever really happy unless you win region (section)," noted Neibauer, "but for the age level we were at this year, you had to be satisfied where we finished. We won 19 games. The six losses included two in the Christmas tournament, two in the district (sub-section) tournament and two regular season games against Roseau."

While Super stood out, her teammates supplied plenty of support. "Our passing has always been our strong point," explained Neibauer. "The kids worked well together offensively, and we really improved defensively. We kept most teams in the 35-40 point range, and if you can do that, you should be in most games."

With their returning talent, the Gators will certainly be among the favorites next winter. But off season work, stressed Neibauer, will determine whether or not they live up to those expectations.

Outdoor News

National Survey Results

Texas leads the nation with more than 1 million sport hunters while Florida and California tie for the lead in anglers, each with more than 2.6 million, according to preliminary state-by-state results of a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service survey on outdoor recreation.

California easily has the largest number of people – 6.5 million – who enjoy wildlife-related activities such as feeding, observing or photographing wildlife.

"The survey reflects how many Americans join me in loving outdoor wildlife recreation," said Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt. "It shows wildlife resources are a vital part of our national lifestyle, and make a major contribution to the health of our country."

The survey, conducted every five years, is the most extensive periodic examination of the participation of U.S. residents in wildlife recreation.

National results show over 100 million Americans ages 16-over enjoy some activity relating to fish and wildlife. A total of 40 million people fish or hunt, and 76 million people participate in nonconsumptive activities.

Annual economic value of wildlife-related recreation is about $58 billion.

Alaska boasts the highest percent of residents who fish (38 percent), while Montana has the highest percentage of residents who hunt (26 percent).

West North Central Region, including Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and South Dakota, has the highest percentage of residents who participate in nonconsumptive activities – 52 percent. That region also leads the nation in the percentage of residents who fish (27 percent) and hunt (13 percent).

U.S. Bureau of Census interviewed 128,000 households to determine participants in wildlife-associated activities.

Last such national survey was in 1985. As expected, the 1991 estimates of participation are lower than those of 1985. This is not indicative of an actual decline, note survey officials, but rather the result of the changes in methodology. Other information sources, such as fishing and hunting license purchases and excise taxes on industry sales, indicate a relatively steady level of participation in fishing and hunting activities nationwide since 1985.

Amateur traveling baseball team still looking for games

Baseball games between traveling teams and the local hometown favorites used to highlight many summer nights in Minnesota. Before the days of television, these games provided entertainment and more. It was a time when people socialized and experienced a community spirit as they rooted their team on against the visitors.

That style of baseball will once again come to central and northern Minnesota this summer. A senior men's team (35-over) has been formed to travel to communities to play local teams.

The traveling team has developed a tentative schedule with several towns in northern and central Minnesota. More games are being sought.

Home teams are asked to provide a team, the field, and an umpire. Bats, catcher's equipment and baseballs will be provided by the traveling team.

"Most communities have lots of guys who still want to play baseball, but don't have the opportunity or don't feel comfortable joining an amateur team," noted Jeff Howard, a spokesman for the traveling team. "This is a chance for them to get a local team together and play in somewhat of a low-key manner, but still enjoy the competitiveness of a good baseball contest."

For for information contact Jeff Howard at 218-829-3055.

Chances slim for water contamination

Chances of illness as a result of tainted water as in Milwaukee recently are slim at the new water plant in Thief River Falls, according to Al Lamm, superintendent of the water department.

A recent outbreak of Cryptosporidiosis (a parasitic illness) in Milwaukee raised many concerns. Thief River Falls' water supply also comes from surface water. In a letter to the director of utilities, Arlo Rude, "the reasons for monitoring finished water turbidity is to measure the actual performance of the purification process. Turbidity is regulated under the Safe Drinking Water Act Surface Water Treatment rule. The intent of the rule was to deal with the protoza Cryptosporidium and Giardia, and enteric virus through coagulation and filtration. These pathogens are resistant to disinfection but can be successfully removed through proper treatment by a facility such as we now have."

Lamm provided the following background information on Cryptosporidium parvum.

Cryptosporidium is a parasite. Infection occurs in the form of an "oocyst," a microorganism protected by a tough outer shell which invades intestinal epithelial cells. This may cause cryptosporidiosis, a gastrointestinal illness. According to the United States EPA, the oral infectious dose for man is though to be less than 10 oocysts, but further studies are needed to confirm this.

The epidemiology and transmission of Cryptosporidium is similar to Giardia. It's hardier, smaller, and more resistant to disinfectants than Giardia. It is suspected of having me potential for animal-to-human transmission than Giardia. The potential for waterborne occurrence of Cryptosporidium is though to be equivalent to or greater than Giardia.

Cryptosporidium is known to infect most mammals; young animals are most susceptible. Anywhere animals defecate can become a contamination source.

Cryptosporidiosis may be transmitted person-to-person. This has been identified in day-care centers and hospitals.

It may also be transmitted through water. Characteristics pointing to a waterborne outbreak: even distribution of the illness through a service area and even distribution by age and gender. The presence of Cryptosporidium in drinking water does not inevitably lead to outbreaks of illness.

Properly operated tratment plant filtration is thought to remove 85 to 99 per cent of Cryptosporidium oocysts. Chlorine is not very effective in killing the organism but ozone studies have shown promise.

The EPA agrees that most Cryptosporidium outbreaks can be linked to accidental source contamination or treatmen tplant breakdowns which occur only rarely, and are usually in combination with some meteorological event such as an extended period of heavy rainfall which can deteriorate the quality of source water.

The EPA also states that other cities with surface water sources have remote potential for experiencing Cryptosporidium contami-

Research shows children more likely victims of farm accidents

June sessions of Farm equipment safety training session being planned

With the busy planting season here, parents should remember the risks their children face while doing chores, driving tractors, and helping out around the farm. To help youths avoid some of the risks and gain experience, a youth tractor and farm implement safety training session has been planned for June 9,10, and 11.

Research shows that children are much more likely than adults to be injured while working on the farm. According to John Schutske, farm safety specialist with the Minnesota Extension Service, a child is at least 50 per cent more likely than their parent to be involved in a farm work-related injury. In Minnesota alone, more than 75 farm children under 14 have died in farming accidents in the past seven years.

Why are kids at great risk? First because they are children not "little adults". By age 10 a child may be tall enough to reach the clutch and brake pedals of a tractor, and strong enough to perform other dangerous tasks. But if faced with an emergency, a child lacks the mental maturity to make a split second decision. Supervised training and experience will help build the mental maturity for most children.

The Farm Equipment Safety camp will train youths 13 to 15 years of age to properly operate farm equipment safely. They will be carefully supervised and introduced slowly to machinery operation. Classroom learning along with hands on experience will be given to the participants for two days followed by a written and practical driving tests.

It is also against state and federal law for farm employers to hire non-family members under age 16 to operate tractors or perform other tasks outlined in the federal "Hazardous Occupations" regulation. However, children ages 14 to 15 may operate tractors and machinery if they have received approved training. The farm equipment safety camp will certify children who successfully complete the course.

For more information contact the sponsoring organizations: your local county Extension service or the Farm Health and Safety Coalition at 874-7845 in Newfolden.

BIBLE STUDY

Make your ways straight

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

There are many different expressions in the Bible instructing believers to walk with singleness of mind, singleness of eye or singleness of heart. Hebrews 12:13 commands, "Make straight paths for your feet." Making straight paths for your feet is walking in righteousness at all times—continually. To always walk in righteousness is to always please the Lord. To always please the Lord we must constantly remember to please Him with our thoughts, words and deeds (Col. 1:10). We must refrain from sin and engage in those things that are good, edifying, honorable and profitable for others (Titus 3:8).

Walking with singleness of mind and heart is being intent on serving and pleasing only God (Matt. 6:24). He is number one in your life, in your heart and in your mind. You must make Him number one in your actions. Psalm 106:3 says, "How blessed are those who practice righteousness at all times."

God will do good to those who are good, but you can't be good unless you do good for God daily, in secret (Psalm 125:4; 37:27; Matt. 5:16). You must not do your good because you want people to know of the good you do for others (Matt. 6:1).

To make your ways straight, then, please the Lord in all you do. Seek God by doing good to please Him. Turn away from a life of sin to a life of righteousness (Rom. 12:21). This is the way of peace (Luke 1:79). It's also the way to prosperity, blessings, answered prayer, joy and every good thing (Prov. 13:21; 1 John 3:22; Heb. 13:21).

So don't deprive yourself of the good life with the free gift of eternal life that comes from living a godly life. It's the life Jesus Christ lived, and He came to show us how easy and pleasant it is (Matt. 11:30). You'll soon be a new you, if to His Ways you remain true (Gal. 6:15; Col. 3:10, 12-17).

A Native American's View Of Minnesota Gaming

Leonard Prescott, chairman of Little Six Inc., which owns and operated Mystic Lake Casino, is a former tribal chairman of the Mdewakanton Dakota and former chairman of the National Indian Gaming Association. He has written and opinion piece circulated to all members of the Minnesota Newspaper Association that expresses his viewpoint of efforts to place video lottery terminals in Minnesota liquor establishments.

So that our readers may be more familiar with the tribal viewpoint, we are printing Prescott's writing as follows:

All we are saying is give us a chance.

The 1960s were time when many groups that had been left out of society's progress were able to make their case known and put themselves on society's agenda.

Native Americans did not participate in that progress. We were so entrenched in poverty and ignored by society that opportunity once again passed us by.

With casinos, the '90s could now be the '60s for Indian people.

Armed with this new economic power, we finally have a chance to end our dependency on others: Indian people are, for the first time, becoming self-sufficient, economically contributing members of society.

But there are some in the liquor industry who would take this new economic power away from native Americans and keep us mired in dependency. Indians have an unfair advantage and the casinos are hurting business, they say. So, at the expense of public interest and against public will as expressed in opinion polls, they want to expand gambling by putting video lottery terminals into Minnesota bars and restaurants.

We don't need to change gambling laws that are working. Tribal gaming is providing Indian people with a future and generating jobs, tax revenue and economic activity for the state.

True, we do have an advantage that we want to protect. This is the first time since so much of our land was taken away that we have anything others want. Indian gaming was created by the federal government to provide Indian people with a source of revenue and a means of self-sufficiency. We want to protect this economic development tool for the very reason it was created: It's working.

The revenue generated by casinos is helping build roads, sewers, houses and community centers on many reservations. It's allowing reservations to set up educational funds to put our children through college. And, perhaps most importantly, the revenue is allowing reservations to build a strong, diverse economic base for the future. The Shakopee Mdewakanton Dakota, for example are purchasing a manufacturing company with revenues from Mystic Lake Casino. We are gaining management experience that is applicable in other industries and in running our tribal gaming.

Casinos are creating jobs and taking Indian people off welfare rolls. The Mahnomen County Human Services department credits the Shooting Star Casino with lowering unemployment in the county and taking many third and fourth generation welfare recipients off public assistance. In counties with casinos, the number of people receiving welfare dropped 14 per cent between 1987 and 1991. During that same period, the number of recipients statewide increased by 17 per cent.

All this progress has been done without a single tax dollar. To the contrary, casinos have generated tax revenue for the state and federal governments. In 1992, Indian gaming produced an estimated $35 million in state and federal payroll withholdings and Social Security and unemployment taxes.

Contrary to what the bar and hospitality owners claim, casinos are not hurting their business.

By the end of 1991, there were 14,000 more Minnesotans employed by the bar and hospitality industry than in 1987, before Indian gaming was introduced.

A recent study by the Minnesota State Planning Agency found that bars, hotels and restaurants in casino counties were doing better than their counterparts around the state between 1989-91, despite an industry-wide slump during the recession.

Instead of taking money away from local economies, casinos are pumping dollars into them. The State Planning Agency also reported that overall economic activity in casino counties was up. The report projected $92 million would be generated for Morton, MN, home of Jackpot Junction.

Casinos offer big advantages for Minnesota. Nearly 10,000 people are employed by the state's 16 casinos with an annual payroll of more than $200 million. Three-fourths of the jobs are held by non-Indians.

Expanding video gaming beyond reservations would turn gambling into a losing proposition for the entire state. It would hurt an industry that brings tourists to the state—15 per cent of casino visitors in 1991 came from out of state. Expanding video gambling could put Indian people back on the road to economic dependency. And video slot machines in every bar or restaurant could increase compulsive gambling.

Indian people do not want a repeat of the '60s. We don't want opportunity to once again pass us by. We want to end our dependency on others, determine our own futures and contribute economically to Minnesota.

All we are saying is give us a chance to climb up to the same playing field everybody else has been on since Europeans came to our land two centuries ago. Don't take away the only economic development program that has ever worked on reservations. Because it's working not only for us, but for all of Minnesota.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Darcy Reese, Lincoln high school choir, School District 564 and the community for the opportunity of going to New York City with the choir.

We as a community have a lot to be proud of. The students were great and showed a lot of class.

There is so much news in the world about how selfish and uncontrollable kids are, but with young people like these our community and nation will have a future of good leaders. And this is a reflection on our teachers and administration of School District 564.

Thanks, again, Darcy Reese, Ann Haugen, Linda Goulet, Pat Duncan, Cindy Krankkala, Jeff Mumm and the choir for the opportunity that you gave me.

Sincerely,
Donald Balmer
Thief River Falls.

Spring At Last!

"The ice went out of the river here last Sunday afternoon and about everybody in town spent the afternoon at the river. The water rose very rapidly and at the highest point was several inches higher than was ever known here. The county bridge had a very narrow escape, the water being even with the lower beams. Large cakes of ice struck it and came very near taking it away, but fortunately no damage was done except a shaking up. The water receded rapidly after the ice was out and is now several feet lower."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District, 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 17, 1993 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawler mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workmans compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 14th day of April, 1993.

Law enforcement agencies plan open house in TRF

In conjunction with National Police Week, area and local law enforcement officials will hold an open house at the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls and the National Guard Armory on May 13 from 2 to 8 p.m..

Agencies participating in the open house, which will be conducted at the law enforcement center and the National Guard Armory include the Thief River Falls Police department, Pennington County sheriff's department, Minnesota State Patrol, U.S. Border Patrol, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Thief River Falls Civil Air Patrol and Pennington County Sportsman's Club. These agencies will display equipment used during law enforcement activities, greet visitors and answer questions about law enforcement. The Minnesota State Patrol will also have a radar board set up on Highway 32 south in a 55 mile per house zone. This will allow residents and visitors to have an opportunity to check their speedometers. In conjunction with activities and displays at the National Guard Armory, tours will be held at the law enforcement center every hour on the hour during the open house.

The open house in Thief River Falls will coincide with a memorial service at the National Police Memorial in Washington, D.C. Two police officers from Thief River Falls are listed on the memorial — Don Myers, who died in 1967 in the line of duty, and Roy Pederson, who died in 1974 in the line of duty.

The public is encouraged to visit with law enforcement officials during the open house and become familiar with law enforcement duties and responsibilities.

This week and next week, law enforcement officials will be giving out coupons from the Dairy Queen to drivers who display safe driving qualities.

Robert Valley of Red Lake Falls was taken to Northwest Medical Center for treatment for cuts he received when his semi-trailer truck left highway 59 northwest of Thief River Falls and collided with a railroad embankment. The State Patrol office in Thief River Falls received a report of the accident at the intersection of highway 59 and the Soo Line Railroad tracks at 2:05 p.m. Friday. According to the accident report, the 1982 International truck was traveling south on highway 59 when the driver noticed the train crossing the highway and believe he would not be able to stop in time. He swerved to avoid colliding with the train, causing the truck to go into the east ditch, strike the embankment and overturn, spilling its load of potatoes. The truck was considered to be a total loss.

Pesticide applicators must now keep records

As of May 10, private applicators who apply restricted use pesticides must keep records of the chemicals they are using as well as where and how they were used, according to Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator.

Person said the 1990 Farm Bill authorized this new requirement but its rules and implementation had not been made until now.

The rule states that starting May 10 all applicators are required to record certain information within 30 days of each restricted use pesticide application and to keep that record for two years from the date of the application.

Person said the extension service has been recommending for years that farmers keep all the required information (except EPA registration number). He said it is important for both good pest control and good farm management. Now the recording of the information has been made an official federal requirement.

Information which needs to be kept includes:

(1) Brand or product name of the restricted use product (RUP) applied;

(2) EPA registration number (on the label) of the RUP applied;

(3) Total amount of the product applied;

(4) Location of the application including county, township and section number; a personal identification system; or a legal description;

(5) Size of the treated area;

(6) Crop, stored product or site

Flames leaped high as this fire raced through phragmite growth on the Elm Lake Wildlife Management Area recently. Minnesota Department of Natural Resources personnel conducted the controlled burn on approximately two square miles of marsh, upland, trees and brush. Backfires were first set along the Swanson Trail which runs generally north and south between Ditch 20 and Ditch 27. The fire was allowed to creep into the wooded area against a southwest wind. Personnel then simultaneously fired the north and south ditch edges from east to west—walking with drip torches—finally igniting the west side to let the primarily west wind carry the flames throughout the remainder of the secured area. Fire is considered a good management tool to improve the areas for wildlife.

Dear Readers,

Abraham Lincoln expressed his deep devotion to his mother when he said, "All that I am or hope to become, I owe to my angel mother." Although most of us do not speak or write as eloquently as Lincoln, our innermost feelings are very much the same. This Sunday, find your own special way to show your mother how important she is to you.

Sincerely,

Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Mental Health services must be available

Note: This is the final article of four written on mental illness. May has been declared as Mental health Month. The articles were prepared by the Pennington and Red Lake County Community Support Program (CSP) and participants. CSP is a program designed to help people with mental illness improve their quality of life.

The Community
Support Program

In 1987, the Minnesota legislature passed the Minnesota Comprehensive Mental Health Act. This legislation states that mental health services must be made available to add adults with severe and persistent mental illness and all children with emotional disturbances in every Minnesota county.

This mean that several services are offered in Red Lake, Pennington, and the surrounding counties. A good example of this is the Community Support Program (CSP), designed to aid people in their fight to overcome and recover from mental illness.

Most importantly, the Community Support Program allows people with mental illness to feel understood by, and connected with, the community they live in. It is a unique program designed to help people with mental illness improve the quality of their lives. The way in which a community co-exists with and views people with mental illness is the key to the success of the program.

The program assists clients with community integration and survival. Depending on the patient's level of functioning, the Community Support Program makes one-on-one home visits to help a person, with such functions as grocery shopping, maintaining housing, social skills, medication education and monitoring, applying for fuel assistance or other programs, etc. The program also provides a group day program that meets on a weekly basis. Day program aids as a support group, as well as a means to improve independent living skills, social and recreational skills.

Several CSP clients in Red Lake and Pennington counties sat in their weekly support group and talked about how they feel about themselves and the Community Support Program.

"CSP has been a large help to me by being able to talk without embarrassment, to others who also have a mental illness. With proper medication and help from family and friends, I can lead a very normal life. After many years of worrying and being unable to function normally, a new medication was released that has turned my life around almost 100 per cent and I am now able to go out in public without great fears," said Jim.

"I enjoy hanging around people who need help with depression like me. I can talk about my feelings. We discuss if there is anything happening in our communities or problems with our families," said Lucy Meyers.

"CSP has made me realize that I'm not the only one with mental illness. It also has helped me be more open about my illness and taught me not to be ashamed of it. I have schizophrenia. I wish I didn't have it and, I struggle with it day by day. Right now I'm looking for a job and it's difficult finding work. I get mixed reactions when I tell employers that I have mental illness. But, I'm just like everyone else. I can do anything, as long as I take my medication," said Tim.

"I am able to be with people that have similar problems. It helps to know that you're not alone. Day treatment breaks up the week and individual sessions help with my finances, daily problems, et cetra. Thank you CSP," said another CSP Client.

"It give me a helping hand and helps me out with my problems," said Linda Coulet.

"CSP is a different type of program schedule; very different than that of a group home. It also has helped my attitude," said McIttle.

"It is fun to be around people and go on outings where wildlife animals and spring wildflowers are. I love to go on the nature outings and do crafts and flowers," by Betty Eunice Murphy.

"I love the outings, the group, cutting out coupons, and some of the cooking," said Roland Kevin Wiertzma.

"CSP has helped by helping me build social skills in group activities. My concerns about my fears, anxiety, and sadness are discussed, which helps ease the impact and has given me encouragement. Nothing makes it more difficult than the publics' non-comprehensive attitude," said Jean.

"I truly appreciate the CSP Program. The program helps those who are in need of a friend. It helps to find out that others have gone through difficulties too and have survived and come out on top again. We have real knowledgeable people in our group, who help establish solutions to help us with our daily living. It helps make our life become more productive and knowledgeable," said a great appreciative member.

As a community, we cannot close our doors, minds or hearts to those whose lives are affected by mental illness. Recovery depends on the person, good medical care and the acceptance and understanding of the community in which they live.

Equipped with a water tank and hand-held extinguisher, an employee of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources heads down the smoky trail to be sure a backfire keeps going in the right direction. # VIP director thanks church group for gift

"It is gratifying to those of us who work closely every day with survivors of violence when the church is willing to become involved and demonstrate its caring and commitment," states Desiree Varner, director of the Violence Intervention Project (VIP) in Thief River Falls.

Varner was referring to a "very generous donation" from Redeemer and Black River Lutheran churches through their VIP offering during the Lenten season.

"I, the staff and board of directors are very appreciative of their compassion to survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault," Varner said. "We believe that it sends a positive message to victims of family violence that it is all right to speak out about the pain that they are suffering and to ask for help."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS!

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT MOTORCYCLE INSURANCE

LIABILITY COVERAGE: This coverage, which includes bodily injury and property damage, protects you from claims for damages you cause to other people or property. If you are the person responsible for the accident, the insurance company will pay for the damages to the person suffering the loss.

GUEST PASSENGER LIABILITY COVERAGE: This coverage protects you from claims by passengers when you are at fault. In Minnesota, this is included in bodily injury liability.

LIMITS OF LIABILITY: These define how much coverage you have. Limits are usually listed as three numbers such as 30/60/10. The "30" refers to the maximum payment ($30,000) for injuries per person. The "60" refers to the maximum payment ($60,000) per accident. The "10" means the insurance company will pay up to $10,000 for property damage.

In Minnesota, optional coverages that can be purchased are: Uninsured & Underinsured Motorists, Medical, PIP, Comprehensive and Collision. We will outline these coverages in next week's column.

ACTIVITIES

Mother's Day

Every mother of a young child would love to have a special card from her child on Mother's Day. A child-made card is very easy to do. You will need a piece of plain paper, crayons or markers and a little time. Fold the paper in fourths. Then ask the child to draw a picture on it. Now open the card, and ask the child what he or she wants to say to Mother. Sometimes the child may need a little help with an idea. Write what the child dictates. A few more small drawings and the card is done and Mother will cherish this for years to come.

PARENTING TIPS

Say Something Positive

"How many times do I have to tell you not to..."

"Don't do that! You're going to spill!"

"Now look what you did!"

Sound familiar? Do you find yourself saying some of these negative statements?

As with most things in life, we have two choices. We can choose to be positive and build up, or we can be negative and tear down. Telling children over and over that they can't, makes them believe they can't. We need to break the pattern. We can accentuate the positive. Find something good to say, no matter how hard.

Instead of "Don't spill your milk" say "Hold your glass with two hands." Instead of "Don't run in the house" say "Please walk in the house." Remember to compliment your child as soon as he/she does what you have asked him/her to do. Compliments will go a long way in making you and your child feel good. Young children naturally want to please their parents. Once they hear the positive things then they will know what to do to gain your approval.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Tell your child what you want him/her to do. Be specific; words like "behave" and "be good" may be too vague and the child may not know what you mean. "Walk slowly" or "hold my hand" is easier for your child to understand.

Speaking Of . . .

I Could Tell Her a Thing or Two

Speaking of Mother's Day, I almost forgot.

I was reminded that the holiday is nearly upon us when I read a Monday newspaper column in which the writer was wondering what to buy her mother for the big day. The writer lives in North Dakota and her [illegible]-year-old mother lives halfway across the country in a senior citizen housing complex in California. The writer told us how she called her mother to try to learn what to buy for a Mother's Day gift.

I enjoyed the column very much. It was written with just a touch of that tongue-in-cheek humor that I like. I enjoyed it right up until the last paragraph. Then I got angry. But I'll tell you about that later.

The column told us how the writer doesn't buy her mother knicky knacky things like ceramic birds and vases for Mother's Day because her mother has entirely too many of those types of things sitting around her small apartment already. The word "clutter" was unsaid but implied.

The columnist went on to say that she would probably give the same gift she has given her mother for several years, on not only Mother's Day, but Christmas and birthdays, as well. She would buy her mother a housecoat.

You know what housecoats are, don't you? They are those button- or snap-down the front, large pocket, cotton duster things that can be worn from morning to night, which is what Mother does.

Mother, of course, told Daughter that it wasn't necessary to buy anything. "I'd rather you save your money and not send me anything. Just send me a nice card. ... At my age, what do I want? I really don't need anything. I don't go anywhere. ..." (Typical motherly Mother's Day statements, with just a tad of "make you feel guilty" thrown in for good measure. I do it myself, now and then!)

As we learned what Mother's Day gift the columnist planned to buy this year, we also learned some things about mother and daughter.

We learned that Mother likes soft pastel colors and Daughter likes plain, neutral colors, like tan and beige.

Mother likes to live in a small space filled to overflowing with keepsakes and mementos. Daughter prefers things plain and simple and likes wide open spaces.

Mother likes sentimental, "sappy" songs, books and cards. Daughter does not.

Up until this point, I thought the column was good. It reminded me of how different and yet, somehow, how much alike we mothers and daughters can be.

Toward the end of their conversation, however, Mother finally admits to wanting one thing for Mother's Day. After much prompting, Mother was persuaded to reveal that what she really would like as a Mother's Day gift was a visit from her daughter.

Daughter's reply to the request was, "Sorry, Mom. I can't give you what you want. But I'll send a card."

I didn't want to read that. It made me angry. I wanted to shout at the columnist, "You fool! Go! Forget the card and housecoat! Hop on a plane and go see your mother for Mother's Day, no matter what!"

You see, the reason I became so angry was that my mother died last year. I wanted to tell the columnist that my mother was 79, almost the same age as hers, and her mother reminds me of mine. This will be my first Mother's Day without my mother. I would be on that plane in a minute, no matter what.

Smoldering remains of a backfire set along the west edge of the Swanson Trail on the Elm Lake Wildlife Management Area were watched carefully by Minnesota Department of Natural Resources personnel before attention was turned to spreading the fire west along ditches 20 and 27 on either side of the unit being burned. As indicated by the sign, the trail was created with funds provided by the Thief River Falls chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association. More than 1,000 acres of habitat for wildlife was included in the controlled burn area northeast of Thief River Falls.

Plummer band and choir will make Minneapolis trip, present concert

Senior high school band and choir from Pershing high school in Plummer will leave May 14 for a trip to Minneapolis, stopping at Waubun enroute to present a concert.

In Minneapolis the students will attend a performance of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "The Phantom of the Opera." It is the first official tour of this Tony award-winning Broadway musical, according to music director Carol Kankel, and requires seven semi-trailers to transport the electronically controlled set.

The group is still short of funds for the trip and is conducting a "Students for Hire" program. Music students may be hired for $5 per hour for tasks such as yard work, house cleaning, farm work, babysitting, window washing and others. Call Winnie at the school (465-4222) to make arrangements.

Spring concert of the choirs and bands as well as the solos and ensembles which earned star ratings at contest will take place Monday, May 17, in the Pershing high school gymnasium. The fifth and sixth grade bands will also perform.

Receiving stars at music contests this year were Carrie Fallon and Amy Arlt, single stars for vocal solos; Amy Arlt and Mindy Simpson, double star for vocal duet; Patty Greenwald, Amy Arlt, Scott Lorenson and Dan Gagner, single star for vocal quartet; and Patty Greenwald, Beth Killian and Wendy Konickson, single star as a flute trio.

Pesticide applicators must compile records

on which the product was applied;

(7) Month, day and year on which the product was applied; and

(8) Name and certification number of the certified applicator who applied the restricted use product.

The 1990 Farm Bill had also proposed requiring information about product formulation, rates of application and weather conditions. This information is not required now but a producer may wish to keep this data as well.

Several agencies will have access to the restricted use product records. The U.S. and Minnesota Departments of Agriculture may conduct compliance inspections. Licensed health care professionals who determine that the restricted use product information is necessary to provide medical treatment to an individual who may have been exposed to the product may also request access. And the U.S. Agricultural Statistics Service will be conducting voluntary surveys on restricted use product use.

All of the agencies with access to the records are required by law to keep the records private.

Person said the Pennington county extension service has a generic form available for chemical application record keeping. Those interested are invited to stop by the office and pick up a copy.

LHS to demonstrate dances

Lincoln high school physical education students will be demonstrating various dances throughout the day in the new gymnasium at Lincoln Friday, May 7. Public attendance is invited throughout the day to watch and/or participate in a few dances.

Classes will be in session throughout the school day: 8:50-9:30, 9:45-10:25 and 10:45:11:25 a.m.; 11:40 a.m. -12:25 p.m.; and 1:10-1:55 and 2:10-2:55 p.m.

Impressions . . .

[illegible] We compromised [illegible] box in the basement [illegible] and her kittens.

She watched over her kittens diligently. She bathed them and fed them and kept an eagle eye on them. She who was normally a well groomed cat even neglected her own grooming while her kittens needed her the most.

When the kittens could leave the safety of their box, she still watched over them. She taught them by example how to eat real food and how to drink water from a dish. She taught them by example how to defend themselves.

When she decided that her kittens could leave the basement, she guided them up the basement stairs into the kitchen. That's when we got to watch her mothering up close. She seemed to have a name for each of her three kittens. How, you might ask could we tell that!!? Well, as she patiently stood at the top of the stairs she meowed as each kitten in turn tried to climb the stairs—each meow was a bit different for each kitten. Her patience was limitless as she encouraged the smallest up the stairs—not doing the learning for her kitten, but rather encouraging it to learn.

We watched as she would herd her kittens under a piece of furniture, stand near the furniture and meow at her kittens and then disappear out of the front door secure in the knowledge that her kittens were safe while she was not around to watch them. We also watched in amazement when she would return from her time out of doors and head directly to the piece of furniture under which her kittens were supposed to be in safe keeping. And then we listened as she scolded those kittens royally when she found that they were not in safe keeping, but rather doing their own exploring while their mother was not around.

If only all human mothers would be even a bit like this simple barn cat mother! Human mothers too often don't care for their little ones with the same diligence as this simple cat. If only we could learn some of her mothering skills, what a difference we mothers would make in this world.

Would that we should tend our offspring with the care demonstrated by that simple animal—even if the care we give our offspring would mean that some of the nicer things in life for us would be bypassed. If only we thought of our children as individuals and encouraged them to learn and grow and develop as individuals. If only we developed in ourselves the patience needed to consistently and constantly encourage our children in learning the right ways of living. If only we found it in ourselves to expect our children to obey a set of family rules. If only we found that the life we live is the example we want our children to follow. If only ...

If only we allow ourselves to be the mothers of our children, showing them our love and devotion to them and our respect for them, only then will we mothers be making a difference in this world. Would that this Mother's Day we mothers would look at our children through the eyes of motherly love and find that our children are cherished and encouraged and nourished and truly loved.

Lincoln choir to be pictured on cereal box

Hometown Stars is an oat-based, honey and sugar enhanced, vitamin and mineral fortified star-shaped cereal manufactured by the Carlisle Cereal Company of Bismarck, ND.

Lincoln high school choir is a school-based, director Darcy Reese enhanced, Thief River Falls and New York City fortified star-status vocal group manufactured by proud parents in Thief River Falls.

This week they are getting together at the supermarket with the cereal on the inside and a picture of the choir on the outside of the Hometown Stars box. It will be available only at Jubilee Foods in Thief River Falls beginning this weekend.

North Dakota native Charles Fleming, who owns the company, intends to market the cereal in 10 Great Plains states. He says he came up with the idea as a way for communities to recognize their "Hometown Stars," and decided to feature the Lincoln choir because of its recent performance at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Chad Larson, manager of Jubilee Foods, said he will donate 50 cents for each box of the cereal sold to the Lincoln choir to be used for future activities. "They have certainly brought recognition to our community," he said.

Cancer Society door-to-door drive May 11

Pennington county unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual door-to-door campaign for funds Tuesday, May 11, with volunteers to make their calls beginning at 6 p.m., according to Pat Johnson, president of the county unit.

"The campaign is the backbone of all the American Cancer Society's programs and activities," Johnson said. "The society takes pride in the fact that out of every dollar collected only 20 cents goes to administrative costs; 80 cents goes directly to fighting cancer."

In Pennington county the local ACS unit provides a number of services to educate the public about cancer and aid patients with cancer. Those in the community who have been affected by cancer may be aware of the activities of the Can Surmount, Reach to Recovery and I Can Cope committees. These provide services to patients with cancer such as medical equipment to allow patients to stay more comfortably at home while recovering or ill.

The volunteers of the Road to Recovery committee drive patients to treatment areas. Last year 149 health care professionals were reached through communication and workshops, and 52 patients received the help of the service committees listed above.

"These are just two statistics of the many people helped through funds," Johnson said.

At the present time one out of two people survive cancer. It is the hope of the American Cancer Society that through the help of generous citizens cancer will be eliminated. This year the American Cancer Society received no funding from the United Way.

"Please watch for the cancer volunteer on the evening of Tuesday, May 11, and give all you can," Johnson added.

Area grain elevators join in sunflower assessment plan

St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator, St. Hilaire, and Brooks Farmers Elevator, Brooks, are participating in a voluntary sunflower assessment along with the crushing plants operated by ADM, Cargill, National Sun Industries and SVO Enterprises. Participating elevators will be contributing one cent per hundred weight and the crushing plants will match that. Revenue will be directed to the National Sunflower Association for research and market development activities.

Jerry Sedlacek, sunflower grower and NSA board member from Warren is pleased that most of the major sunflower handling elevators have agreed to participate in the assessment. "We have found a lot of support for this project. Elevators like it because it doesn't require any paperwork on their part and there is virtually no overhead cost," according to Sedlacek.

Governor signs milk pricing bill into law

Gov. Arne Carlson on Friday signed into law new milk pricing legislation which requires the first wholesaler to pay an assessment on milk of two and a quarter cents for each cent the price of milk drops below $13.20 per hundredweight. The law goes into effect May 1.

"The new law will mean a price increase of about 30 cents per hundredweight of milk for Minnesota's 13,700 dairy farmers in the month of May alone," states Elton R. Redalen, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture.

Gov. Carlson projected the law will "inject $10 million into Minnesota's economy annually."

The bill also partially deregulates the pricing of milk at the retail level, allowing grocers to sell milk at a lower price if they choose to do so.

"This bill was supported by dairy farmers, processors and retailers," Commissioner Redalen added. "It will go a considerable way toward helping Minnesota's dairy industry, which has been struggling for over a decade."

The assessments paid by dairy wholesalers will be forwarded to the Minnesota Department of Agriculture which will pass the premiums along to farmers' local milk cooperatives. The cooperatives will add the assessment to farmers' milk checks each month.

Rep. Sparby bids fond farewell to his constituents

"It was 11 years ago that I first walked into the Capitol building as a State Representative for my friends and neighbors in District 1B," notes Rep. Wally Sparby in reviewing the legislative office where he has served for five and a half terms.

"Six times you've sent me back here to St. Paul. Together, we've been able to make a difference, not just for citizens in our area of the state, but for all Minnesotans," he said.

Rep. Sparby has accepted a position as executive director of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, a branch of the United States Department of Agriculture. He plans to join the ASCS at mid-May, immediately following the legislative session, and will be resigning his legislative seat—an action he says he does not take lightly.

"I am convinced that the Agriculture Department job is what's best for me and for my family at this time," he said. "I will miss my duties in the Minnesota House. At the same time, however, I'm ready for the new challenges that lie ahead, and the opportunity to serve the citizens of this state from my position within the Department of Agriculture.

"I want to thank you for giving me the opportunity to serve you," he said in an open letter to his constituents. "I feel honored and humbled by the trust you placed in me and I'm proud to be able to say that I think I lived up to that trust.

"Just last week, for example, the House and Senate passed my campaign reform bill, the most sweeping and progressive reform legislation in recent Minnesota history. I wrote that legislation with you in mind, after listening to your thoughts and concerns.

"I have worked hard over the year," he continued, "on issues that are important to the residents of Northwest Minnesota. Concerns about such topics as K-12 education, post-secondary education and facility development, senior citizens, agriculture, sportsmen's rights, women and minority issues and business and economic development have all be priorities during my tenure in the Legislature.

"In addition, I've been working hard in support of a more equitable tax structure and to find ways to spend state dollars more efficiently and more wisely," Sparby said. "Again, these are efforts we've made together. I think we've made a good team, and I hope my successor enjoys serving District 1B as much as I have.

"I hope you'll feel free to contact me during my last few days in office to comment or inquire about any of the issues currently under consideration in the House. As always, I appreciate your input. And thanks you again for being so kind and helpful."

Rep. Sparby can be reached at 351 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 or by phone at 612-296-9918.

TRF girls win 10-6 game with Gators

LuAnne Maslowski and Odetta Blomker combined on 12 strike outs and a two-hit pitching performance Monday as Thief River Falls beat Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 10-6 in high school softball at the fairgrounds diamond.

It was the fourth straight win for the Prowlers, who opened the year with six losses.

"We're starting to make some progress," noted Thief River Falls coach John Anderson. "They're enjoying what they're doing ... that's the main thing."

"Both of our pitchers threw very well," said Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. "Considering the weather conditions, I thought it was a very [illegible] pitching-wise [illegible]. We could still use a little [illegible]."

Rains erase TRF Saturday tennis

Rains washed out a scheduled Thief River Falls double-dual boys high school tennis meet Saturday against Alexandria and Detroit Lakes in Detroit Lakes.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River catcher Wandy Welton applied tha tag to Thief River Falls base runner Jamie Martell as umpire Dan Russell and Gators pitcher Heather Anderson looked on during Monday's high school softball game at fairgrounds diamond. Martell stole third base on the play, then tried to score on an errant throw, only to be caught at the plate. The Prowlers won the seven-inning match-up 10-6, improving their record to 4-6.

Record efforts highlight track meet

A school record-setting effort in the shot put by Shane Skeim and a school record-tying performance in the triple jump by Devon Grandbois highlighted the results for the Thief River Falls boys at the Detroit Lakes Invitational high school track meet Friday.

Skeim went 50-feet, 9 1/2 inches in winning the shot, breaking the Prowlers' record of 50-0 1/2 set just last spring by John Wallberg.

"That's a dandy throw," noted Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. Skeim hit 49-8 earlier in the day, then passed that 50-foot mark on a later attempt.

Grandbois had a 36-foot leap in the triple jump to tie a school mark set by Brian Stark in 1987, but had to settle for third place in the meet.

Skeim also won the discus with a throw of 155 feet, and Grandbois was second in the 300 intermediate hurdles with a 44.1. They are both seniors.

The Prowlers added a second in the 800 by junior Jon Hendrickson and a second in the sprint medley relay with sophomores Steve Burslie and Dan Bjerknes, junior Lee Lund, and Hendrickson.

Fergus Falls won the eight-team meet with 139 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 116, Detroit Lakes 81, Thief River Falls 71, Mahnomen 54, Wadena-Deer Creek 25, Staples Area 24, Frazee 11.

"We're real happy with our performances," said Olson. "We're scoring points – a lot of quiet points. People almost forget we're there until they add up the points at the end."

TRF Swim Club spring clinic is now underway

Thief River Falls Swim Club spring clinic, designed for swimmers of all ages, began May 3, at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Practices will be held Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. The clinic will run through June 4, followed by the June 7-July 30 summer program.

The clinic is designed primarily to improve skills and fitness of elementary and middle school swimmers. Coaching will be presented in the four competitive swim strokes, starts and turns. Swim meets will be held with other area swim clubs.

Ryan Lokken, the Lincoln High School boys and girls head swimming coach and the Thief River Falls Swim Club coach, will serve as the clinic director, with assistance from Swim Club board members.

Interested swimmers can still register at the pool during practice times. Registration fee, covering both the spring and summer programs, is $35. ### DNR Bird Poster

A color poster featuring 10 migratory songbirds that nest in Minnesota has just been published by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"Birds of Two Worlds" includes paintings of the rose-breasted grosbeak, bobolink, bay-breasted warbler, ovenbird, scarlet tanager, wood thrush, ruby-throated hummingbird, American redstart, and northern oriole.

The poster was produced as a cooperative effort by the Minnesota DNR, the state of Missouri, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Featuring a vertical 12x30-inch layout, the back of the poster has migration maps and information about the life history of each bird species, which could serve as a classroom reference for students or teachers.

The poster is available to all persons who send a $10 donation to the Nongame Wildlife Fund in the Minnesota DNR. This fund is used by the Minnesota Nongame Wildlife Program to help preserve, study and manage migratory songbirds.

Donations should be sent to the Nongame Wildlife Fund, Songbird Poster, Box 7, DNR, 500 Layfayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4007.

Thief River Falls runner Odetta Blomker wound up at second base on a second inning throwing error by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River during Monday's high school softball game in Thief River Falls. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shortstop Sara Malby (14) and second baseman Ellie Schmidt were involved in the play. The Prowlers won 10-6.

Bear Hunt Deadline

Deadline for submitting applications for the 1993 Minnesota bear hunt is Friday, May 7. A total of 8,630 permits are available for 10 quota areas, according to the Department of Natural Resources. The 1993 season will run from Sept. 1 through Oct. 17.

Drawings for permits are based on a preference system that gives permits first to those applicants who have applied the longest since last receiving a license. Up to four hunters may apply as a group. There is no application fee.

An unlimited number of bear hunting licenses is also available in the no-quota zone, which lies outside of the 10 quota areas. No-quota licenses may be purchased beginning July 1 through the end of the bear season at county auditors offices and at some license vendors in east-central and northwestern Minnesota.

Bear licenses cost $34 for residents, and $166 for non-residents.

Trophy Northern Lakes

A recent study by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources shows that large, deep northern lakes containing tullibees are more likely to produce trophy northerns than any other lakes.

According to study results, large lakes with a significant amount of deep water seem better able to grow large northerns than do small, shallow lakes. Pike in the shallow warmer lakes, mainly found in southern Minnesota, can grow faster than those in northern lakes, but they rarely attain trophy size.

The study is part of an ongoing DNR search for better ways to create trophy pike fisheries.

Researchers suspect a primary factor could be the presence of tullibees, a cousin of trout and salmon, in cold water lakes.

"Tullibees may provide the right size of forage that northerns need to reach truly large sizes," said Peter Jacobson, a DNR research biologist.

Jacobson said that the majority of trophy pike come from lakes in the northern part of the state, where water is cold for much of the year. They study uncovered evidence that growth rates of large northerns actually slow down in the warm summer water of southern Minnesota.

"Anglers know that big pike turn on when the water cools in the fall," said Jacobson.

Fifty years ago Minnesota lakes regularly produced trophy northerns over 20 pounds. Today such catches are rare. As the number of anglers has risen and the effectiveness of their fishing equipment has increased, lakes have no longer been able to produce enough trophy fish to keep up with the harvest.

The solution: implement special regulations to decrease the number of fish killed. The DNR plans to make greater use of special regulations to protect northern pike so that Minnesota waters, particularly those in the north, can once again produce trophy northern.

Medical Center C&NC unit is being renovated

To upgrade many different areas, a $500,000 renovation project began in late February at Northwest Medical Center's Convalescent and Nursing Care (C&NC) unit in Thief River Falls. Work is being done on all three floors of the C&NC unit.

One area of focus is the complete renovation of the bathing facilities on both resident care floors. Two new Apollo bathtub systems have been added (one on each floor), each of which allows for whirlpool—jet assisted bathing with minimal transfer of the residents. Each bathing area will also have another minimal transfer tub and a separate shower area. Both types of bathtub facilities are designed to be used without the requirement of mechanical lifts.

The dining room/day room areas on both floors will be renovated, allowing for greater space and increased lighting.

The south lounge areas on the C&NC unit will be subdivided into two conference/lounge rooms. These rooms can be scheduled by residents and families for private get-togethers or discussions with staff, and will allow greater privacy for residents and their family members.

The nursing stations and support areas on both floors will also be renovated, allowing for a more central focal point for nursing services. A new nurse call system is also being installed, which will allow for voice communication between the nursing station and each resident's room.

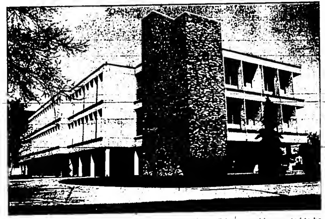
On the ground floor, the C&NC unit chapel will be renovated, including new carpet, draperies, ceiling tile and lighting. A separate board room is also being renovated.

The entire C&NC unit will be provided with fire protection sprinklers as a result of the project, offering additional protection to the smoke and fire alarm system which is currently in place.

Completion of the entire project is scheduled for mid-June, 1993. During the process of renovation, temporary barriers have been erected around the areas of the renovation in order to minimize the impact of the noise and commotion and to maintain a safe environment for the residents.

"We will be scheduling an open house of the C&NC unit sometime after the renovation project has been completed," states Jon Braband, associate administrator. "We look forward to the completion of this project and to the enhancement of our facilities which the project will provide."

Viewed from the southwest, the grounds of Valley Home in Thief River Falls show a lot of open space. Concrete walkways lead from the home to a pond, gazebo and a small barn and pasture where several types of animals are frequently kept.



Convalescent and Nursing Care (C&NC) unit at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls is undergoing a $500,000 remodeling project involving all three floors of the unit. Work began in late February and is expected to be completed in mid-June. An open house at the unit is being planned for sometime after the renovation project has been completed.

Valley Home has a unique mission in residential care

"It was the unusual foresight of concerned and caring people 40 years ago that resulted in the creation of Valley Home," states Elaine Anderson, manager of the home since 1991 and only the third manager since the first portion of the present building was constructed in 1963.

"From the beginning and until the present time, Valley Home has had a unique mission: To meet the mental, social, spiritual, creative and recreational needs of the residents. Our board, administration and entire staff take that mission very seriously."

Valley Home traces its beginning to a meeting held Jan. 27, 1953, in the basement of the Mission Covenant Church in Warren. Delegates were present from Warren, St. Hilaire, Hallock, Thief River Falls and Teien Covenant churches "to discuss the possibility of an old folks home in the Valley."

Rev. Arvid Carlson of Warren opened the meeting and Rev. Elmer Landerdal was named to serve as temporary chairman with Mendell Erickson as acting secretary. Rev. Carlson reported on events leading up to the meeting, including a vision for such a home by A. V. Brodin of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Landerdal reported an increasing need for a home for the aged, "due to the increase in life span through the advancement in medical science."

Approximate cost of a new 25-room guest home was placed at $125,000 and it was pointed out that state aid was $60 per person per month and the trend was for aid to go higher. Approximate cost per resident was projected at about $50 per month, allowing for an operating profit.

"Motion was made and duly carried we ask all Covenant churches in the Valley to have a meeting and discuss this matter," Erickson wrote in the minutes of the meeting. "They are then to appoint three delegates to a meeting to bring the report of their attitude of their group in this matter."

Delegates from Thief River Falls, Lancaster, Hallock, Warren, Jupiter and Teien churches met for the second session on March 10 at the Mission Covenant church in Warren. As had been requested at the initial meeting, the Thief River Falls group reported on the possibilities of securing the sanatorium in Thief River Falls for an old folks home. The minutes do not indicate what the report contained.

A fact-finding board was selected and included Rev. Elmer Landerdal of Teien, Dr. Arvid Carlson of Warren, Donald Thyren of Thief River Falls, E. G. Peterson and Ray Nyberg. The fact-finding committee was to "contact Christian men inside and outside of Covenant churches interested in a home." An offering was taken to go toward expenses.

The fact-finding committee met Oct. 27, 1953, with Dr. Carlson presiding. "....Rev. Landerdal's voice was broken due to laryngitis," the minutes recorded.

Donald Thyren reported interviews with Rev. Larson, now superintendent at Baptist Old People's Home in Thief River Falls, noting that ".....the Baptist friends would like to meet with us to consider the possibility of jointly erecting a home." Thyren was also directed to "contact the authorities at state welfare office regarding state requirements and as to other possibilities."

A meeting with Baptist and Free Church groups was tentatively scheduled for Nov. 30, 1953.

A merger was accomplished with the Red River Valley Bible School and Home for the Aged which operated a nursing home in a three-story frame building located northeast of Trinity Lutheran Church where the Heritage Community Center is now located. Alfred N. Larson was administrator of that home for 17 years and resigned when the new home was ready for occupancy.

The present building at the intersection of highway 32 and Arnold Avenue South was built in two stages. The first stage was initially planned for 67 residents, later increased to 75, and built in 1963. The second stage was completed about five years later and increased the total number of resident units to 136.

Valley Home Society, which operates the home, continues to be a non-profit, non-denominational organization governed by a board of directors. One of these board members, Randall Noper, has served on the board from the planning stages of the 1963 project until the present time.

Family involvement in the commitment to care for the elderly is also strong in the organization. Present board chairman Clyde Christensen is the son of Waldie Christensen, who chaired the board when plans were being made for the start of the present building.

Gene Beito is presently treasurer of the board. His father, George, was treasurer during the planning stages in 1962. Orin Green is one of the present directors. His father, Olger, was elected to the board in 1962.

Other board members include Harry Sjulson, St. Hilaire, vice chairman; Dolores Berg, Thief River Falls, secretary; Tom Harlow, Merle Lindberg and Rodney Brodin.

Valley Christian Home Association was the name taken by the merged Baptist, Covenant and Free Church groups which joined to plan a new home. When federal funding was obtained for new construction, the name Valley Home Society was adopted. (One of the loan requirements was dropping of the term "Christian" from the name of the organization.)

Otto and Myrtle Baker were the first administrators in the new facility and they were later succeeded by Lester and Mildred Brekke. Elaine Anderson was named manager June 1, 1991.

Valley Home has approximately 45 employees, the majority of whom are non-professionals. The staff includes one Registered Nurse and two Licensed Practical Nurses.

Oakland Park history dates to TB sanatorium

History of Oakland Park Nursing Home—a modern 75-bed skilled care home in Thief River Falls—can be traced back 77 years to Jan. 15, 1916, when Marshall, Roseau and Pennington counties voted to establish a tuberculosis sanatorium near Thief River Falls. This facility was later converted to a nursing home, then vacated when succeeded by the present home.

Commissioners from the three counties purchased 20.65 acres of wooded land along the Red Lake river from Martin Bothun for $5,000. Nelson and Son of Minneapolis constructed the brick and concrete building which was furnished to care for 24 patients. On Jan. 1, 1918, the first tubercular patients were admitted.

In 1922 Red Lake county joined the previous three counties in ownership of the sanatorium. By 1932 occupancy averaged 54 patients. A new staff house was constructed on the property which could house a physician and his family on the main floor and separate sleeping rooms for nursing and other staff on the top floor and lower level. The staff house had an underground tunnel linking it to the sanatorium.

In 1936 substantial improvements to the buildings and grounds were carried out, including a tennis court for the staff house. Construction took place primarily with Works Progress Administration funds and WPA funds also covered 45 per cent of the cost of the addition to the north side of the east wing in 1939.

In 1954, due to a steady decline of tuberculosis, the remaining patients at the sanatorium in Thief River Falls were transferred to Sunnyrest Sanatorium in Crookston. The decision was then made to convert the building to care for the dependent elderly. Rooms were remodeled to accommodate a possible 80 residents. Oakland Park was the eighth such institution in the state to be converted into a "rest home." On Jan. 4, 1955, the first nursing home residents were admitted.

Although the nursing home was crowded, Oakland Park's reputation for quality care was begun. In 1966 Roseau and Red Lake counties withdrew their ownership. In 1969 Northwest Medical Center opened its 90-bed Convalescent and Nursing Care unit to provide beds at the skilled level. Oakland Park then lowered its occupancy and became an Intermediate I level provider.

In 1972 it became evident that the old building was inefficient and out of compliance with state and federal regulations. In February of 1974, after a lengthy assessment of needs and alternatives, notification was given to the Agassiz Health Planning Council of intent to replace the old building. An application for a Certificate of Need for a 75-bed facility was submitted in August of 1974.

After the Certificate of Need was issued and the bonding referendum passed, Marshall county sold its interest to Pennington county. Bid letting was held in June of 1975. The single level building was designed by Patch, Erickson and Madson and was constructed on the northwest corner of the property by Witcher Brothers at a cost of $1,242,061. On July 1, 1976, 52 residents of the old home moved in and it was dedicated Sept. 2, 1976.

For a short time after another remodeling effort the vacated building was used as a dormitory for students attending post high school education in Thief River Falls. It is now unoccupied.

Oakland Park celebrated its silver anniversary as a nursing home in 1980 and is now in its 38th year of service to the community and surrounding area. On Dec. 1, 1991, the home became a Medicare Certified Skilled Facility.

When the home was built in 1955, the executive board included Andy Erickson, Roseau county, chairman; Carl V. Anderson, Pennington county, vice chairman; Omer Houle, Red Lake county, secretary; John X. Lynskey, Pennington county welfare director, recording secretary; and Roy Edmnn, Marshall county, member.

Current executive board includes Donald Jensen, chairman; Kenneth Murphy, vice chairman; Joyce Fox, secretary; Carmen Larson, Oliver "Skip" Swanson, Arden "Bud" Comstock and Charles Naplin.

Sharon Hoglo, BS, LNHA, has been a member of the staff since January of 1978 when she was hired as the home's first social worker. She has been administrator since June 1, 1988.

Previous administrators included Donald Brandvold, January to September, 1955; Mrs. Thora Jensen, September of 1955 to September of 1959; James Roche, September of 1959 to September of 1970; Gust Frahm, September to October of 1970; L. W. Larson, October of 1970 to April of 1972; and Mrs. Sherryll C. Irvine, RN, April of 1972 to May 31 of 1988.

Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls is located on beautiful grounds at the end of Oakland Park Road. The present nursing home was built in 1975 and 1976 and the first 52 occupants moved in during July of 1976. It replaced the previous home which had been converted from a tuberculosis sanitorium in 1954 and occupied Jan. 4, 1955.

Pearl Ornquist spends a lot of her time at Valley Home in the activities room where she works with quilting. Residents of the home are mostly self-sufficient and require only minimal staff assistance.

Albert Leander Anderson at age 99 is one of the oldest residents of Valley Home in Thief River Falls. The number 99 on the wall above his head was made by arranging pennies into numerals. Leander was a long-time resident of the Stephen area, living in the same apartment there for more than 30 years.

Valley Home provides care but is not a "nursing home"

"There is a tendency for the public to group all homes for elderly residents under the category of nursing homes," explains Elaine Anderson, manager of Valley Home in Thief River Falls, "but Valley does not provide nursing services."

Anderson further explains that the 136-bed facility is a boarding care home licensed by the State of Minnesota to provide care for aged or infirm persons who require only personal or custodial care and related services.

Personal or custodial care includes board, room, laundry, personal services, supervision over medications which can be safely self-administered, plus a program of activities and supervision required by persons who may not be capable of properly caring for themselves. No pre-admittance screening is required and the home is not Medicare certified.

"Anyone who is 62 years of age or older, or a handicapped person, may apply for admission to the home," Mrs. Anderson said. "However, a pre-entrance examination which includes a mantoux test (to check for tuberculosis) is required as well as annual check-ups. All residents must be ambulatory or, if in a wheelchair, must be able to transfer by themselves from wheelchair to bed and vice versa."

There are private as well as double occupancy rooms at the home, all of which are furnished. Residents are encouraged, however, to bring any of their own furniture which space within the room will allow. Pictures, television sets, radios, rockers or other favorite chairs and similar items are encouraged.

Meals are served in the dining room and there also is a kitchenette available for use by the residents. An activity area with some equipment such as sewing machines is also centrally located in the home.

As much independence as possible is encouraged at Valley Home. Residents are able to keep their automobiles at the home and may even have pets if they are able to care for them. The large grounds has concrete walkways that lead to a gazebo, pond and small barn which usually has several types of animals.

Residents and their guests are encouraged to use the grounds area and visiting hours are not restricted so visitors are welcome at their convenience. A resident council meets monthly to help plan activities and make recommendations regarding facility policies.

"Community involvement is vital to Valley Home," Mrs. Anderson says. "Area churches and other organizations are active on a regular basis, providing services and programs to benefit our residents. Attendance is always voluntary but also is always good for these kinds of programs."

A private meeting room and a solarium are aslo available in addition to the chapel center for these types of activities.

At the present time Valley Home residents range in age from 62 to 100 years with the greatest number being between 85 and 95 years of age.

The 45 employees include one Registered Nurse and two Licensed Practical nurses.

While the mission of the home has remained unchanged over the years, the costs of providing for the residents' care and convenience certainly have changed.

In 1963 when the home for 75 residents opened, monthly cost of food for resident and staff meals was $1,022.32. That now averages $8,006.94 for the 136 residents and nursing home staff. Cost of lights, power and water was $233.74 in 1963 and now averages $2,477.21. Heating costs have risen from $647.88 in 1963 to $3,176.80 for a comparable month this year and telephone charges have risen during the same period from $16.34 to $173.21.

Elaine Anderson, RN, is manager at Valley Home in Thief River Falls. Although Valley Home serves primarily an elderly clientele, it is not officially considered a nursing home because of the type of custodial care provided.

Ernest Carlson, a resident of Valley Home, displays his skill during a basketball contest held frequently at the home. Ernest made two out of three long-range shots and narrowly missed the third as the Times' photographer snapped the action. Also pictured are Verna Rood, activities director, and Lincoln high school student volunteer Michelle Lampe.

Almost any day at Valley Home in Thief River Falls, Hazel Blom can be found at the sewing machine in the activities room. She sews scraps of material for quilts and rugs and frequently helps out other residents with patching and mending.

Activities abound at Valley Home

If residents at Valley Home choose to participate—and many of them frequently do—there is an abundance of activity to provide exercise, entertainment, socializing, spiritual renewal, participation and accomplishment.

Activities director Verna Rood and the staff at the home schedule, conduct and supervise daily, weekly, monthly and annual activities and events. Verna is always eager to hear from individuals or groups who can offer programs of interest to residents.

Weekly Activities

The craft room is open every day, with the most common activities being rug weaving and quilt making. Discussions are held on an almost weekly basis and exercises are conducted every day except Tuesday and Sunday.

Each Saturday at 7 p.m. there is entertainment provided by musical groups from the area. Games played each week include bean bag toss, darts, bowling and basketball. Bingo is played once a week. In the summertime horseshoes and walks in the park are encouraged.

Movies are shown once or twice a week with popcorn made and served once a week. Band and choir practices are held. Family birthday parties are held if requested and often involve all residents of the home. Families provide the food with coffee, juice, napkins and utensils provided by the home.

Monthly Activities

Once each month when there has been a death of a resident in the previous month, a memorial service is held with Rev. Burton Hushagen of Abundant Life Church conducting the service.

Luncheons are held for residents who work the puzzles in the monthly Valley Home paper "Echoes from the Valley" and craft room workers. Shopping trips are arranged for residents wishing to go to Kmart or Pamida stores.

Resident council meets once a month, led by president Alice Roos, secretary Alice Lendobeja and advisor Verna Rood.

A monthly staff recognition party is conducted by the residents and involves a lunch and program with residents paying for the food for lunch. Paul Furuseth and Ken Sunsdahl present a musical program.

Birthday parties are sponsored by the home for residents who have had birthday anniversaries the previous month. Cards and a money gift are given by the home.

Annual Events

Annual events are frequently related to holidays or other special events, such as the county fair, although some individuals or groups make an effort to schedule annual appearances.

Ada Smerek of Grygla brings her vocal and piano students to entertain and students from Our Saviour's Christian Academy perform. Lincoln Singers make an annual appearance and children from Discovery Place child care center visit.

C.A.P. project students from Lincoln high school help with games and program each week but also present special programs for the New Years holiday, Valentine's Day, St. Patrick's Day, Easter, Mother's Day, Welcome and Farewell programs, Halloween and Thanksgiving.

A king and queen are crowned annually, a picnic is held with Oakland Park Nursing Home residents and Valley Home residents put on a program for the public each Christmas.

Most of the residents attend the county fair and some enter exhibits. Veterans of Foreign Wars conduct a fish fry for residents and groups from many churches provide lunches—including St. Bernard's Catholic church which serves once a month. People who have taken trips show slides from their travels.

Family Residents Night is held four times a year with lunch and special entertainment for families of residents. Residents having birthdays are remembered with a pin and a birthday song in the morning. Residents and staff often treat everyone to cake and ice cream or other goodies on their birthdays.

Floral arrangements are sent from Valley Home to residents whenever they have to be hospitalized. On Mother's Day this year the young people from Our Saviour's Lutheran Church will bring corsages for all mothers at the home and present a program.

Evening Activities

On Tuesday evenings during each month music is provided by the Trochmann Family, Dean Paskewitz and Don Johnsen, Rev. G. Davis of Faith Lutheran Brethren Church and Rev. Michael Forsberg or Larry Myhrer of Precious Seed Baptist Church.

Spiritual Activities

At 8 a.m. Sunday the Newfolden and Thief River Falls AFLC churches conduct services. At 2 p.m. services are conducted by Jennings Jensen, Rev. Edsel Lindquist, Rev. Sandy and Kathy Stevenson of the Assembly of God and Rev. Forsberg of Precious Seed Baptist church.

Tuesday morning a Bible study is conducted by Judith Wold and in the afternoon Bible study is conducted by ladies from New Hope Lutheran Church in Newfolden.

Wednesday service is conducted by Rev. Berton R. Hushagen of Abundant Life church, Thursday service is conducted by the Thief River Falls Ministerial association and Friday service is conducted by Harvey Dyrud and Paul Flaten.

A calendar of events is prepared by Mrs. Rood for each month. Activities will follow the regular schedule during Nursing Home Week May 9-15.

Valley Home in Thief River Falls offers custodial care to primarily elderly residents, providing a level of assistance below skilled nursing care for people who are ambulatory and mostly able to care for themselves. It is one of several levels of resident care available in the Thief River Falls community and is located at Highway 32 and Arnold Avenue south.

Among residents at Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls is one married couple—Bob and Madelyn Roberge. Madelyn has been at Oakland Park since 1986 and Bob joined her there in February of 1992.

"WE'RE PROUD TO HAVE SUCH A GREAT FACILITY IN OUR COMMUNITY"

GREEN FUNERAL HOME
420 North LaBree 681-4331 Thief River Falls

Central nurse's station is a focal point of activity at Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls. From this station service is provided to residents in separate wings of the building. The corner area in the background at right will be converted to an aviary when funds are raised to pay for the construction of the aviary and acquire a supply of birds.

Outdoor activities at Oakland Park Nursing Home are frequently held during the summer at this covered picnic shelter located just outside the door of the home. Concrete walkways around this part of the grounds also permit staff members or families of residents to move wheelchairs around the beautifully shaded area.

Facilities complement care at Oakland Park

While there are things administrator Sharon Hoglo might prefer to have different if she were to design her own nursing home, she says that after visiting a number of other homes she is always impressed when she comes back to Oakland Park.

"In the summer, we enjoy time outdoors on our patio and just walking out around the beautiful grounds," she said. "The home provides bird feeders outside of residents' windows the year around and the people enjoy watching the wildlife. In addition to the birds and squirrels which are frequent visitors, we have had raccoons, deer and even moose create excitement while they are passing through the grounds."

About four years ago Lowell and Marge Swenson had wide sidewalks installed around the home and grounds, linking the exits. The walks are wide enough for two wheelchairs to meet and pass each other.

"The ability to take our residents out for walks has been invaluable and the home really appreciates this on-going gift," she said. "Residents enjoy our heavily wooded area and the opportunity to be out in part of it."

Oakland Park also hopes to bring some activity indoors in the not too distant future. Funds are being accumulated for an aviary to be built and stocked with birds in the general area between the main entrance to the building and the central nursing station. Any donations to this fund will be gratefully appreciated.

Oakland Park Nursing Home is designed with three wings, each containing its own tub and shower room, linen and housekeeping closet, utility rooms for clean and soiled items and a day room. Approximately 25 residents live in each wing and receive complete nursing care from a central nursing station which serves all three wings.

The home has a beauty and barbershop equipped with a shampoo sink, hydraulic chair and dryers. The staff provides activities tailored to each resident's needs and abilities. The resident council meets regularly to help residents become acquainted with one another, to help adjust to nursing home life, assist residents to be aware of the Resident's Bill of Rights, and to become aware of how the home functions and who to go to with particular concerns.

Family involvement is encouraged through social activities, private parties, private family dinners and family nights. Music is an important activity of the home which often relies on the talents of family members or volunteers from surrounding communities as well as talented staff and residents.

The activities room is equipped with its own kitchen where residents often assist in baking pies, cookies, lefse or other goodies. Crafts, reading, current events, sensory stimulation, remotivation, reality orientation and exercise are part of the activities program.

Hired in January of 1978 as the home's first social worker, administrator Sharon Hoglo has seen a lot of changes in her 15 years on staff.

Early on, the social worker handled admissions to the home independently and there was one rate for all care given in the home. In 1985, however, case-mix and pre-admission screening were launched by the State of Minnesota. Now there are 11 classifications (A-K) based on the amount of nursing assistance that is required by each resident. Each classification has a separate rate which is set by the Minnesota Department of Human Services based on th home's Rule 50 cost report which is submitted to the state annually.

The pre-admission screening team usually consists of a county nurse and county social worker. They determine if nursing home placement is required or if the person could be cared for by home health agencies, county nursing services and/or chore services, etc. They screen all prospective candidates for the nursing home regardless of ability to be private paying or on Medical Assistance in the home.

The key activities of daily living that the pre-admission screening team assesses to determine each prospective resident's needs include dressing, grooming, bathing, eating, bed mobility, transferring, walking and toileting. They also include behaviors such as wandering, combativeness and need for re-direction, etc. Oakland Park's residents have higher dependency needs.

In 1987 the federal government passed a far-reaching nursing home reform bill referred to as "OBRA 87" in an attempt to make nursing home care more uniform across the country.

"Much of it was needed in some areas," Hoglo said. "However, as a result, costs in nursing homes have dramatically increased to implement all of this legislation, and nursing homes now have 227 pages of interpretive guidelines to follow to remain in compliance."

These regulations address residents' rights, admission, transfer, discharges, resident behavior and facility practices, quality of life, resident assessments, quality of care, nursing services, dietary services, physician services, specialized rehabilitative services, dental services, pharmacy services, infection control, physical environment and administration.

Day rooms such as this one are located at the far end of each of the three resident wings of Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls. The rooms are used by both residents and visitors to the home and are convenient sites for family parties or gatherings.

"Our nursing home standards state that 'each facility must be administered in a manner that enables it to use its resources effectively and efficiently to attain or maintain the highest practicable, physical, mental and psychosocial well-being of each resident,'" Hoglo said.

"A nursing home must be licensed under applicable state and local-law and the facility must operate and provide services in compliance with all applicable federal, state and local laws, regulations and codes and with accepted professional standards and principles that apply to professionals providing services in such a facility. This includes compliance with regulations relating to health, safety and sanitation."

Hoglo said that nursing homes are mandated to provide inservice education annually to all employees regarding the employee right to know, patients rights, vulnerable adults, infection control, sexual harassment, bloodborne pathogens and fire, tornado and emergency safety.

The home must hold monthly fire drills, comply with Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) regulations, Workers Compensation rules, etc.

In addition to compliance with the above, facilities are obligated to meet the applicable provisions of other Health and Human Service regulations including, but not limited to, those pertaining to non-discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin, handicap, age, etc.

Oakland Park became Medicare Certified in December of 1991 and must conform with all Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) regulations as well.

To date Oakland Park has served 1,184 residents from Thief River Falls and the surrounding areas in its 38 years of operation as a nursing home. More than three-fourths of the present residents are over 80 years of age and more than one-fourth are over 90.

Recent statistics showed that three per cent of the home's residents were age 40 to 59, four per cent were 60 to 69, 16 per cent were 70 to 79, 48 per cent were 80 to 89 and 29 per cent were 90 to 99.

The oldest resident is Harvey Johnson who had his 100th birthday May 2. Alida Pederson is the only current resident who moved to the present home from the former sanatorium building where she had lived for four years. Delores Brandon came to the home in July of 1976, when it was first opened, but had not been at the other building.

"Through the years Oakland Park has relied on many volunteers to add a vital ingredient to our residents' lives," Hoglo said. "We continue to need and welcome volunteers. They provide entertainment,

Oakland Park prides itself on resident care

"A nursing home does not just treat a condition," says Sharon Hoglo, BS, LNHA, administrator of Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls. "An individual plan of care is set up by the care planning team which treats the whole person, including medical, physical, emotional, spiritual and recreational needs."

Hoglo said the home's social worker compiles a social history by visiting with the new resident, family members and significant others. The care planning team works with each resident and his or her family to set up short and long range goals which remain ongoing.

"Through all these years our mission has been to give our elderly the best care possible along with a lot of TLC (tender loving care)," Mrs. Hoglo said. "Our 75-bed skilled home is staffed with 100 special full-time and part-time employees. And I say 'special' because not everyone is cut out to work in a nursing home. It requires someone with a great deal of understanding, patience and caring."

Peter Johnson, MD, is the consulting medical director for the home. Al Scheuneman, MD and Ashok Patel, MD, are also members of the home's quality assurance committee. Jane Aandal, RN, is director of nursing.

The home also employs three more full-time and part-time RNs who function as assistant director of nursing, inservice director and infection control coordinator. It employs 14 Licensed Practical Nurses who work as charge nurses, distributing medications, charting and doing treatments. There are usually 45 to 50 Registered Nursing Assistants who provide much of the "hands on" care the residents receive 24 hours a day.

Recognizing that it is people who make the difference in nursing home care, Hoglo cited some of her staff and noted the scope of their responsibilities as follows:

"Our dietary department is headed by Karen Ranum, food service director. She supervises four full-time and part-time cooks and seven food service workers to provide approximately 87,378 meals per year as well as catering many of our home's special events.

"Our building occupies 33,000 square feet on approximately 12 acres of grounds," she noted. "Jim Seibel, our building and grounds supervisor and one janitor, Miles Corneillie, do a meticulous job of groundskeeping and building and equipment preventative maintenance. Jim also assists as our safety coordinator.

"Our laundry supervisor, Carol Bjornrud, directs three other part-time laundresses. The home does all of its laundry in-house with two each of commercial washers and dryers for soiled linens and one home-type washer and dryer for residents' personal clothing. The home's staff works hard to be certain that all items have name tags sewn into them prior to coming to the laundry. Otherwise, it is very difficult to determine who the owner is when there are 75 residents in the house!

"LeAnn Olson is our housekeeping supervisor. She directs six housekeepers who clean residents' rooms daily as well as handling the many other housekeeping chores around the home.

"Lori Thompson, Certified Occupational Therapy Assistant, heads our activities department," Hoglo said. "Our rehab department is coordinated by Joleen Fitzloff, LPN. Our rehab coordinator and assistants are responsible for ambulation, active and passive range of motion, whirlpool baths, hot packs, exercising, use of pulley and restorator (bicycle).

"Jennifer Johnson, the home's social worker, is in charge of admissions. Some of her many duties include assisting residents, families and staff in the orientation to patients' rights, helping new residents adjust to placement and acts as the resident council's coordinator.

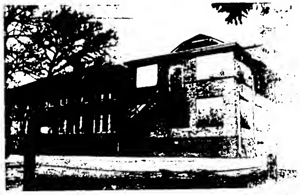
"Administrative duties consist of overseeing the total operation of the nursing home," Hoglo said. "This could not be done without the diligent help of four full-time and one part-time office staff members—a bookkeeper, administrative secretary, medical records secretary/purchaser, receptionist and clerk/typist.

"The paperwork never ends. Documentation, correspondence, resident trust fund and other financial records, statistics, payroll, medical and personnel records, inventory control and receptionist duties are only part of the required paperwork," Hoglo added.

She said Oakland Park is fortunate to have many consultants from the area who assist in their area of expertise. A pharmacist, occupational therapist and physical therapist come from Northwest Medical Center. Other consultants include a dietitian, pastor, medical records consultant, speech pathologist, dentist and accountant.

The local ministerial association provides church services to the residents of the home on Thursdays on a rotating pastor basis.

On the first and fifth Sundays of each month church services are provided by Rev. Michael Forsberg and the Larry Meyer family. On the second and fourth Sundays Our Saviour's Lutheran church lay ministry has the services and on the third Sundays the Trochmann musical service is presented.



Forerunner of the present Oakland Park Nursing Home is this building, constructed in 1917 on 20.65 acres of land purchased by Marshall, Roseau and Pennington counties for $5,000. It served as a tuberculosis sanitorium from Jan. 1, 1918 to 1954 when it was decided to convert the building for [illegible] dependent elderly. # Keeping active is easy at Oakland Park Home

For residents of Oakland Park Nursing Home, opportunity to maintain interest in life and be as active as they can be is provided in a number of ways nearly every day of the week.

Activities director Lori Thompson said that some of the activities are scheduled on a daily or weekly basis. The hobby shop is open for crafts and coffee every morning and residents are encouraged to weave rugs, rip and sew rags for rugs, recycle greeting cards and create holiday gifts and other items.

A current events time is held Monday and Thursday mornings with local and area newspapers used. Reality orientation is also held to help residents keep familiar with the month, day of the week, time of day, holidays and other timely items.

Reading group meets Tuesday and Friday mornings for reading segments of a continuous story by authors like Laura Ingalls Wilder.

Rev. Cathy Stevenson from the Assembly of God church leads the Wednesday morning Bible study.

As residents are waiting for their noon and evening meals each day, music is presented with piano and guitar while ball games are played or pre-meal exercises are conducted. Afternoon activities are varied and late afternoon is given to card and/or dice games.

Bingo is played four times a month, bowling is offered and a poetry group meets. A memorial service is led by Rev. Josh Nelson of Trinity Lutheran Church for any residents who died during the previous month. Trivia groups and mind-joggers are held.

Men's groups watch wildlife videos, sports and animal tapes. Baking groups bake for special events or treats for coffee time. A monthly Happy Hour features musical entertainment by area people, serving of a treat and beverage and dancing for residents who are able.

Church circles schedule time to visit and serve coffee and treats and some present brief programs. Able residents are provided with transportation for a shopping trip to Kmart or Pamida. Movies or videos are shown, Floyd and Pearl Dalzell provide a message and song and the resident council meeting is led by the social worker.

Heritage Choir sings in the evening once a month and there are birthday parties for residents where families may bring in a cake and the home provides coffee, juice, plates, napkins and other items to serve all residents.

Spiritual Emphasis Provided

The ministerial association provides a speaker for a Thursday church service on a rotating basis. Sunday services are also on a rotating basis and include Rev. Forsberg of Precious Seed Baptist church, lay members of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, the Larry Meyers family of Abundant Life church or the Trochmann family.

Rev. Berton Hushagen of Abundant Life church conducts a monthly communion service for all residents who want to attend and other area pastors schedule communion for their members in the home during each month.

A number of special events are held annually or several times throughout the year. Ada Smerek of Grygla brings her vocal and piano students to the home for a recital and Our Saviour's Christian Academy presents a spring program and a Christmas program.

Holiday parties are held for Christmas, New Year, Valentine's Day, St. Patrick's Day and Halloween and a spelling bee is held in September. A king and queen are selected and the queen advances to district nursing home queen competition.

A Sweetheart Banquet is held annually with a theme followed for decorations, food and entertainment. Residents who want to are encouraged to invite a spouse or date for the banquet and many from Valley Home attend.

National Nursing Home week is observed with special events including resident and staff appreciation days and mother-daughter tea.

Volunteer appreciation open house is held once a year, flowers and vegetables are planted out on the patio and residents who are able are taken to attend the county fair. Family nights are held, a picnic held on the patio with Valley Home residents and a fish fry served by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Nursing homes must work on compliance

Adoption and implementation of governmental regulations are useless without compliance by those who are being regulated. Nursing homes are very heavily regulated and staying in compliance is the name of the game.

Sharon Hoglo, administrator of Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls, says that compliance inspections may be viewed by some as unwelcome intrusions but are generally good checks on the job that a home is doing for its residents.

Just how much checking goes on? Hoglo explains:

"To make certain that nursing homes remain in compliance, three state surveyors visit the home unannounced annually and remain in the home from three to five days while they check records, patients' charts, interview residents and family members, check water temperatures, food tray temperatures, food freezer temperature, etc.

"Hot water temperatures, for instance, must be different for different departments. They must be 110 degrees in resident care wings, 160 degrees in the laundry department and 140 degrees in the dishwashing area of the dietary department.

"They check to see if the home is in compliance with the correct amount of nursing hours required to do resident care, and if physicians are visiting their patients in a timely manner. They review physician's orders, medications, chemical and physical restraint use and a list of many more items too numerous to mention.

"Once they leave the facility, they mail their findings—including any 'deficiencies'—to the facility which usually is given no more than 10 days to write corrections for anything that is found wrong.

"After the nursing home corrects any problems, up to 60 days, the surveyors come back to the facility a second time unannounced to check for compliance. At the time of the state survey, the deputy fire marshall from the State of Minnesota does an annual fire safety survey of the whole facility as well. The federal government also has surveyors who come to nursing homes from HCFA.

"Other Minnesota Department of Health personnel who visit the nursing home annually are the Quality Assurance Review Team. These persons check the nursing home residents' charts to make sure that the nursing home is documenting all the care that it provides for its patients and that it is charging the correct rate for the care given. These mandates for increased documentation keep RNs and LPNs very busy with paperwork—unfortunate for nursing home residents who might prefer the one-to-one contact more often."

Due to dwindling resources both state and federal, Minnesota Departments of Human Services, Health, Finance and the Minnesota Board of Aging developed a "Strategy for Long Term Care in Minnesota" in March of 1991.

At present, there are approximately 7.8 per cent of the elderly in long term care in Minnesota. This state spends, per capita, more on Medical Assistance for nursing home care than almost any other state. Therefore Minnesota is working on alternatives to care for the elderly.

Nursing homes will continue to care for the very frail elderly, however. Currently Oakland Park Nursing Home reimbursement comes from Medicare, private pay and from Medical Assistance.

"Fifteen years ago the home averaged 25 new admissions per year and had 75 employees," Hoglo said. "today we average 40 to 50 new admissions per year and need 100 employees due to the increase in paperwork and needed nursing hours to provide care and remain in compliance with government mandates."

And the problems are far from being solved yet. There is a projected 64 per cent population increase of people over 85 years of age in the next 20 years.

Sharon Hoglo, BS, LHNA, is the seventh administrator at Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls since the home was established in 1956. She has directed operation of the nursing home since June 1, 1988.

Special events for Nursing Home Week at Oakland Park

Special events have been planned for four of the five week days of National Nursing Home Week next week at Oakland Park Nursing Home in Thief River Falls, according to Lori Thompson, activities director.

Dolls will be featured Monday, May 10, with staff members encouraged to bring any special dolls that they have and would like to share. At 2 p.m. Kathy Carlson will set up a doll display and give a demonstration on how she makes dolls.

Carlson formerly was associated with Victoria House in Thief River Falls and now plans to open her own doll business at the end of May at her home, one-half mile east of the River Road Casino.

Tuesday, May 11, will be Resident Appreciation Day with the resident council to select its favorite meal to be served at noon. Drawings will be held for prizes donated by various businesses.

At 2 p.m. area residents are invited to bring unique pets to the back yard area for residents to see and enjoy. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Panek will be bringing some of their llamas and a number of employees plan to bring dogs, cats and rabbits. Anyone in the community who has unique animals they would like to show may call the activities department at Oakland Park.

Annual Mother-Daughter Tea will be featured Wednesday, May 12. Invitations are sent to daughters or close friends of the women residents at Oakland Park. A special luncheon will be held at 2 p.m. with entertainment by the singing group "Straight From The Heart."

Weekly church service will take place on Thursday, May 13, when Zion Lutheran Church of Viking and Oak Ridge Lutheran will conduct the service at 3 p.m.

Staff Appreciation Day will be observed Friday, May 14. A special Staff Olympics will be held at 2 p.m. for all employees who want to be involved. Residents will form the cheering section to encourage their favorite care-givers. Gary Bucklin of Royal Limousine Service has donated a trip for the winning team to the Third Base in Brooks for supper, and the Third Base has also donated a gift certificate to the winning team.

Drawings will be held for employees to receive donated items or certificates from various businesses.

A baby photo contest will be held throughout the week. All employees are urged to bring a baby picture of themselves to be arranged in the display case. A prize will be given to employees able to correctly identify the most care-givers of Oakland Park Home.

"We encourage all employees and residents to participate and enjoy the week," Thompson said. "Thanks for all you do!"

activities, food, reading time, visiting, sewing, playing musical instruments, treats and presents, supplies and other donations.

"We appreciate and thank our volunteers—people caring for people. They are honored annually with a tea. Please feel free to contact Lori Thompson at the nursing home if you would be interested in becoming a volunteer for the home or would like more information."

The Second Section

Arbor Day in Thief River Falls was recognized when a tree planting project began in Thief River Falls last Friday. Various officials, including the city Forester John Johnson, Mayor Robert Reeve, and Roger Hilie of the Minnesota department of transportation, helped plant a tree near the National Guard Armory. The planting of the tree marked the beginning of a project to replant trees along Highway 32 south in Thief River Falls. Last year, many of the trees along the highway were removed because of a reconstruction project on the highway.

Insurance Advocate program closes doors

Because of cuts in federal and state funding, Tri-Valley Opportunity Council Insurance Advocate Program terminated all services beginning Wednesday, May 28, and will close the Thief River Falls office today (Saturday, May 1).

Program director Diane Baune said no new cases can be taken and the program will be terminated unless $30,000 is raised to provide services for the balance of the year and there are commitments for funding for future years.

Goal of the program is to assist individuals to collect all entitled benefits from Medicare or private Insurance, filing claims, appealing denied charges and verifying that all charges have been processed.

Another goal is to provide information on programs that offer assistance with medical costs such as Medical Assistance, Qualified Medicare Beneficiaries and others. The newest program is the Pharmaceutical Indigent Program which provides drugs free of charge if eligibility criteria is met.

Although unable to take any new participants for approximately six months, the program provided 2,722 services to 227 households in 1992 and had $39,364 in traceable savings or recovery for those households.

As an example of the program's service, Baune cited a call from a senior citizen who had been referred by a health care provider. The person had a $2,300 outstanding balance and no resources to pay it. The insurance company had informed the provider the policyholder did not have 100 per cent coverage.

"Upon review it was found the policy did have 100 per cent coverage when Medicare was the primary payor," Baune said. "This information was omitted when the provider spoke with the insurance company. After reviewing the medical bills, Medicare statements and insurance claim resolutions, it was found several charges had never been processed and a large credit had not been applied to the account. Recovery for this one household was $2,266."

Baune said she would appreciate any suggestions for potential funding sources and may be contacted at 1-800-584-7020. Financial contributions to the program are tax deductible and may be sent to Tri-Valley Insurance Advocate Program, P.O. Box 607, Crookston, MN 56716.

Tech college graduation set

Graduation ceremonies for the Northwest Technical College—Thief River Falls have been set for Thursday, May 27, at 7 p.m. in the Northland Community College gymnasium. A reception will follow in the college cafeteria. Further details of the ceremonies will be published in a later issue.

Mental health disorders discussed during month

Note: During the month of May a series of articles will be prepared by Pennington and Red Lake County Community Support Program (CSP) and participants. CSP is a program designed to help people with mental illness, and improve their quality of life.

Mental illness is a term used to describe a variety of disorders causing disturbance in thinking, feeling, and relating. These disorders may result in a diminished capacity for coping with life. The following information are facts about mental illness that will help clarify misunderstandings.

Mental illness is prevalent. One in five persons are affected in some way by mental illness. They may be directly affected through a personal experience with a mental illness. They may be indirectly but significantly affected, helping a family member or close friend cope with a mental illness. There are people throughout our communities, whose lives are challenged by mental illness.

Mental illness is diverse. There are a variety of kinds, and a variety of degrees, of mental illness. The most common types of mental illness include depression, manic depression, schizophrenia, and anxiety disorders.

Mental illness can affect anyone. Mental illness can affect children, adolescents, adults, and elderly people.

Mental illness can be devastating to individuals and families. The effects of mental illness can be worse than the effects of other illnesses. A Rand Corporation Study showed that depressed persons had significantly more social difficulties than all other chronic disease groups. And untreated mental illness is a powerful risk factor for suicide.

Persons with mental illness are people first. People with mental illness are people with capabilities and talents. It is important to focus attention and compassion on people, not on their symptoms.

Mental illness is an illness. Mental illness is not a choice. Mental illness is not a personal weakness. It is an illness, just as diabetes is an illness, with different degrees of chronicity, symptoms, and effectiveness of treatment. People with mental illness are experiencing something over which they have no control; in most instances an illness caused by a biochemical disturbance in the brain or another physiological basis. And just as with other illnesses, people with mental illness deserve understanding and compassion.

With proper treatment, many people manage their mental illness. Help is available for successfully treating people with mental illnesses. However, not all people with mental illness do recover, as is true with all types of illness. It is unfortunate that many people do not receive the treatment they need, due to lack of affordable services, lack of understanding, or the stigma associated with mental illness.

Mental illness is a community issue. Mental illness indirectly impacts nearly every part of the community. Mental illness is an issue in our neighborhoods, where housing and residential treatment programs are greatly needed. It is an issue in our workplaces, where co-workers are coping with the mental illness of a loved one or

How to start your day in a spiritual way

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

The word of God says if we walk in the Spirit, we will not carry out the evil desires of the flesh (Gal. 5:16). That means, if we live only to please God every day, we won't carry out the evil desires of the flesh. If we walk in the Spirit, then we will live as Jesus lived, imitating God daily (Eph. 5:1; 2 Cor. 3:17).

Set aside at least 15 minutes to do a Bible study each morning. Take time for God and He will bless everything you put your hand to do. You are really honoring Him when you put Him first each day. Wouldn't you agree? You must resist Satan when he tries to convince you that you don't have time to study your Bible for God each day (James 4:7). When you resist Satan, you will crucify the flesh with its evil passions and desires (Gal. 5:16, 24; Rom. 8:13).

Ask the Lord to guide you through the day and to keep you busy in a spiritual way. Live to please only Him in your work and in your leisure. When you go to work, look for those who need to be cheered up and do what you can to help. Maybe you can bring some fresh rolls to work to share with others. Buy someone coffee if you have a chance. Compliment people when they make an effort to look nice for others, or just lend an ear to someone who has troubles. One of the main reasons people attempt suicide is that they feel nobody cares. The true disciple of Jesus Christ, living in a spiritual way, brightens the day of those around him who are in despair.

A true disciple of Jesus Christ will study God's word each day in order to allow the Lord to speak to him. This is how you show yourself approved by God (2 Tim. 2:15). This is how you please Him and obey Him. You prove that you love God by putting Him first in your life (John 15:8).

You know the right thing to do (James 4:17). Now you must force yourself into God's kingdom by disciplining yourself accordingly (Luke 16:16). This is how to start your day in a spiritual way.

Mental Health disorders discussed

making a transition back to work after their own challenges with mental illness. It is an issue in our schools and churches, where persons with special needs are in need of help and compassion.

In 1987, the Minnesota Legislature passed the Minnesota Comprehensive Mental Health Act, outlining mental health services that must be available to all adults with severe and persistent mental illness, and all children with emotional disturbances, in every Minnesota county.

We must work together for greater understanding of mental illness. In order to deal with mental illness as a community, we must educate ourselves about mental illness and accept persons with it as community members. As a community, we cannot close our doors, our minds, or our hearts, to those whose lives are affected by mental illness.

Next week: types, signs and symptoms of mental illness.

The Times' Editorial Opinion

The Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

John P. Mattson, publisher
Marvin Lundin, editor
David Hill, associate editor

Editorial opinion published on this page, whether locally written or re printed from other sources is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Opinions expressed by the editor are his own and not necessarily those of other staff members. Opinions expressed in items from other publications may be contradictory to the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Pardon Our Disorder; We're Remodeling

For the next couple of weeks The Times and Northern Watch staff will be in a bit of a state of chaos as the main office is being dismantled and reassembled in a somewhat different form. It is our hope and expectation that the end result will be a change that proves beneficial to our customers.

At present, however, the comfortable familiarity of office and attendant facilities has been badly shaken. The front office staff has taken up temporary positions next door in the space formerly occupied by Annette's Fabrics—something like a military field command post. It is fortuitous to have the space available, so that carpenters may work unhindered by Times workers and—similarly—we may work relatively unhindered by 2x4s, sheetrock dust, saws and hammers.

The doors between the front office and the computer and composing room have been closed and the front door is being used only by the remodeling crew. Customers who normally are accustomed to coming in our front door are invited to take a few steps south along Main Avenue and use the former Annette's entrance. We intend to offer the same services in the temporary quarters while the construction takes place.

Callers may note a few busy signals and delays in waiting for people to get to the phone. We are making do with only two phones to be shared by all in the makeshift quarters and we apologize for delays that might cause. We'll do our best to keep them to a minimum.

We thank the public for putting up with the interruption in routine and we hope the changes meet with your approval. Stop by and take a look when the project is completed.

We Could All Pay A Little More Attention To Common Courtesy

Once in awhile we get so caught up in our own concerns and affairs that we forget the lessons we learned about politeness and courtesy to others. It becomes apparent at public events and meetings at times that those attending are definitely lacking in these social graces—and the lack of courtesy seems to proliferate once it starts.

This editor belongs to an organization of people which meets regularly and is comprised of members who come in contact with the public on a daily basis. Yet these members have a tendency to carry on their own conversations in a near normal tone of voice while the business is being conducted and/or while a speaker is talking. Acts of discourtesy are also noted at sporting and other events.

We appreciated a letter we received late last week from Mike Lehrer. He directs his remarks to people attending formal performances, and that is a good place to start. But it wouldn't hurt any of us to give a little more consideration to others when we are out in public places. It makes this world just a little nicer place to live for all of us. Here is Mike's letter:

I am, and have been for many years, the band instructor at Franklin middle school. I was born in Thief River Falls and have lived most of my life in this area. I am very proud to be a citizen of this community and this area.

The people that I work with most frequently, the school administration, staff, band parents and others too numerous to mention are caring and supportive. I feel very fortunate to live and work in such an environment.

I am writing this letter, however, to point out an area where improvement would be much appreciated. The subject is behavior at formal performances such as band, choir, orchestra concerts, drama and many other productions.

I conducted our spring band concert recently. I was very proud of the students who participated in the performance. They prepared many hours in and out of class; they demonstrated a high level of skill and maturity and I commend them for their accomplishments.

The audience, however, fell short of demonstrating the respect for these students that they deserve. To address this problem I am listing some important guidelines that any audience participant should consider when attending formal performances.

(1) Be prompt.

(2) Do not enter, or leave, while the performance is in progress. If you must enter, or leave, due to some important reason, wait until there is a break in the action.

(3) Do not leave before the entire performance is completed. Performers at the end of the program deserve your support and attention as much as those at the beginning. Sometimes you may have to break this rule for some important reason. That is understandable.

(4) Be very quiet except for applause and intermissions.

(5) Parents, please control your children. They need to be taught, and practice, good conduct at performances.

(6) Show your appreciation with applause—nothing else.

(7) Adults should always set a good example for young people.

(8) Young people should always set a good example for adults.

If we follow the above guidelines, I believe that performers, directors and members of the audience will share a more positive experience when attending formal performances!

Bank originates $5 million in mortgage loans

This volume of loans from the local office allowed many people to purchase homes, reduce their payments and/or the mortgage term, consequently saving them thousands of dollars in interest, Reuter said.

The three Norwest offices in northwestern Minnesota originated 443 loans totaling $25,552,467. As of January 12, adjustable rate mortgages were quoted as low as four and seven-eighths per cent with no points.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

It is disappointing when a local newspaper of a small town misses an opportunity to print a brief article of interest to the public. Recently the time, effort, pride and delight was taken in arranging a visit from the well-known area personality, Tom Szymanski, KTHI Channel 11's weatherman. The event was of interest to more than a hundred families, and perhaps more, since Mr. Szymanski has relatives in the surrounding area towns.

An article was written and presented for publication two weeks before the visit was to take place. A request was also made at that time for the presence of a news photographer to take some pictures and the availability of someone to take that responsibility was approved.

Extra consideration was also taken to give phone notification upon the arrival of the guest in order to save time for news staff. Notification was given within minutes of Mr. Szymanski's arrival. When he departed an hour later, there was still no news person to cover the event.

It is upsetting to find such a lack of interest and responsibility from local newspapers, especially when understanding and consideration is given in recognition of a newspaper's busy schedule. Little was asked of news staff and a brief 15-minute appearance would have satisfied a great many guests and readers.

It is regrettable to realize that a camera, a news staff person and a brief period of time could not be spared to cover and present for publication an interesting article for interested people.

A visit from someone such as Mr. Szymanski is of general interest to the public and deserves a few minutes of attention as well as recognition from a local newspaper, especially when time and effort is taken to accommodate news professionals regarding an event of interest.

Sincerely,
Pat Krystosek

"A total of 1,013 Minnesota motorists were arrested for speeding during the month of March and while they have our sympathy, we are glad to pass the bad news of their misfortune along as a warning to those who want to retain their gas ration cards. We say these law-breakers have our sympathy, and we say it in all sincerity. Thirty-five miles an hour is a terribly tiresome pace on a long journey but the penalty for doing thirty-six is more terrible."

After further discussion and talking with the County Engineer the County Board decided if the County was to provide Percolation tests they should be by the Highway Department. Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen that a staff member from the County Highway Department attend this training session at the County Engineer's discretion. Motion carried.

The County Board then discussed a letter from the Northwest Juvenile Training Center requesting support for placing a new building for the Northwest Juvenile Training Center on the State Bonding System.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Comstock and upon vote was unanimously carried:

WHEREAS, the State of Minnesota Department of Corrections annual inspection reports of the Northwestern Minnesota Juvenile Training Center clearly indicates the need of a new Training Center facility and

WHEREAS, it is possible for the Counties of the Training Center's Joint Powers Agreement to apply to the State of Minnesota for a capital bonding request for design and construction of a new Training Center facility; and

WHEREAS, inclusion of bonding for a new Training Center facility in the State's Capital bonding package would mean that the Joint Powers Counties would not be obligated to assume the indebtedness for the design and construction, rather such indebtedness would be incurred by the State of Minnesota.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners hereby supports the Northwestern Minnesota Juvenile Training Center in their intention to apply for inclusion in the State's Capital bonding package the costs associated with the design and construction of a new Training Center facility and to request the approval of the Judges of the Ninth Judicial District to apply for inclusion of the State's Capital Bonding package.

Chairman Swanson returned to the meeting and resumed the Chair at this time.

Adaline Olson, County Assessor then met with the County Board to discuss the rates being charged to the townships and cities for the work done for them by the Assessor's Office. Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to approve of the rates set for 1993 and have Ms. Olson check into how the rates in Pennington County Compare to other Counties throughout the State of Minnesota. Motion carried.

The Board of Review meetings have been set for April 5th through April 8th for the Townships, May 5th for the City of Thief River Falls. The Board of Equalization has been set for June 17th, 1993 at 10:00 a.m.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried:

WHEREAS, House File 99 and Senate File 124 would provide for the creation of regional library districts which would have the authority to levy a tax independent of the county board; and

WHEREAS, the establishment of another separate taxing district is unnecessary and redundant.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED That the Pennington County Board of Commissioners opposes House File 99 and Senate File 124.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Comstock and upon vote was unanimously carried:

WHEREAS, The Minnesota Department of Health has proposed increases in various permit fees including the well permit fees from $50.00 to $100.00.

BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners hereby opposed the Department of Health's increase in well Permit fees and any legislation proposing these fees be increased.

The following resolution was moved by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried:

WHEREAS, The Minnesota State Auditor's Office has requested that they be allowed to lease office space in the Pennington County Courthouse.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board Chairman and the Auditor are hereby authorized to enter into a lease agreement with the Minnesota State Auditor's Office at a cost of $150.00 per month.

Moved by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the minutes of March 9, 1993 as written. Motion unanimously carried.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District, 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 17, 1993 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawler mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 14th day of April, 1993.

Among the many unique items available at Jacalyn Gallery & Gifts in Thief River Falls are Chippawa craft items. Owner Jackie Filipy is Thief River Falls' Entrepreneur of the Year.

Jackie Filipy named Entrepreneur of the Year

From home occupation to downtown business, the story of Jacalyn Gallery & Gifts is one of growth in leaps and bounds. The leadership and enthusiasm necessary to accomplish that level of growth was recognized at the Small Business Awards breakfast Tuesday at the American Legion where Jackie Filipy, owner of Jacalyn Gallery & Gifts, was named Thief River Falls Entrepreneur of the Year.

Jackie Filipy began a wholesale plant and floral business in her home in 1989. During that time her business grew and she marketed plants and plant gardens to six area major grocery stores. In 1990 her business went in another direction. Jackie pursued the retail market, phasing out of wholesale and branching into new areas in the retail market. In a few months, a home-based gift shop was born. Jackie introduced original art, wood carvings, pottery, jewelry, Chippewa Indian crafts, as well as her own silk floral designs.

It wasn't long before she had out-grown the space in her home. The decision was made to re-locate. Her current location at 103 Third Street East under the name of Jacalyn Gallery & Gifts was chosen because it not only provided her, with double the space, but more visibility.

Annette's Fabrics named Business of the Year

Sixty-years of experience, top line merchandise, the leadership of Lois Steiger and hard work on the part of all of the employees added up to being named Thief River Falls Business of the Year for Annette's Fabrics.

Annette's Fabrics and Lois Steiger, owner, were honored during the Thief River Falls Small Business week breakfast Tuesday at the American Legion Club.

Annette's Fabrics, now considered the fourth largest independently owned fabric store in Minnesota, got its start in November of 1971. In 1971, Annette and Bob Bergan opened the shop at 320 North Main next to The Times. At that time, Annette's Fabrics employed two full-time employees and two part-time employees.

Lois Steiger became affiliated with Annette's Fabrics in 1973 after completing a four-year degree from the University of Minnesota in textiles and clothing in business. In 1978, Lois and her husband Bruce Steiger purchased the store from Annette and Bob Bergan.

Business continued at the same location until 1992. During that time however, the store was not without change and recognition. In March of 1981 the Ben Franklin store located next to Annette's burned to the ground. The store suffered some smoke damage but no fire damage.

In 1982, 1983, 1984 and 1985, Annette's Fabrics won the "Leadership in Retailing Award" from the Corwin Co. The Corwin Co. was a buying cooperative made up of 1,200 retail stores of which Annette's Fabrics was cited as one of the top 35 members.

Taking advantage of a warm spring evening Monday, hundreds of school children, parents and others turned out for ground-breaking ceremonies at the site of the new School District 564 elementary school south of Thief River Falls off Pennington Avenue.

Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools, presided at the program which opened with the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Lincoln high school jazz band. Dr. Duncan said the ceremonies were being held in about the area where the gymnasium of the new school would be built. He also gave a brief review of the projected construction schedule which will open with site preparation beginning Tuesday, May 11.

Winning essays were read by Carisa Hendrickson, daughter of Jeff and Nancy Hendrickson and a fourth grade student at Knox elementary, and by Valerie Basher, daughter of Dan and Karen Basher and a fifth grade student at Washington elementary.

A large group of Knox, Mark Twain, Northrop and Washington elementary students under the direction of Pat Beauchane sang the Michael Jackson song "Heal the World."

Larry Belmont, chairman of the board of education for School District 564, expressed his thanks and those of the board for the public support of the bond issue which permitted construction of the school and to those individuals who served on the various committees involved with new school planning.

Mayor Bob Reeve of Thief River Falls and Oliver "Skip" Swanson, chairman of the Pennington county board of commissioners, stated the willingness of their governmental units to work with the school board in a cooperative way to accomplish desired goals.

John Wallberg, president of the Thief River Falls Education Association, presented a plaque from the TRFEA to the community's and the school district's residents in appreciation of their efforts in support of education. The plaque was given to Supt. Duncan for display in the school district's board room.

Three separate groups participated in the ceremonial ground breaking, including six elementary students selected by drawing, each representing one of the grades from kindergarten through fifth grade.

The students were Matt Stuckey, son of Kevin and Kristina Stuckey, representing Northrop kindergarten; Jacinda Bergeron, daughter of Dale

On Friday evening Marcia and Brian came to get Jonas and Megan, and to spend the weekend at the Kanny and Margia Coan home, and Saturday Marcia, Brian, Jonas and Megan also visited at the Russ Culkins home.

NW Senior Federation Discusses Healthcare

Healthcare and fairness in Minnesota tax policy were the area of focus when the Northwest Senior Federation held its annual meeting April 29 at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

Officers elected for the coming year include Marian Gusa, Middle River, president; Graydon Postier, first vice president; Glenn Davidson, second vice president; Sam Honebrink, secretary; and Olive Lunke, treasurer. Area vice presidents are Winifred Boorman, Clearwater county; Florence Matthew, Kittson county; Leonard Olson, Marshall county; Jim Fay, Norman county; Joyce Ness, Pennington county; and Velma Sonsteng, Roseau county.

Sam Honebrink of Thief River Falls was presented an award of appreciation for his years of service as a member, area vice president, regional president and regional secretary.

Torpett said the United States is now where Canada was in 1919 when a federal proposal for universal health insurance failed due to the lack of provincial (similar to state) will and concerns regarding cost. Reviewing points of development of the Canadian system, she noted that it took 50 years "to reach the point where their medical coverage was universal, comprehensive, portable and public administration—non-profit."

Torpett said the U.S. should take advantage of the Canadian research and warned against believing "scare tactics" about a single payer system. "It's in the best interests of those trying to kill the idea of single-payer to create the worst possible scenarios," she said.

In an effort to meet the requirements for state paid staff of the federation, two new committees were formed—a Senior Partners Care committee and a Legislative Committee. Packets containing one-to-one forms, applications for membership and pertinent information were distributed to officers and area vice presidents so that they could begin interviews and membership drive agreed upon at the last delegate assembly.

Pat Johnson of Clearwater county reported on work his committee had done to enable more seniors to continue living in their homes. The committee wrote a Title IIIB grant for funds to buy phones and medic-alert buttons for 15 people in Clearwater county.

The committee also interviewed people to establish eligibility and arranged to include their program in the 911 emergency service. It is presently writing another grant request to provide the service to people on the waiting list.

Sharon Lewis of Crookston, an organizer for MAPA spoke on "Fairness for a Change" in Minnesota tax policy. She expressed the opinion that the only fair tax is a "progressive" tax based on income and said that in Minnesota the "regressive" taxes where everyone pays the same regardless of income far outnumber the progressive.

"Consequently," she said, "people who make $15,000 a year pay out a much higher percentage of their income in taxes than people who make $70,000 a year."

Expressing support for a House DFL proposal as "a good first step," she suggested that money raised by taxing the wealthiest 3.3 per cent in the state be used for targeted tax relief and critical needs in the communities.

Law agencies plan open house activities in TRF

Law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls will hold an open house at the National Guard Armory on May 13 from 2 to 8 p.m.

Agencies participating in the open house include the Minnesota State Patrol, Thief River Falls Police Department, Pennington County Sheriff's Department, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Civil Air Patrol, Border Patrol, Early Childhood Family Education Safety Town, and the Pennington County Sportsman's club firearm safety program. These agencies will display equipment used during law enforcement activities, greet visitors and answer questions about law enforcement or specific programs.

In addition to activities at the National Guard Armory, an open house will be held at the Pennington County law enforcement center. Tours will be given from 3 to 8 p.m. every hour on the hour.

The Minnesota State Patrol will also have a radar board set up on Highway 32 south in a 55 mile per hour zone. All a driver has to do is drive through the zone and the vehicle's speed will be illuminated on a large electronic board.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said he hopes to see everyone there.

Sleeper hold sends students to TRF hospital

Police in Thief River Falls have received a number of reports regarding students requiring medical assistance because a classmate had used a "sleeper hold" on the student and the student had passed out.

Parents are being asked to discuss the matter with children attending school in Thief River Falls. Police have received reports of students in elementary grades, the middle school and Ninth grade requiring medical attention after the oxygen supply to their brain had been cut off by friends experimenting with a "sleeper hold".

Police Detective Dennis Kiesow explained that the students have been asking friends to stand against a wall, touching chin to chest, and after a short while asked to stand up while the friend blocks arteries. In performing this "sleeper hold" the youth passes out due to the lack of oxygen going to the brian. Kiesow said parents should talk to students because it is a medical hazard.

MnDOT plans road project for improvement of Hwy. 1

Twenty road and bridge improvement projects on state highways in Northwest Minnesota are scheduled for this summer according to Steve Baker, Minnesota department of transportation's district engineer in the Northwest District. Mn/DOT will be spending $11,793,000 on roads and bridges, as well as $1,199,000 on railroad crossing improvement projects.

One of the projects in this area includes a resurfacing project in Marshall and Pennington counties from County Road 2 to the B.N crossing in Thief River Falls on Highway 1. Total miles of the project is estimated at 17.04 and at a cost of $671,000.

The projects will improve the safety of highways and bridges, where conditions exist that are not up to current standards, according to Baker. The projects include 81 miles of resurfacing at five locations, 16 miles of reconditioning or reconstruction at two locations and five bridge replacements. Safety at railroad crossings will be improved with signs and pavement messages at crossings along the Soo Line between Glenwood and the Canadian border and on the Burlington Northern Railroad between Breckenridge and Noyes.

Construction projects on roads and bridges will result in some delays and detours this summer for motorists. Mn/DOT reminds motorists to drive with caution through construction areas and to heed orange warning signs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS!

INSURING YOUR MOTORCYCLE

Last week's column identified the mandatory coverages for motorcycle insurance. The following coverages are available at your option.

UNINSURED & UNDERINSURED MOTORISTS COVERAGE

This pays a cycle rider or passenger for injuries caused by other drivers who are at fault and have no insurance or have inadequate liability coverage.

MEDICAL PAYMENTS

This pays medical bills resulting from an accident, regardless of fault. It covers both driver and passengers, and is usually available with a $50 deductible. Some companies will waive the deductible if you were wearing a helmet at the time of an accident.

PIP-

This pays medical bills and loss of wages of a cycle rider involved in an accident, regardless of who is at fault. This is very broad coverage, and is relatively expensive. Not all companies offer it.

Look for information on Comprehensive, Collision and Towing & Road Service coverage in next week's column.

ACTIVITIES

Sing a Song of Planting

Everyone seems to be in the mood for planting. So let's try to teach young children a few "planting" songs. These are very easy because you just put these words to the tunes of familiar children's songs.

I'll Plant a Little Seed
(sung to I'm a Little Teapot)

I'll plant a little seed in the dark, dark ground.
Out comes the yellow sun, big and round.
Down comes the cool rain, soft and slow.
Up comes the little seed, grow, grow, grow.

Flower Garden
(sung to The Farmer in the Dell)

The farmer plants the seed
The farmer plants the seed
Hi Ho the Cherry-O
The farmer plants the seed.
(adult pushes the child down to a sitting position)

The rain begins to fall....

The sun begins to shine...
(make circle with hands over your head)

The buds open up...

The flower smiles at me...

Listening Skills

Most parents want their children to be good listeners. It is a skill that will help children throughout their whole lives. One way to help young children develop listening skills is to make a game out of it.

If you have a tape recorder, use it to tape familiar sounds around the house and yard. For example, a can opener, a door bell, an alarm clock, a dog barking, a bird singing. The idea is for your child to listen and name what he/she hears. It is even fun to have your child accompany you while you make the tape. This way you can give him or her the names of the objects you are recording.

If you don't have a tape recorder, you can still play this game. Gather some noise-making objects. Then sitting behind your child so he/she cannot see you, make a noise and have him/her guess what it is.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

To continue this game, have your child try to recreate the noises he/she hears. This way your child can practice making different sounds.

Nominees sought for County Senior Citizen

Nominations from Pennington county residents are being solicited for this county's Outstanding Senior citizens, according to the selection committee chaired by June Scholin of Thief River Falls.

Both a man and woman over age 70 will be selected whose outstanding community involvement can serve as an example to others in the county. They will be honored at the Pennington county fair on Friday, July 23.

Those selected will receive special certificates of commendation from the Governor of Minnesota and their names will be placed in nomination for honors as the state's outstanding senior citizens at the state fair.

Persons wishing to make nominations for the county awards can obtain official nomination blanks by writing to Mrs. Vernon Scholin at 404 Duluth Avenue South in Thief River Falls or by picking up entry forms at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls or the senior centers in St. Hilaire or Goodridge.

Deadline for acceptance of nominations is June 21.

Judging will be based primarily on the number and variety of contributions nominees have made to their communities after age 65. Nominees must be residents of Minnesota and over 70 years of age by August 1. Previous winners are not eligible but persons previously nominated may be re-nominated.

Dayna Holland, a sixth grade student in Thief River Falls, poses for a picture with Minnesota Attorney General Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III. Humphrey was the guest speaker at the DARE graduation ceremony held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln high school gym in Thief River Falls. Dayna was one of 364 students in Thief River Falls to graduate from the program.

A plaque recognizing the people of School District 564 was presented by John Wallberg (left), president of the Thief River Falls Education Association, to Supt. Robert Duncen during ground breaking for the Thief River Falls elementary school Monday evening. The plaque will be displayed in the School District board room.

Alan Melvie, a student at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, received the Pankratz Memorial Conservation award from professor of natural resources Dan Svedersky.

Speaking Of . . .

. . . The Spring Housecleaning Gene Kicks In

I read something the other day that made me very happy. I read that most of today's homemakers are not as good housekeepers as their mothers.

I know I am not as good a housekeeper as my mother and it is something about which I feel very guilty. I thought I was the only one. Now I am very happy because I found out that I am not the only poor housekeeper out there. It seems that there are lots of us who are not as good at housekeeping as our mothers were.

By the way, this wonderful information about today's homemakers being less conscientious than their mothers came from various surveys and studies done by home economists, representatives of cleaning product industries, moving companies, maid services and extermination businesses. They ought to know our "dirty" little housekeeping secrets, right?

My mother was an excellent housekeeper. Every single weekend everything got scrubbed, shined or swept. Nothing was ignored or left for the following weekend—she cleaned everything—every week—really, she did!

Every floor was scrubbed clean and then, because scrubbing was not enough, the surface was waxed and buffed to a bright sheen. Wooden floors were dusted and then polished, throw rugs (which were everywhere) were taken up and washed—every week.

Carpets were vacuumed until there wasn't a single piece of lint or dust bunny anywhere. All of the furniture was moved so that the carpet could be vacuumed underneath of things, no matter whether there was dust there, which there wasn't what with that weekly cleaning, or not.

Dusting of surfaces was done with a smelly red polish, first with the polish-coated rag and then with the dry rag to bring out the shine. Every single surface was dusted - inside, outside, top and bottom. No wooden surface went untouched.

Glass surfaces and knickknacks were shined with ammonia and water and then dried to a sparkle, and things like lamp shades and other surfaces that could not be polished or scrubbed were brushed and dusted with a dry rag.

Wall surfaces were checked for spots or dirt and then washed thoroughly if any was found. Light switches were polished to remove the week's accumulation of finger prints. Even the telephone was washed down with a strong cleaning solution.

Then would come springtime and SPRING HOUSECLEANING! This was a different type of housecleaning, done every single year. My mother really got going when spring housecleaning came around.

Every wall and ceiling would be dusted down and then patched and painted, if necessary, and not a mop board or window sill escaped the cleaning rag or the paint brush. Ceiling light fixtures were scrubbed until they shone like diamonds.

Kitchen cupboards were emptied of their contents and then washed, inside and out. Then the contents of the cupboards were washed up and dusted before they were put back into the clean cupboards. Even dishes that were never used or used once a year were washed and polished before being returned to the cupboards.

Every cupboard in the house got the same treatment, as did closets and chests. Stored linens, coats, clothing was aired outside on the clothesline before being put back into storage. No closet or cabinet was overlooked.

Carpets were either scrubbed with a brush or sponge on hands and knees, or "shampooed" with one of those old-fashioned, non-electric cleaning utensils on a stick, but they were sparkling clean when Mom finished with them.

Before there was carpeting there were rugs. When I was very little I remember seeing the rugs hanging on the clotheslines and getting beaten up with a wire utensil made just for that purpose. Oh, how the dust would fly! Sometimes I was allowed to give those rugs a whack or two.

Windows were polished and shined, inside and out, twice a year. Never was it even considered to put on a storm window or a screen over a dirty window pane.

Yes, spring housecleaning was something major and something that was never neglected. It just had to be done. I think it was in my mother's genes, that spring housecleaning.

And you know, I find I may have some of those genes myself. No matter how hard I try to ignore it or suppress it, along with the first spring sunshine and fresh spring breezes I feel a strange feeling stealing over me.

I notice that 'way deep down inside my innards I begin to have this yearning to clean things, to polish and shine, to scrub, to paint.

I look around at the smudges of dirt and grease on my walls, the dust bunnies in the corners and under the beds, the dirt on the carpet, the dusty mop boards and window sills and the disaster in my kitchen cupboards, and I begin to itch to do something about it all.

I begin to look at the store ads for sales on cleaning supplies, mops, brooms, sponges, paints, wallpaper and other things of that type. I begin to notice other people's houses and how clean they seem to be compared to mine (even though I now know this may not be true). I feel really guilty because I am not doing the spring housecleaning like my mother did.

Some years, if I can think of a good enough excuse, I can fight the feeling and let the dirt sit. When I went back to school I had spring finals—no housecleaning those years—too bad. When I am busy at work I can't possibly come home and do spring housecleaning—too tired—no housecleaning that year—too bad. When I can take a week off of work I shouldn't spend my precious free time housecleaning—too bad—no housecleaning that year.

But there are just so many excuses that I can think up and, sooner or later, my genes catch up with me and I just have to do the spring housecleaning. This is one of those years. I ran right out of excuses this year.

I think Mom would be proud of me, because I am doing a really good job. I must admit, though, that I have been forced to do a really good cleaning job this year because everything was very dirty and needed a good cleaning after all those years of successful procrastination.

Ah, well, maybe this year's really good spring housecleaning will last for a year or two, or even more, depending on what excuses I can come up with next year, and the year after that, and the year after that.

Lilan Ni of Liaoning University in Shanyang, China, where she is coordinator of International Exchange, visited with students at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls last week.

Teacher on Fulbright grant shares knowledge of China

by David Hill
Associate Editor

How long is the Great Wall of China?

Students at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls recently had an opportunity to discuss Chinese culture, history, industry and government with a representative from China.

Lilan Ni, coordinator of International Exchange at Liaoning University in Shenyang of the Peoples' Republic of China, is in the United States on a Fulbright Grant. Last year, Lincoln high school Principal Terry Solne met Lilan while in China on a Fulbright Grant.

This is not Lilan's first trip to the United States. Her past experience, including three years of teaching Chinese at Bemidji State University, prepared her well for her return visit.

While in the United States, Lilan has visited with students and teachers and discussed a variety of subjects. While in Thief River Falls for three days, she also visited with some civic organizations. The most commonly asked questions, Lilan said involved questions about the Chinese government, Tianimen square, job problems, and from students such questions as the age limit on drinking, how old students had to be before they got a driver's license, educational requirements, and how long is the Great Wall.

To Lilan it is surprising that students in America don't know more about foreign countries. In her experience, students in China who are put through many more requirements, tend to know more about foreign countries. Although, Lilan noted that younger U.S. students tend to know more about China and other countries.

"In one of his speeches, former President Bush said 'America will lead the world,'" said Lilan. "How come?" she asks.

By nearly all measures of academic achievement, American students fall behind many other industrialized countries. In China, students attend school six days a week, have fewer vacations and are not allowed to work while in school.

Lilan said the situation is much more competitive. This competitiveness is brought about, in part, because families are limited to one child and nationalized tests ensure that only 15 per cent of all students are able to attend a university.

There are many things she likes about America. She said she likes the air here very much. Pollution in China is very bad, especially in her province. The city of Shenyang is the fourth largest city in China, and the climate is very comparable. Classrooms are big in the United States and there are fewer students in each class. Lilan said the average class size in China ranges between 60 and 70 students, and the students don't change classes, the teachers change classes.

Lilan said many of the students and teachers here have enjoyed having her in their classes and she has enjoyed visiting with them. On one of her last days at Lincoln high school she was discussing food and diet in the Home Economics class. The next item on her agenda included a visit to Bemidji State University. From there she will go to the Global Studies Institute in Red Lake Falls. Sometime in late June or July, she will return to China.

Lilan's visit was all about making sure that the wall between China and the United States is not so great or so long that our differences can't be overcome.

By the way, according to the New American Desk Encyclopedia, the Great Wall of China is about 1,500 miles long.

location in 1991 was not the end of change at the store. In 1991 the merchandise line was expanded to include antique reproduction furniture, crystal, brass, decorative accessories and more. A bed and bath department was added, which included afghans, candles, potpourri and table linens.

In 1992, a gourmet kitchen was introduced. Pasta, gourmet soups and sauces, mustards, dessert toppings, flavored coffees, as well as gourmet chocolate and candies were included. Shortly after, Jacalyn's began producing all-occasion gift baskets.

Most recently, delivery and shipping service were added.

Jacalyn gives credit for her start in business to her mother. Growing up in the restaurant business watching her mother organize, manage, work long hours and do all of the cooking was a big influence. Without even knowing, Jackie said, her mother taught her how to juggle many things at once. She taught her how to organize and to plan.

She feels that this background was a great advantage in helping with the challenges of running her own business. Jackie's father was also an influence. As an insurance salesman and realtor, he was a great talker who loved people.

When Jackie first decided to start a new business, she contacted the Small Business Development in Thief River Falls.

"The SBDC was responsible for helping me get started in the right direction," said Jackie. "The director of the SBDC, Jan Hoff, was always there to help whenever she had a question or a problem. Even now, when something comes up, I know that I can always rely on the SBDC to come through," she said.

Jackie admits that the bookkeeping part of the business was the area where she needed the most guidance. Besides needing assistance in setting up the books, she also had to find a good system for the consignment bookkeeping. The SBDC provided a "Bookkeeper-tutor" of sorts. She came to her home and helped her organize the books. Jackie adds "It was great having the one-on-one training."

Even through Jackie did not have a floral design background, she studied visual art in college, which helped her develop the basics of good design. After graduating from the University of North Dakota, she worked for a local florist for about one year. It was several years later that she started her own business.

Jackie has some good advice for people thinking of starting their own business. She says that after she had made the decision to "go for it", there was no holding back.

"Once you decide to go ahead with your plans, you must stay focused on your goals and ambitions. This requires a lot of energy and sometimes very little sleep. But, staying on track is the only way to find success. There are times when you may have setbacks, but I have found that it usually proves to be a stimulus for creativity and new ideas. It is important, too, that you keep the business interesting for people. You have to 'keep the pot boiling, so-to-speak'."

From all indications, Jacalyn Gallery & Gifts is just that — an interesting place to spend an afternoon.

Annette's Business of the Year

In June of 1985, Annette's Fabrics added sewing machines. Customers could now find fabrics, notions, patterns and sewing machines and sergers. Servicing and selling sewing machines remain an important part of the store. Annette's Fabrics still has a policy that for every machine sold, the purchase has one year of free service and the purchaser can attend a free instructional class.

In January of 1987 Annette's expanded adding 300 square feet and increasing the store size to 2,076 square feet. At that time, the old back room was also eliminated and more floor space created.

On March 17, 1991, Bruce Steiger, husband and co-owner of Annette's Fabrics was killed in a plane crash. Lois became the sole owner of the store.

In August of 1992, Lois completed the store's most recent change. The fabric store was moved from its location next to The Times to 212 East Third street across from Northern State Bank. By increasing its store space to 3,080 square feet, Annette's Fabrics became the fourth largest independently owned Fabric store in the state of Minnesota.

Customers to Annettes Fabrics will find an interesting mix of merchandice including: laces, bridal fabrics, silks, poly silks, chally, bottom weights, t-shirting, sweatshirting, flannels, calicoes, broadcloth, trim, batting, notions for sewing and quilting, five lines of patterns, sewing machines and accessories. Quilting classes, serger classes, machine embroidery classes, and beginner sewing classes are taught besides the free instructional class on all sewing machines and sergers purchased from Annettes' Fabrics.

Present employees include Lois Steiger with 21 years of experience, Yvonne Ode with 17 years of experience, Carol Penner with 10 years of experience, Renee Rasmussen with 9 years of experience, Deb Williams with four years of experience, Jan Kramer and Marilyn Harstad with one year of experience and Scott Stenvick. That's 60 years of experience.

Childhood screening clinic, May 17

A Thief River Falls Early Childhood Screening Clinic will be held May 17 from 2 to 6 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

The May screening is intended for children who will have their fourth birthday in May, June, July or August 1993.

Parents of children qualifying for screening who have not received an Informational letter should call 681-8670 for an appointment as soon as possible.

Minnesota requires all children to be screened prior to entering public school, preferably around age 3 and one-half to four and one-half.

The screening includes a family interview, a health and immunization review and a check for vision, hearing, speech, language and general development.

Early detection of a child's health and developmental problems can reduce the need for costly care at a later time and such difficulties can be addressed before kindergarten.

The screening is conducted by trained professionals from the public school system and County Public Health Services and is provided at no cost.

Children do not need to go through this screening if they have already had a comparable developmental screening by Headstart, EPS or a doctor or if they will be home-schooled or will attend a private school. Parents are asked to call and inform the school of this information.

Entrepreneur of the Year for Thief River Falls is Jackie Filipy, owner of Jacelyn Gallery & Gifts. She was recognized Tuesday morning at the Small Business Awards Breakfast at the American Legion club rooms.

Impressions ...

Beth Johnson

Did any of you read the letter to the editor in this past Watch? The writer complimented our town's summer recreation tennis instruction and then complimented our town. The writer is from Connecticut. She wrote that Thief River is the kind of place where she would dream of living. She asked if we appreciated what we have here in Thief River.

I started to think about our town we call home. Do we really appreciate what we have here? Some of us, and probably most of us at times, will question what we have, or don't have here in Thief River. Maybe it's time to once again look around us and see the good about the place we call home.

I have spent many summer vacations in Connecticut. My family, and my husband's family hail from that lovely state. But, in spite of the fact that our origins are from Connecticut, I would never want to call it home. The Connecticut my husband grew up in is gone. It is no longer the peaceful, idyllic place he knew as a child. It is, to a great extent, a continuous stretch of cities and towns. It is still lovely in spots, but one has to look harder to find the peace. The pace is fast. The traffic is terrific. Thief River Falls is about as foreign to Connecticut as one can get.

Have you experienced rush hour in any city? Have you experienced rush hour in Thief River Falls? I would say that in many cities, rush hour is no longer from 3 until 6 in the afternoon, but it is continuous. In Thief River Falls, rush hour is about 5 minutes from 5 to 5:05 P.M. How annoyed we can get waiting to exit a parking lot at this time. How unnecessary our annoyance is—we at least know that we will not be sitting in any traffic jam for hours after a long day of work! How fortunate we are!!

Have you walked in a city recently? Did you feel like you had to watch behind your back all the time? Have you walked in our town recently? Did you feel like you could smile at the neighbors and chit chat with others you met as you walked? Did you feel like you were in fear for your safety as you walked? How fortunate we are!!!

Have you breathed the air of any city recently? Did you breathe the fumes of millions of cars? Did you breathe smog? Have you breathed our air in our city recently? Doesn't it smell clean and fresh? How fortunate we are!!!

Have your children gone to school in any city? Were you afraid for their well-being in school? Have your children attended school in Thief River Falls this year? Were you constantly afraid for their well-being? Weren't you able to confidently send them off to school knowing that they would be cared for as well as educated? How fortunate we are!!!

Have you read any city newspaper recently? Have you noticed the accounts of violent crime? Have you read our newspaper? Perhaps it doesn't always meet our expectations—but, isn't it great to have such simple news to print? How fortunate we are to live in a community where the most important news in the paper is the schools' honor rolls or a neighbor's talent or a community event!!

Have you listened to the noise in any city recently? Did you notice that the noise never ceases? In the distance one can always hear the sounds of the city—ambulances, trucks, the sounds of factories and the sounds of people. Have you listened to the noise in Thief River Falls recently? Some of us live in noisier parts of town than others, but none of us can say that the noise level here is as great as any city. Here there are times that the birds wake us. Here there are times of silence. How fortunate we are!!!

Have you tried to see the night sky any time recently in a city? Did you find that the lights of the city overcame the lights in the night sky? Did you see the constellations? Have you looked at the night sky here recently? Last week we had a full moon. Did you stop and notice it? How fortunate we are to live in a place where the sky at night is ablaze in Northern Lights, not dazzling neon lights!!

You might think that I am being a bit too foolish and perhaps not too realistic. I know as well as you know that our town is not perfect. It is made up of imperfect people who, just maybe by stopping to realize our good fortune in living in our community, will strive just a bit harder to be more perfect neighbors and fellow citizens in this place we call home.

Start of the tenth annual Thief River Falls Health In The Long Run Saturday in front of the Northwest Medical Center saw 220 runners, walkers and joggers crossing First Street on their way for either the 2.1 mile or 10 kilometer courses.

Health In The Long Run draws 220

A field of 220 participants were on hand Saturday for the tenth annual Thief River Falls Health In The Long Run.

Bob Wagner of Bemidji won the 10 kilometer portion of the event in 36-minutes, 2-seconds. Janice Puttbrese of Thief River Falls won the women's title in 51:36.

John Ofstedal of Walker came up with a course record 12:11 in the 2.1-mile race, while Angie Walther of Park Rapids led the women with a 16:11.

Cloudy, threatening weather greeted the participants, but for the tenth year in a row no rain fell during the event. The warm, windy conditions apparently agreed with the runners, who set seven age group records in addition to Ofstedal's course mark.

Health In The Long Run is sponsored by the Falls Clinic division of Dakota Clinic Ltd. and the Northwest Medical Center in an attempt to increase awareness of the health benefits of exercise.

Hugo's gift certificates went to runners setting age group or course record times. Medals were awarded to the first place male and female finisher in several age categories. All participants received a race T-shirt.

Applications available for '93 moose season

Application booklets are now available from the Department of Natural Resources for the 1993 Minnesota moose hunt. The applications may be obtained from license vendors and county auditor offices. Application deadline is June 18.

A total of 445 licenses are available in 14 zones in northwestern Minnesota and 315 licenses are available in 27 zones in the northeast.

Only Minnesota residents are eligible for the moose hunt. Hunters must apply in a party of four individuals. Up to 20 percent of permits in the northwest zones will be provided to landowners or tenants in those zones.

Hunters who received licenses during the last five seasons (1983, 1985, 1987, 1989, 1991) are not eligible for the 1993 drawing. Starting in 1991, the moose hunt is a "once-in-a-lifetime" opportunity. Anyone who received a moose license in 1991 or later is ineligible for all future drawings.

There is a $12 application fee required for each party of four hunters.

Season dates for the 1993 moose hunt are Oct. 9-24 for northeast zone, and Oct. 9-17 for the northwest (except for Zone 2 where the season will run from Dec. 4-12).

The bag limit is one moose of any age or either sex per party of four hunters.

There will be mandatory orientation sessions required for hunters chosen for northeast zone, and voluntary orientation for northwest moose hunters.

Tim Bremicker, chief of the DNR Wildlife Section, noted that moose populations have recovered from population declines thought to be related to the incidence of winter ticks in recent years. That forced the northeast moose hunt to be canceled two years ago. "Aerial surveys indicate that moose numbers in both the northeast and northwest have increased the past two years, and calf production has returned to normal levels," Bremicker said.

Bremicker noted that the DNR is intending to begin annual moose hunts, at least in northwest zones, starting in 1994. "We have had some difficulty managing moose populations with the every-other-year framework, especially in agricultural areas where moose can cause damage to crops," said Bremicker. "Annual seasons will provide better control of those moose populations, while providing additional hunting opportunity for Minnesota hunters."

In 1991, 365 parties took 359 moose in the northwest, for a 98 percent success rate. In 1989, the last year that hunts were held in both the northwest and northeast, 449 permits were issued and 348 moose were taken – 98 percent success – in the northwest, and 545 permits were issued and 444 moose taken – 81 percent success – in the northeast.

Warroad home runs upend Prowlers 8-4

Four earlier starts against area Class A high school baseball teams had produced four wins for Class AA Thief River Falls, but Thursday unbeaten Warroad used the long ball to pull off a small-school win over visiting Prowlers, 8-4.

Warroad hit four home runs, including a solo and two-run shot in a 3-for-3 day by Sean Stodgell. Teammates Greg Lien and Ray Reinhart also homered as the Prowlers fell to 6-3 for the year.

Marc Haugen was 3-for-4 with two RBI and Carter Rogalla was 2-for-3 for the Prowlers, who saw a 2-2 tie disappear when Warroad bunched six runs into the fourth and fifth innings.

Workers install a satellite dish on top of Northwest Medical Center. The dish receives transmissions from the Health and Sciences Television Network which broadcasts a wide variety of healthcare programs.

Another supply of infant's shirts was provided to the nursery at Northwest Medical Center by Dave Strong, coordinator of the Minnesota Community Traffic Safety Project for Pennington county. The shirts are imprinted with a child vehicle seat emblem and the words "Keep Me Safe—Buckle Up." Accepting the new supply of shirts was Shawn Muzzy, LPN.

Healthcare education via satellite

By Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Northwest Medical Center recently invested in a satellite dish to pick up special television shows. The staff won't be watching Partridge Family reruns anytime soon.

Program topics like "Neurological Assessment" and "Managing Endocrine Tumors of the Gastrointestinal Tract" would startle any couch potato, but this type of programming provides a wealth of information for healthcare providers.

"For years I went to the candy store and looked in. Now they (administration) said I could get the candy," said Sharon Russell, nursing in-service director. Russell said the hospital had considered investing in the network for a number of years.

Health and Sciences Television Network (HSTN) provides hundreds of programming hours each year for a continuing fee. The programs deal with all aspects of the healthcare industry — housekeeping to respiratory therapy.

Nurses can watch the programming for training and accreditation. The continuing education credits can be issued to the nurses through the network or through the hospital.

"We don't want to just plug them into the TV," Russell said. "There are different ways to use it." One idea, Russell said, is to supplement existing training programs with programs recorded from the network.

Another idea, Russell said, is for nurses to learn skills by watching programs during lunch. Another possibility is the "tape of the month club," where different departments utilize one tape per month to teach a specific skill.

The new television service may also curb traveling to classes and seminars. "It won't eliminate all traveling, but we're hoping we can trim that a bit and use the money to get to more people," Russell said.

Healthline is a HSTN program aimed toward the general public and it discusses issues such as stress management and illness prevention.

Other healthcare video materials are available, but are costly to rent or buy. Such a video may cost up to $250. Renting the videos may cost around $90.

For minimal fees, Northwest Medical Center also has access to more than 4,000 tapes in the HSTN library. The center has permission to tape any show it needs and HSTN provides an indexing system for the recorded programs.

"We don't really know the full potential. I'm telling staff the sky's the limit," Russell said.

Sather receives district award

Richard Sather, a Thief River Falls attorney, was recently presented with the Advocacy Achievement Award by Legal Services of Northwest Minnesota.

The award is given annually to one attorney in the Fourteenth District Bar Association area "for outstanding legal work making a difference to the disadvantaged." The district covers eight northwestern Minnesota counties.

Sather was presented the award for his many years of outstanding commitment and willingness to accept referrals on behalf of those in need. As a member of the 260-attorney Judicare Panel, he has consistently taken numerous and challenging cases for LSNM low income and elderly clients.

LSNM is a non-profit corporation which provides free legal services to low-income individuals and senior citizens in a 22-county area of northwestern Minnesota.

The majority of cases, which are accepted on a priority basis, are handled by private attorneys who are then reimbursed by LSNM at a reduced rate.

Mental illness affects people in different ways

The month of May has been declared as Mental Health month

Note: This is the second article on mental illness, in a series of four throughout the month of May. The articles are prepared by Pennington and Red Lake County Community Support Program (CSP) and participants. CSP is a program designed to help people with mental illness improve their quality of life.

Mental illness can affect persons of any age, race or nationality. Millions of people are affected. One per cent of the adult population suffers from a serious and persistent mental illness. That means that one in four families are affected in Minnesota, making it more widespread than cancer, lung disease and heart disease combined.

Mental illness is a term used to describe a variety of disorders causing disturbances in thinking, feeling, and relating. These disorders may result in a diminished capacity for coping with life.

Just as there are different types of physical illness, there are many different types of mental illness. In our lifetimes, we all experience changes in well-being, both physically and mentally, due to personal crisis, life changes, and biochemical changes.

Mental illnesses are each described by a particular set of symptoms, assessed and identified by psychiatrists and psychologists. People may have diffesent diagnoses over time. It is important that people not be labeled by their diagnosis or symptoms. Understanding some of the symptoms of mental illness should prompt us to care for (not label) the person with mental illness.

Each mental illness has its own set of symptoms. Not all persons with a particular mental illness will exhibit the same symptoms or behaviors.

Types, Signs and Symptoms: Schizophrenia is one of the most serious and disabling of the mental illnesses. It affects approximately one per cent of the adult population. Its onset is typically in the teens or 20s. Schizophrenia is caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain. Symptoms may include: disconnected and confusing language; poor reasoning, memory and judgement; disturbances in eating and sleeping; hallucinations, such as hearing or seeing things that do not exist in reality; delusions, such as persistent false beliefs about something, a tendency to withdraw or isolate, and high levels of anxiety.

Affective disorders: Affective disorders are one of the most common of mental illness. Approximately six per cent of the population suffer from affective disorders. The primary disturbance in these disorders is that of mood. These mood disorders include manic depression, which which the persons swings between extreme euphoric to extreme depressed moods, or depression, where the person experiences severe and persistent depressed mood. Symptoms of each are as follows: Manic depression — boundless energy and hyperactivity; grandiose ideas and poor judgement; rapid, loud, and disorganized speech; argumentative and impulsive behavior; decreased need for sleep; and rapid switch to severe depression.

Depression — loss of interest in daily activities; an increase or decrease in appetite and sleep; feelings of worthlessness, hopelessness, and guilt; inability to concentrate; suicidal thoughts and possibly suicidal actions.

Anxiety disorders. Anxiety disorders are quite common and affect almost 10 per cent of the adult population. Normal anxiety is adaptive — it helps people to survive and be productive. Too much anxiety,

Minnesota Attorney General Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III addressed a crowd of 364 elementary students and several hundred parents and visitors at a DARE graduation ceremony in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening. Humphrey praised the youth and their instructors and charged the community with the responsibility of providing support for a Drug free generation.

Three local students win Grandparents essay contest

Sixth grade winners of the Northland Retired Educator's Association Grandparents Essay Contest in Thief River Falls have been announced.

Bridgett Stock, daughter of William and Connie Stock, was given first place. Cassie Stevenson, daughter of Sandy and Cathy Stevenson, was given second place. Colin Browning, son of Duane and Suzanne Browning, was given third place.

May has been declared as Older Americans month. To honor older Americans, the Minnesota Board on Aging sponsors a statewide grandparent essay contest. All communities throughout the state are encouraged to participate in the contest. Locally, this contest is sponsored by the Northland Retired Teachers Association.

Every sixth grade student in Thief River Falls was given the opportunity to enter the contest. From the entries, three judges picked the winning essays.

The best girl's essay and the best boy's essay will each be sent to the Minnesota Board on Aging to be judged along with winners from other contests in the state.

The three Thief River Falls winners will be honored in August by the Northland Retired Educators and presented with their awards. Parents and Grandparents are invited to attend.

Corrections to grammar and punctuation are not allowed in the contest, so the three winning essays have not been altered and are as submitted by the students:

My Grandma
by Bridgette Stock

One of the many people I love and care about is my grandma, Mavis. She is very special to me because she lives with me. My grandma has arthritis. Even though she doesn't feel good her spirits are always up. When I was a baby, the only way I would take my long naps was if I was by her. Also, when I was little she taught me how to play "Connect Four" and other games. My grandma also always brought me uptown with her on her Amigo. I have had alot of fun times with my grandma. Another thing is that she always listens to you when you talk to her about your problems. My grandma is also very big on vitamins. Every morning and night I have to take my vitamins so I don't get sick.

When I get home from school I know my grandma is going to be there to ask how my day went, what I did during the day, and if I have anything special, like skating, going on later that day. From the time I was in kindergarten until now, she has helped me with my homework at night. I know my grandma wishes she could be at all my concerts and competitions, and so do I. Even though she can't be there watching me, I know she is at home hoping I do well and cheering me on. If I could have one wish in the world, it would be to have her get better so she could come to all my activities. In all the times I have spent with my grandma, the biggest lesson I have learned is to not complain about

A loving father

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Any father who loves his sons or daughters will teach them how to respect and obey him. He will teach them not to lie or steal or swear. He will teach them how to control their tempers and how to share what they have with others. He will teach them good manners and how to practice moderation in all things. He will teach them to be thankful for what they have and how to take care of those things.

A loving father will teach his children to respect the elderly, the lame and the blind, and how to serve them in love and respect whenever possible (Job 29:12-16). He will teach them not to think that they are better than others, but to help others who are in need of the necessities of life (Matt. 25:33-40, Luke 14:13). He will teach them to live a good life by doing good and to live a pure life with a pure heart, always doing God's Will (Psalm 125:4; 103:21; 106:3; James 2:14-26).

Children, if brought up correctly, should live their lives to be pleasing to their fathers. They will never bring reproach or disrespect on their parents as long as they live (Eph. 6:1-3).

Our heavenly Father wants the same respect and honor from us (Mal. 1:6). He wants adults to practice these same godly principles. He wants us to repent from a life of doing wrong and sin, and come into a life of doing right by practicing righteousness (1 John 3:7, 10). This is what is expected of those who repent. This is how to repent! This is the repentant life a true disciple of Jesus Christ lives daily, glorifying God with good works (Matt. 5:16). This is the Way of righteousness that Jesus came to show us (Matt. 21:32; 2 Peter 2:20-22, Acts 18:25-26, 19:9, 23; 22:4).

The Bible asks, "Those who teach others not to steal, do you steal?" We cannot teach our children to be decent unless we become decent adults first. We need to clean up our lives first by making up our minds not to practice things that do not please our heavenly Father. Then begin to diligently teach these godly principles to our children (Luke 1:17).

God wishes to be worshiped in spirit and in truth (John 4:23-24; Rom. 12:1). He expects us to practice the truth taught in His word in our daily lives (John 8:51; 3:21; James 1:22).

In the near future, the Lord is going to punish the inhabitants of this earth with horrible chastisement (Jude 14-16, Is. 24:3-6). Now is the time to prepare so you will be ready to meet the Lord when He comes (Luke 1:17). Remember, without holiness, no one will see the Lord (Heb. 12:14, King James Version).

Will you repent by living the rest of your life to please your heavenly Father in Christ's name (Col. 3:17)? Will you repent by engaging in a life of continually doing good, as Christ gave you example to do (Titus 3:8)? If you do, the blood of Jesus Christ will be applied to you, and your sins—past, present and future—will not be held against you (1 John 1:6-7, 9, 1 Peter 1:2). This is the truth.

what you have or don't have, but make the best of what you do have. Also, I have learned that people make such a big deal out of all their little pains and problems they have, and there is my grandma in pain an hurting. You won't ever see my grandma whining or complaining. She just makes the best of it. I have had a lot of great times and learned a lot of lessons with my grandma.

Grandma Carrie
by Cassie Stevenson

My great-grandma Carrie is very special to me. She is 91 years old, and in good health. We have a very close relationship. She used to live with us for six years. Now she lives in an apartment all by herself and we live in another town. I only see her about once every two months. I miss seeing her every day. Now we write letters. I love to write to grandma because I know I will receive another letter from her right away.

Grandmas is special to me because she is always very kind to me. I know grandma loves me. She like kids and plays many games with me. She always has time for me and she cares when any of us is ever sick. She never forgets us on our birthdays. Grandma is with us for all our holidays. We have never had a Christmas without her. We always have to have lefse and lutefisk just for her.

A year ago grandma broke her hip. When she got home from the hospital, my cousin Shannon and I were her nurses for about two weeks. While we were there, we helped cheer her up. We brought her meals to her, and when she rang her little bell, we did her errands. It was fun to help grandma because she always helps me.

Grandma says she wishes we were still little. She hates to see us growing up because she liked rocking us. We would sit with her for hours and rock when we were babies and she would sing to us. Grandma loves kids. Even at 91, she likes to have all of the great-grand children around. Kids don't make her crabby or nervous. She just loves us.

I would like grandma to live with us again but she does not want to leave her hometown. She has lived there for 70 years or more. I guess whether grandma lives far or near, she will always be close to my heart because I love her.

My Grandpa
by Colin Browning

I remember that hot summer day when my grandma and grandpa came up to see us in their motor home. I let them use my room to stay in. They stayed at our house for 3 days and then they had to leave. I begged my mom and dad to let me go home with them and finally they said yes.

My grandpa died one year ago even though it seems like yesterday.

I remember when I used to go to their house in the summer and my grandpa always made sure I was happy. When I was little and he had to go to work, he would take me along and always let me play with a typewriter.

When my grandpa wasn't working, sometimes he would take my grandma and me on a picnic with the motor home. When we got there, we roasted hot dogs and marshmallows and took a boat ride on the pontoon. When we got back to their house, my grandpa was always tired, but sometimes he faked it and when I walked by, he would grab me with his legs and tickle me. When he did that, I called him the tickle monster. When it was 8 o'clock, my grandma, grandpa and I would sit down and watch T.V. awhile, and then they would put me to bed in my mom's old room.

My grandpa was a hard worker. When he was in high school, he brought eggs to the cities so he could help support his family. He also was a volunteer fire fighter for thirty-five years. During that time he became fire chief. While he was the fire chief, he never lost a life in a fire. The whole time he was fire chief, he also worked in the treasurer's and county recorder's offices. When he retired from fire chief, he worked in his abstract company.

I think the greatest joy my grandpa had was making a lot of friends and earning the respect of others.

Last year at his funeral, I could tell a lot of people knew him. On the way to the cemetery, the cars were led by the fire trucks. When everybody was preparing to leave, we heard in the distance, the town siren starting up. Then I realized how much I would miss him, and most of all, the fun times we spent together.

Mental illness affects people in different ways

however, can become disabling. In an effort to control the anxiety, people with anxiety disorders will try to avoid the situations that cause them to be anxious. Examples of anxiety disorders include panic disorders and phobias. Symptoms of each are as follows.

Panic disorders — shortness of breath, rapid heath beat, and/or dizziness, trembling, shaking, and or sweating, feeling flushed or chilled; panic attacks will occur for a few minutes to a few hours, avoids specific or all situations associated with the anxiety.

Phobias — simple phobias involve fear of a specific situation or thing where the subject is usually aware that the fear is excessive but, is unable to overcome it, social phobias involve fear of being closely observed or of acting in a way that will be humiliating, and the subject usually avoids it or endures it, but with much anxiety; agoraphobia involves severe fear accompanied by a continual state of anxiety where an individual avoids all situations, including leaving their home.

Illnesses such as depression, manic depression and schizophrenia are caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain. Mental illness is no one's fault and those afflicted do not choose to have these disorders. Mental illness is not a personal weakness and people with these disorders should not be blamed for their condition anymore than people with diabetes should be blamed for their condition.

Refractive Surgery Can Dramatically Enhance Your Eyesight, So You're Much Less Dependent on Glasses or Contacts.

Glasses and Contacts Can Be a Hassle. Nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism affect more than 100 million people in North America ... and the quality of their lives. So, if you're tired of wearing glasses or contacts for cosmetic reasons or because of lifestyle or job limitations, Refractive Surgery may be worth looking into.

Consultative Ophthalmology, Refractive & Laser Surgery.

Refractive Surgery Works to Correct the Cause of Vision Problems. Refractive Surgery has been designed to correct nearsightedness. The precise microsurgery works by changing the shape of the cornea, thus correcting the way the eye focuses light. The 20 minute outpatient procedure can correct vision to 20/40 or better in 90% of the cases, and it's virtually painless. In fact, most patients return to work in two to three days. Even more reassuring is the fact that nearly 1,000,000 surgeries have been performed nationwide.

"I chose to have Refractive Surgery because I couldn't wear contacts ... and I like the way I look without glasses." ▶

A World-Renowned Refractive Eye Surgeon in the North Country. Dr. Richard L. Lindstrom is widely regarded as a leader in corneal, cataract, refractive, and laser eye surgery. And now, select Eye Specialists in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota are able to offer Dr. Lindstrom's world-class Refractive Surgery services to their patients.

Is Refractive Surgery Right for You? To find out more about Refractive Surgery, you or a family member may want to attend a free information seminar. ## Legislation Good In Theory, Tough In Reality

In a recent release from Sen. Roger Moe, he mentions that the Senate had targeted reductions in elementary school class size to a ratio of one teacher to 17 students, noting that such a move "would also create jobs for recent teaching-certified college graduates."

Just about everyone agrees, inside education and out, that teachers can do a better job of teaching the individual student if there are fewer students in the classroom to teach. The problem has been to reach an acceptable balance between what money and facilities can be provided and the number of students that can be accommodated by that money and those facilities.

The Senate's target of 17 students per elementary classroom would be a dream of many teachers but a nightmare for school boards, administrators and the taxpayers in general. And the mere fact that such a target was being seriously considered makes a person wonder if the Senate has any kind of a grip on reality.

Let's use School District 564 as an example. Opening day enrollment here last fall showed 1,042 students in kindergarten through fifth grade. With an average of 25 children per class, it would require about 42 classrooms to provide for that number of youngsters. If the average were reduced to 17 students per class, it would require 61 classrooms—an additional 19 rooms in this district for those grades alone.

Imagine the chaos that such a requirement would cause in every school district across the state! Few districts have a surplus of rooms and certainly not in that ratio.

Suppose that the same number of students per room at present would be maintained and that the student-teacher ratio would be reduced by adding teachers per room. Adding 19 entry-level teachers would cost over $280,000 in base salaries for the first year in School District 564, not counting benefits. Spread that kind of cost around the state and consider what the total costs would be.

How effective—and efficient—two-teacher classrooms would be on a full school-year basis is also open to question.

The likelihood is that the Senate isn't really all that serious about reducing class size at all. It is probably more interested in setting up a governor's veto so he can be painted as anti-education. Politics, after all, take top priority in the legislature.

"Deadbeat Parent" Bill Gets House Approval

"This bill requires parents to be responsible for the children they bring into this world," states Rep. Jim Farrell, St. Paul legislator, in support of his bill creating "super arrears-collection agents" to collect overdue child support payments. The bill offers financial rewards to counties and allows private companies to track down deadbeat parents. It was approved in the House of Representatives by a 125-8 vote and sent on to the Senate.

Farrell said that about $469 million is owed to Minnesota parents with children who are supposed to receive regular support from non-custodial parents. The average amount of a monthly child-support payment in Minnesota is only $77. Fifty-three per cent of children in Minnesota who are supposed to be receiving court-ordered payments are owed, on average, more than $1,000.

Those statistics apparently motivated the State Representatives to pass the bill by as large a margin as they did. Opponents in the Legislature voiced legitimate concerns—including problems with custodial parents who deny court-ordered visitation rights or who spend child support payments on themselves rather than their children.

The bill would reward county agencies with a $100 "finder's fee" for each parent they locate who is behind in court-ordered child-support payments. The Department of Human Services could also contract with the Department of Revenue or private collection agencies to collect child-support that is more than 90 days past due. The revenue department and any collection agencies could tack on up to 30 per cent of the past due amount and keep that "surcharge" if they succeed in collecting it.

The bill would raise the interest rate charged to outstanding child-support balances to 10 per cent. It would also allow courts to add to the types of medical and dental expenses that can be included in a child-support order such things as orthodontic work, eye care and "any existing or anticipated extraordinary medical expenses."

If the legislature continues to get serious about child support, parents may find it to their advantage to stay married and support their kids at home. Wouldn't that be revolutionary?

Return To Religion Could Save Our Society

Writing in the "Wall Street Journal," Ralph Reed, executive director of the Christian Coalition, lamented that "religion in the popular mind has become virtually synonymous with fanaticism. Preachers are drawn as Elmer Gantry-like caricatures and their followers are, in the words of the 'Washington Post,' 'poor, uneducated and easy to command.' When religion does find its way into the national debate, it is invariably in the context of bombings, terror and cultic violence.

"One searches in vain," he said, "for a positive portrayal of faith in popular culture. Gone is our understanding of religion's vibrant role in sustaining marriages, nurturing children and strengthening families. Gone is our appreciation for religion as the basis for individual self-initiative, social quietude and voluntary civil obedience."

Reed points out a survey by Rothman and Lichter that shows 48 per cent of all Americans attend church twice or more a month, compared to only 14 per cent of U.S. media leaders. "Few of our nation's journalists, professors and intellectuals can be found in the pews on any given Sunday," Reed said.

A profile of church-goers shows 66 per cent graduated from or attended college, 59 per cent work in management or other white-collar occupations and 68 per cent have household incomes of more than $30,000 a year. Asked which institutions they trusted the most, these people gave the church a 78 per cent rating and the news media five per cent—about the same as Congress.

"The Hollywood set argues that the exclusion of faith from the public arena is tantamount to patriotism," Reed writes. "But even they can not deny that skyrocketing crime, drugs, illegitimacy, divorce, teen pregnancy and illiteracy parallel the decline in the public affirmation of religious faith in popular culture.

"....Until our culture begins to honor and affirm religion, civility may never return to American civic discourse," Reed adds. "Even more tragically, a gunman in Pensacola (who shot an abortion doctor) and a lunatic in Waco will remain exemplars of religion instead of the pathetic aberrations they are."

Victory Aides To Round Up Scrap Metal

"Get out the scrap metal" will be the battle cry next Monday as the Victory Aides, at the request of the local salvage committee and Mayor H. W. Kinghorn, start a house-to-house canvass to urge residents to dig up every last bit of scrap metal so that Thief River Falls may contribute its full share toward attaining the Pennington county quota of 500 tons by the end of June. Citizens are asked to deposit the scrap along the curb in front of their homes, from where it will be picked up by trucks next Thursday."

Pennington Wins Praise for War Bond Purchases

"Further testimony to the splendid success of the second war loan drive conducted in Pennington county in April was contained in a telegram received by Paul A. Lundgren, county chairman of the campaign, from L. C. Vobayda of Minneapolis, assistant director of sales. The message reads 'Pennington at 243 per cent of quota is one of 14 counties out of 306 in Ninth Federal Reserve district to subscribe over twice its quota. Only two other counties in Minnesota, Kittson and Hubbard, achieved this record.'"

Ration Board Offices Now In Hartz Building

Mayor Kinghorn Asks For Display of Flags Sunday

"Next Sunday, May 16, will be observed as 'I am an American' Day designed to honor American citizenship and to call attention to what it signifies. I therefore call upon all residents of this community to show their patriotism by displaying the American flag on their premises Sunday.' Mayor H. W. Kinghorn."

Freezing Temperatures Prevail Here

"Unseasonably cold weather has prevailed in this locality during the past week, with temperatures dropping as low as 25 degrees nearly every morning. No rain fell during the week, and spring seeding operations are again getting under way."

"Diggs is a man of unusual intelligence."
"Think so?"
"I do. His views in general are very like my own."

Third graders at St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls recently presented Sister Janice Miller with a monetary gift of $115 — the bulk of it in pennies. About two months ago Sister Janice Miller spoke and showed slides about the poor in Central America that she had visited. As a class project, the children decided to collect pennies for the poor. Pictured above are students with the jars of pennies that they collected: (row one) Aulaira Schmitz, Jacki Mooney, Amber Garardy, Neta Cota, Janessa Blazejewski, Heather Henson, Brienna Dyer, Stacy Harbott, Christina Wegner; (row two) Jon Steiger, Adam Knott, Amanda Severson, Becky Ulferts, Jennifer Blazejewski, Beth Padilla, Mary Jo Olson, and Jessica Stoltman; (row three) Mrs. Carol Eidelbes, teacher, Peter Mehrkens, David Chrzenowski, Cheryl Schob, Micki Amundson, Jeremiah Hunt, Philip Hermanson, Tommy Grealis, and Sister Janice Miller.

Jubilee Foods in Thief River Falls recently completed a remodeling project which resulted in new hours, an expanded produce and deli section, a self-serve bakery department, and general remodeling. "It's the finest supermarket in the area," said Chad and Greg Larson, manager and owner. The supermarket is now open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week. Management has introduced what is being called "Gold Tie Service", which is designed to improve service. Watch for a flyer in every edition of the Northern Watch on Saturday. Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors recently presented the Larsons with a More Progress award. Pictured from left are: Dan Baumgartner, chamber ambassador, Chad Larson, Greg Larson, and Jean Rahn, chamber ambassador.

Kenny Berg was awarded the Action Award for his work on attempting to change the Highway 59 border crossing from a station to a port of entry. His efforts brought together a large contingent of people from a large geographic area, which included Canada. As a result of his efforts and the efforts of others, the proposal was submitted to the government. And, as a result, additional staff have been added during busy hours. The Action Award is presented to outstanding individuals or organizations that perform some action or work for the benefit of the entire community. Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors presented the award to Berg recently. Accident!

First time in many years has there been a train, car accident on the Brooks south end railroad track, but Sunday evening about 8 o'clock a young Plummer student was struck by a freight train. He was taken to the Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls by ambulance with a headache. How lucky, he was not killed! The freight train was traveling south and caught the car on the back of the passenger side. A train is very hard to see coming from the north because of a large building on the east side of the track, and when there are box cars parked there also. More then too many times someone has had close calls at this same spot. There are no signals of warning lights, so lets hope there will be one soon, before someone is killed!

Strandquist

Spring has finally come to the Red River Valley with sunshine and rain livening everything up again. The perennials came through the winter in fine shape in spite of the extreme snow and cold we had. It's exciting to go out and look for the first showing of the petunias and clematis. If I can get Hazel to stop awhile this afternoon and help me, I think I'll get the gladiolus planted. We don't want to miss the musical that is being presented at the elementary school gym in Strandquist.

Don't forget the Strandquist Senior Citizens are having their first meeting on Thursday the 6th and they always serve a delicious lunch.

Danny Renstrom was in Strandquist today working on the walls of the Bethesda Lutheran church getting them ready for painting.

Frank and Judy Kleinvachter had birthday cake and coffee with Melvin Kittleson on Monday afternoon.

A number of friends and relatives celebrated Mary Renstrom's 67th birthday on Thursday, and Mary and Donna served a delicious lunch to all. Those present were Marcy Nelsan, Tani Kasprowicz, Elphie Adlie, Clara Nelson, Ida Bruce, Gladys Johnson, Elsie Kimbrough, Anna Rud, Lillian Germundson, Elsie Lefrooth, Walter Thompson, Pearl and Peter Thompson, LaVonne Johnson, Lois and Chris Carrico, Hazel Anderson and Myrtle Vagle. Alice Anderson came and spent Friday afternoon with Mary and Donna.

Toni Kasprowicz had dinner with Elphie Adlie on Thursday before going to Renstrom's.
